EMERGENCY TARIFF OPPOSITION GROWS AS BILL IS INTRODUCED

INCLUDES LEMONS IN LIST

SENATE PLANS 'DISCUSSION'

Steering Committee Decides It Will Not Be Rushed Through—Veto Is Expected.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—There was a gloomy outlook tonight for the Emergency Tariff bill designed to place high duties upon agricultural products. The bill was reported to the House this afternoon by the Ways and Means Committee, but Republican leaders were unable to secure unanimous consent for bringing it up for consideration Wednesday as had been planned. In addition strong opposition developed among Southern Senators, even among those who have been counted upon to support it. Senator Simmons of North Carolina was quite outspoken in declaring the bill a purely protective tariff measure.

Injection by the Ways and Means Committee of articles not in their tentative schedule of Saturday night aroused immediate resentment. The committee decided this morning to include lemons, and this caused comment among anti-tariff members of the House. Probably the most depressing statement concerning the bill was a rumor tonight that when it reached the Senate an amendment hooking to it the Longworth bill to protect the American dye industry would be proposed.

Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee says he is flatly opposed to the inclusion of any articles not already listed in the bill. Under the House rules it will not be possible to include these alien articles, the only debate being upon alteration of the duties on the articles specified. But the Senate can offer all sorts of amendments, and Senators are said to be ready with plenty of them.

Plan "Discussion" in Senate.

The Democratic steering committee of the Senate held a meeting this morning to discuss the bill. It was decided that the measure must not be rushed through, but must receive "serious consideration," not only in the Senate Finance Committee, but on the floor. Denials that any filibuster was proposed were made, but at the same time it was said that the bill would be "fully discussed."

When the bill was introduced this afternoon in the House the right was reserved for majority and minority reports to be submitted before midnight. Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, Democrat, wrote the minority views, which were shared by some other Democrats on the committee, including Hull of Tennessee, Oldfield of Arkansas and Collier of Mississippi. Mr. Rainey denounced the bill as hurriedly drawn and calculated to produce immediate retaliation by other nations.

"It might be possible to report out a more hastily prepared, ill-considered bill than this," he said, "but up to the present time this has never been accomplished."

Objection to unanimous consent for passage of the bill on Wednesday was made this afternoon in the House by Representative De Walt of Pennsylvania, a Democrat. Another effort will be made tomorrow to secure this consent. Failing that, a rule will be demanded under which it may be discussed for a limited time and voted upon Wednesday.

As sent in by the committee the bill extends over a ten months period instead of a year and imposes the following duties:

Revised Tariffs in Bill.

Wheat 30 cents a bushel, wheat flour and somoline 20 per cent. ad valorem; corn or maize 15 cents per bushel, beans 2 cents per pound, peanuts or ground beans 3 cents per pound; potatoes 25 cents per bushel; onions 40 cents per bushel; rice, cleaned, 2 cents per pound; rice, uncleaned, 1¼ cents per pound; rice flour, rice meal and broken rice ¾ cent per pound; paddy or unhulled rice ⅝ cent per pound, lemons 1¼ cents per pound. Oils: peanut 26 cents per gallon; cottonseed, soy bean, cocoanut 20 cents per gallon; cattle 30 per cent. ad valorem; sheep one-year-old $2 per head, sheep less than one-year old $1 per head; fresh mutton chops and lamb 2½ cents per pound; long staple cotton 7 cents per pound, cotton manufactures 7 cents per pound in addition to present duties, clothing wool (not carpet wool), unwashed 15 cents per pound, washed 30 cents per pound, scoured 45 cents per pound; wool manufactures 45 cents per pound in addition to present duties.

The paragraphs relating specifically to the wool tariffs read:

"Wool, commonly known as clothing wool, including hair of the camel, angora goat and alpaca, but not such wools as are commonly known as carpet wools; unwashed 15 cents per pound, washed 30 cents per pound, scoured 45 cents per pound. Unwashed wools shall be considered such as shall have been

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Julius Kahn of California, who was an actor before he became a member of Congress, played one of his rôles today in a conference of farmer members discussing the tariff bill, and as a result one of California's products got protection in the bill reported later.

The conference was called to consider whether the bill tentatively agreed to Saturday night was as far reaching as the farmers desired. Representative Miller demanded protection on salmon and was accorded it. Representative Graham of Illinois expressed a desire to have frozen beef protected and got it.

And then Mr. Kahn said smilingly: "Well, I guess I am the only lemon that has ever grown in my district, but I think the lemon should have a little added to his schedule."

The joke was taken seriously and the bill later reported had an increased duty on lemons.

INDICT 52 PLUMBERS IN HETTRICK GROUP

LAWYER IS ALSO NAMED

Court Fixes Bail at $5,000—All Defendants Ordered to Appear Today.

Fifty-two members of the Master Plumbers' Association were indicted yesterday by the Extraordinary Grand Jury, of which William J. Spiegelberg is foreman. Twenty-seven corporations and twenty-five individuals were charged with violating the Donnelly Anti-Trust law.

John T. Hettrick, the lawyer who organized the Code of Practice for the plumbers, cut-stone contractors and heating and ventilating contractors, was also indicted, and Robert Elder, his attorney, was notified. Hettrick and the others will appear at 2 P. M. today before Judge McAvoy. Bail for the plumbers will be fixed at $5,000. Hettrick's bail will not be increased. He is now under $100,000 bail.

The indictments were not directed at the plumbers as members of the Master Plumbers' Association, an organization which includes in its membership hundreds of plumbers. The indicted men and corporations were only those who came within the scope of Hettrick's operations and were known as "the 165 Broadway group."

Counting yesterday's indictments there have been 121 true bills filed since the evidence, obtained by the Lockwood committee was first presented to the Grand Jury.

Six Appear and Give Bail.

Six of those indicted appeared yesterday and were admitted to bail. They were Herbert Smith, 144 West Ninety-ninth Street; Jeremiah L. Murphy, 238 West 108th Street; Harry Hemlin, 144 West Ninety-ninth Street; Joseph H. Jasper, 108 East 126th Street; Milton Schnaier, 209 West Seventy-sixth Street, and Morris Jarcho, 858 West Thirty-first Street.

The details of the blanket indictment returned yesterday were not made public, as the document bore the names of the other defendants. Testimony before the Lockwood committee was given by witnesses who admitted joining Hettrick's Code of Practice in the plumbing trade and agreeing to pay 1 per cent. of their gross business to the lawyer as a fee. An arrangement was made to send all bids and estimates to Hettrick's office, where they were examined.

The decision to fix $5,000 as bail was reached by Justice McAvoy yesterday after a conference with Deputy Attorneys General Berger, Spence, Pfeiffer and Duer.

The indictments yesterday were said to represent the first results of information disclosed to the State by members of the Cut Stone Association, whose members were fined last week after pleading guilty to violating the Donnelly law.

Continuing its investigation of the housing situation, the Lockwood committee will meet at the City Hall this morning and delve into other trade organizations. Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the committee, believes that lack of time will prevent anything further

DUBLIN, Dec. 20.—News of what appears to have been one of the biggest encounters yet known between the Crown forces and Sinn Fein volunteers is coming through slowly from the southern district of Mullanahowan. The mountains of South Tipperary were the scene of the battle. A party of military was ambushed there yesterday by strong forces, and an engagement followed, lasting for a considerable time. The Crown forces routed the attackers, ten of whom are reported dead and several wounded, while several were taken prisoners.

Another story gives the military losses as eight dead and several wounded, but inquiries from reliable sources put the military casualties at one soldier seriously wounded.

Big forces have left for the scene.

One of the most remarkable raids yet carried out by the authorities has been effected among the Aran Isles, three in number, which lie several miles off the Galway coast. Information was received that men on the run probably were hiding there, and a sudden descent on them was determined upon. The greatest secrecy was observd in planning the operation, and only the barest details so far have reached Dublin.

That two civilians were killed and at least three wounded in trying to escape indicates that a skirmish occurred. Seven arrests were made.

After landing on the islands the raiding party stopped all avenues of escape by sea with a system of patrol boats.

Wind-swept by the Atlantic tempests, the islands are almost totally devoid of trees and the existence of the inhabitants, who speak only Gaelic, is primitive in the extreme. By removing stones, collecting deposits from niches in the rocks, and carrying up sand and sea weed from the shore, small patches of soil for cultivation have been laboriously formed.

There is no jail there, but this year it had been freely reported that the islands were being used for internment of prisoners arrested and convicted by the "Republican police." Indeed, a picturesque story was in circulation in the Summer to the effect that crown forces who visited the islands with the object of releasing these prisoners were met by a decided refusel from the latter to accept their freedom.

Two Civilians Killed, Police Ambushed.

DUBLIN, Dec. 20 (Associated Press).—Two civilians, Michael Walton and Patrick O'Connbr, were shot dead yesterday afternoon at Clonbally, County Tipperary, for refusing to halt when challenged, according to a statement issued from Dublin Castle. It was not specified whether the shooting was done by the military or the police.

The ambushing of a number of policemen occurred at Rathronan, County Tipperary, on Sunday morning. The constables, it is stated, were on their way to church when they were fired upon. One of them was wounded. The LONDON, Dec. 20.—Lady Astor was the centre of an amusing scene in the Commons today when Mr. Macquisten, a witty Scottish lawyer, asked the Home Secretary why the Central Control Board of the Liquor Traffic contained "no representatives of bona fide habitués of public houses (saloons)."

Lady Astor thereupon asked the Home Secretary if he would "consider the advisability of putting the victims of habitués of public houses, who are generally their wives, on the Liquor Control Board."

Mr. Macquisten retorted by requesting the Home Secretary "to have the regulation of all churches put in the hands of prominent atheists and non-churchgoers and also the regulation of maternity homes put in the hands of old maids and ascetic bachelors and silly cranks."

There was loud laughter at this rather cruel retort, but Lady Astor bore the ordeal well. She made one more effort to counter Macquisten's facetiousness and then gave him up as hopeless. She emitted a loud whistle, exclaimed "Oh! Oh!" several times, made gestures of despair and then retired from the contest.

WORKERS SPURN CUT AND WILL RUN PLANT

And Men Can Operate Works—Big Wage Reduction in Philadelphia Textile Mills.

NEWBERN, N. C., Dec. 20.—Beginning today, and for an indefinite period, employes of the Newbern Iron Works and Supply Company, one of the largest plants of its kind in Eastern North Carolina, are to receive all profits made by the concern above the cost of operation, in accordance with an agreement reached Saturday between the workers and the management.

At a meeting called to discuss a disagreement over a 20 per cent. reduction in wages, a suggestion by one of the employes that the workers be permitted to operate the plant and distribute the profits among themselves was adopted by the company.

Salaries of the office force were immediately reduced 10 per cent. today when the plant was turned over to the wage-earning employes for operation.

Under the new system officials will continue in charge of their respective departments.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.—W. J. Kelly of New York, National Secretary-Treasurer of the Amalgamated Workers of America, said today that members of the organization, which has just concluded a convention here, had decided to make a demand upon owners of plants, now idle, to turn them over to the workers to operate as a demonstration that such action was a necessity.

"If the owners cannot operate the plants the workers will," Mr. Kelly said. "There are too many metal workers out of work at present. This is partly due to the natural business depression following the war and the lockout by employers.

Widespread Textile Wage Cut.

Reductions in wages in virtually all the plants in four branches of the textile manufacturing industry in this city were announced tonight and it was said that similar reductions would be made by five other branches.

The first reduction was by the Terry Association, composed of manufacturers of Turkish toweling, who posted notices of a 10 per cent. cut in wages.

Members of the Full-Fashioned Hosiery Manufacturers' Association have decided to put a 15 per cent. reduction in wages into effect on Jan. 1.

The Wilton and Brussels manufacturers will inform union representatives tomorrow that on Jan. 17 they will put into effect a 25 per cent. reduction in pay.

The Hosiery Association, which is distinct from the Full-Fashioned Association, has drawn up new wage scales, which will average about 20 per cent. reduction.

The Coarse Yarn Spinners' Association, Seamless Hosiery Manufacturers' Association, Sweater and Knitted Textile Manufacturers' Association, Knit Fabric Manufacturers' Association and Master Dyers' Association are contemplating wage reductions of 10 to 30 per cent.

There are more than 200,000 workers in the textile industries in this city.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Dec. 20.—Silk workers in this city and vicinity face a cut in pay beginning Jan. 1, according to an announcement today by the head of the city's largest mills. Upward of 10,000 hands are employed in this industry in this section.

The Phoenix Silk Manufacturing Company, employing upward of 1,500 hands, later announced a wage reduction of 20 per cent., with an increase in working time.

BOSTON, Dec. 20.—Announcement of a wage reduction averaging about 22½ per cent. in the tailor shops of the Clothing Manufacturers' Association of Boston and the placing of the shops on a piecework basis was made today. The changes will be effective when the shops reopen, which probably will not be until after Jan. 1.

TOLEDO, Dec. 20.—Employes of the Toledo Bridge and Crane Company, 200 in number, decided today to accept a wage reduction of 10 per cent. rather than be thrown out of work. The company will manufacture stock on hand to keep the men busy until normal conditions come back.

BISHOP BURCH DIES; STRICKEN ON WALK IN RIVERSIDE PARK

HAD RECENTLY BEEN ILL

A REPORTER IN EARLY LIFE

Elected Bishop of New York Diocese After Only Fifteen Years' Service in Church.

The Right Rev. Charles Sumner Burch, eighth Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York, died suddenly at 12:30 o'clock yesterday. The Bishop was taking a walk up Riverside Drive at noon and near Grant's Tomb became so weak that he hurried to the home of an old family friend, Mrs. Alice M. Douglass, at 550 Riverside Drive, where he died.

Worn out by the strenuous labors on plans to rush the work on the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and other vexatious problems of administration, the Bishop fell ill about two weeks ago. Although he was 65 years of age, he had no Suffragan or Coadjutor Bishop to share the burdens of administration with him.

Several severe attacks of laryngitis sapped his usual strength, and he remarked yesterday to associates that he felt weaker than usual, but thought that a walk in the warm sunshine along Riverside Drive might restore his strength in part and give him a good appetite for luncheon. He left the cathedral grounds alone shortly before 12 o'clock.

His last remark to the Rev. Howard C. Robbins, dean of the Cathedral, was a request that the dean prepare to substitute for him at the Christmas services in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

As the Bishop walked up the Drive he became weaker, and when he reached Grant's Tomb he decided to try to reach the home of Mrs. Douglass, which he had frequently visited with Mrs. Burch and other members of his family.

With difficulty he was able to reach her house at Riverside Drive and 127th Street, and on entering the house he remarked to the superintendent, George Ridder, that he felt "very, very weak." He was accompanied to Mrs. Douglass's apartment on the sixth floor by Ridder and the elevator operator, who saw him safely into the apartment.

Asks for Medicine.

The Bishop asked Mrs. Douglass if she had in the apartment any of the medicine which she had told him to use for laryngitis when she had visited their home at 2 West Eighty-eighth Street two years ago and found him suffering from that ailment. Mrs. Douglass hurried to get this medicine, and the Bishop took a dose.

For a few minutes he seemed to revive and he told Mrs. Douglass of the plans of Mrs. Burch for the observance of Christmas, and he said that Mrs. Burch and their daughter, Mrs. Arnoldo Marson, had been induced by him early in the morning to start out to finish their Christmas shopping.

In the midst of this conversation the Bishop suddenly relaxed in the heavy wicker chair, his head drooped to his chest, and the arms fell over the edges of the chair. A sentence which he was uttering trailed away in the middle, and the Bishop did not raise his head.

Alarmed, Mrs. Douglass telephoned to Ridder to hurry out for a physician and he called Dr. Gardner C. Hirons from the adjoining house at 552 Riverside Drive. Dr. Hirons was there within ten minutes and he pronounced the Bishop dead of heart failure. Then calls were sent to the Bishop's house, and his family physician, Dr. Charles F. Collins, arrived with staff surgeons from St. Luke's Hospital. All agreed that the Bishop's heart had been so weakened by his two weeks' illness from laryngitis that it had suddenly ceased functioning.

News that the Bishop was dead was flashed through the various institutions around the cathedral by Deaconess Natalie Winser, the Bishop's secretary, who hurried to the house preceding Dean Robbins and the Rev. Dr. George F. Clover, Superintendent of St. Luke's Hospital, which is near the cathedral. Canon E. Briggs Nash also hurried to the house.

Meantime, Lyndon Burch, grandson of the Bishop, had received the news at the Bishop's mansion, and he started to telephone shops through the Fifth Avenue shopping district for Mrs. Burch and her daughter, Mrs. Marson. It was an hour before he was able to relay the news to them, and they hurried to the residence, where the body had been taken by that time.

In Office But 15 Months.

Bishop Burch had held office only fifteen months, having been elected Bishop in September, 1919, to succeed David H. Greer. He had served eight years as Suffragan Bishop of the diocese, which office, differing from that of Coadjutor Bishop, does not carry the right of automatic succession to the Bishopric.

When news came to the Cathedral of the death of Bishop Burch the Diocesan Church Extension and Missionary Society was holding a meeting in Synod

DRASTIC ORDERS FOLLOW NEW MURDER; MAYOR ASKS FOR 769 MORE PATROLMEN; CURRAN TO DEMAND POLICE INQUIRY

Legion Offers Mayor 500 to 5,000 Ex-Service Men For Emergency Duty to Help Police Check Crime

While civic and commercial organizations were busy yesterday with plans to check the crime wave, two organizations of former service men, the American Legion and the Military Order of the World War, took steps to render any possible aid to the civic authorities.

The Legion held a special meeting in the Hall of Records, attended by Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., National Commander; William F. Deegan, First Vice Commander of New York State; Bart Hunt, Vice Chairman of New York County; H. Allister Morriss, State Treasurer; Marquis James, head of the organization's news service, and Hugh Robertson, assistant to the State Commander.

The result of its deliberations was an offer to Mayor Hylan of from 500 to 5,000 former service men for emergency police work. The question of paying the men was not discussed. Although it was said a call to duty might work hardship on some men, hours probably could be arranged so there would be no interference with the normal occupations of the majority.

The Legion officers took pains to emphasize that the offer was in no wise meant as a criticism of the police force, that the Legion had made no attempt to pass upon its competency and had no intention of reflecting upon it in any way. The offer was made in a letter to Mayor Hylan.

ENRIGHT SEES WAVE OF CRIME AS FLURRY

URGES NEED OF MORE MEN

Only 1,900 Policemen to Patrol 3,914 Miles of Streets at Any One Time.

There is no crime wave and "the present little flurry I hope will soon pass away," Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright told members of the New York Chapter of the Military Order of the World War, composed of former commissioned officers, at a special meeting held last night in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory for the purpose of considering the crime situation and ways of combatting it. The Commissioner in accepting the unanimous tender of co-operation by the organization said that the department had the situation well in hand, but that if the emergency continued he would avail himself of their services.

"Every year during the holiday period crime always increases," he said. "The criminally inclined fellows, who want to buy presents for their girls, become desperate and so get busy. I am hoping that this little flurry will soon pass away."

Commissioner Enright discussed in detail the measures he had taken, and told some of the difficulties he had met due to an insufficient number of men.

"We have a resident population of more than 6,000,000 and a floating population of at least 1,000,000," he pointed out. "New York is a great seaport and has all the attending evils thereof. To police this large city we have a total force of 10,700 men, including all branches of the department. The amount of work not strictly departmental is at least half as much as the citizen expects the police to perform. London has a police force of 24,000 and a detective force at Scotland Yard of 2,000 to patrol a city which has an English-speaking and an English-born population.

"Here is how our department is made up: There are 1,400 officers, the Detective Bureau has 800 men, the Traffic Bureau 1,400. An average of 800 men are away on vacation or sick leave. Out of the 10,700 men on the force, 4,900 are not doing what you would call patrol duty.

Only 5,700 Men on Streets.

"There are only 5,700 men to patrol the streets when they are all working, but this never happens because some of them have to be assigned to other duties such as strike and parade details. The law prescribes an eight-hour day, so I have to apportion my force into three groups. This gives me only 1,900 to patrol the streets during the twenty-four hours of the day when they are all on duty, and the city has 3,914 miles of streets to watch.

"One out of four patrolmen makes an arrest every day, and this requires their presence in court. The Grand Juries and Judges do not care how long they keep a policeman away from his work, and naturally the policeman does not worry either. Last year I asked for 1,269 new men as the irreducible requirement of my department. The financial condition of the city was such that the Board of Estimate, burdened with mandatory legislation from Albany, was unable to give me more than 500.

"In regard to the crime situation, we have had quite a few spectacular crimes. But since the war, for whatever reason, it seems that criminals bent on crime instead of using bludgeons, brass knuckles and blackjacks have adopted a more spectacular means of assault by using guns. The serious crimes, savoring of the Wild West, naturally focussed the attention of the public to them. But let me say this, I have been in touch with the situation in other cities and I can say that this city is in a

ANOTHER HOLD-UP MURDER

Lodger in Sailors' Home Shot Down Without Warning and Mission Robbed.

While Police Commissioner Enright's picked detectives were trooping in and out of Police Headquarters Saturday night and Sunday with suspects gathered in the police dragnet, burglars, contemptuous of the proximity of the sleuths, forced an entrance to the six-story loft building at 202 and 204 Centre Street, half a block south of the Police Commissioner's office, ripped open two safes, drilled holes in another and escaped with loot valued at thousands of dollars.

The thieves entered and left the building through a tenement house in Baxter Street, to the east of the building, which is a continuation of Centre Market Place, the street in the rear of Police Headquarters. It is believed they carted their loot away in a motor truck, and, although they worked at least two hours on the ground floor of the building, occupied by Frank Tracy, a dealer in machinery, neither the policemen on post nor the hundreds of detectives and policemen who passed the building while the thieves were inside discovered their presence.

The burglary was discovered early in the morning when some of Tracy's employes opened the front door. Desks and other furniture in the place had been hurled among the machinery and doors had been ripped from their hinges.

Bottom Cut From Safe.

In the loft of the New York Buff Company, metal polishers, on the second floor, the burglars had wheeled a large safe to the windows overlooking Centre Street, and throwing it on its back, ripped open the steel bottom.

After they had taken everything of value there the burglars had moved to the third floor, occupied by Max H. Pohs, a dealer in leather goods. Mr. Pohs said the burglars had attempted to "jimmy" the door of his establishment but discovered it was wired to a burglar alarm.

"I had a large amount of valuables in my safe," he said, "but they are not there now. I threw the safe door open when I left the office tonight, so that if they call again they'll find I have double crossed them."

Then the thieves went to the fourth floor and forced open the door of the establishment of James Pyroler, manufacturer of picture frames. They attached an electric drill to an electric light and drilled several holes around the combination, but evidently decided they might arouse the attention of passing detectives if they blew it open. Anyway they turned their attention to several desks in the place, and obtained considerable booty before they moved to the loft on the fifth floor occupied by Schoder and Lombard, manufacturers of stamps and dies.

There they found little of value, and went to the top floor, occupied by Douglas Taylor, a printer. They turned the safe in his office upside down, tore a large hole out of the steel bottom and got $50. On their way out of the building the burglars gathered up tools of various kinds, evidently for use in future burglaries, and which employes in the building said weighed almost a thousand pounds.

These employes said that from the amount of labor involved in the burglary it was evident the thieves were in the building no less than ten hours.

Two shabbily clad men, their faces masked and blackened, shot and killed James Russell, 50 years old, as he was

POLICE TO STOP CITIZENS

All On Streets at Late Hours to Be Questioned or Searched.

EX-SERVICE MEN VOLUNTEER

NEW JERSEY CITIES AROUSED

Fear Influx of Criminals From New York—45 Crooks in Yesterday's Round-up.

Stirred by a wanton murder that marked a renewed outbreak of crimes of violence, the police yesterday put in force extreme measures of protection such as never before have been attempted in New York.

While Commissioner Richard E. Enright was directing these enlarged activities, Mayor Hylan appealed to the Board of Estimate for 769 new patrolmen, who will be authorized today.

Magistrates and Judges of higher courts co-operated with the police. Highwaymen, robbers and such ilk were held in high bail or committed without the privilege of offering surety by the Magistrates. Judges of General Sessions advanced to preferred position on their calendars all cases of desperadoes now facing charges of robbery and similar crimes and Grand Juries in all boroughs showed a disposition to find true bills in short order when District Attorneys presented evidence of crimes of such character.

Until news came of a fresh murder and of a safe robbery within sight and sound of Police Headquarters the department had been well pleased with the result of its unusually thorough dragnet operations. Forty-five men had filed past masked detectives in the headquarters line-up and out of them sharp-eyed old-timers had picked eleven men who were distributed to precincts where they were wanted on serious charges. While the other thirty-four could only be held on suspicion, pending efforts to determine if they were out-of-town crooks, the officials who had planned the crusade had felt that their measures were adequate.

Enright Frees Department.

But as soon as Commissioner Enright returned from Lieutenant Horton's funeral in Brooklyn, he conferred with his deputies and some inspectors and began prodding the department to even more intensive warfare.

First of a series of new orders he issued was one directing uniformed men to examine all citizens found between midnight and daylight on "unfrequented throughfares or side streets" whose appearance in any way seemed to warrant interrogation. The Commissioner directed that only the uniformed force should engage in this work, and ordered that in every case where a patrolman was not entirely satisfied with the account given of himself by the citizen, he should search the man for firearms. The Commissioner called upon all citizens to comply willingly with the order as an emergency measure.

It was executed in all parts of the city this morning. Many nightworkers were stopped on their way home and late revellers found themselves called upon to explain their movements to insistently curious patrolmen. No attempts to evade examination and no trouble growing out of it were reported. An unusual number of uniformed men were abroad in all sections and their persence was rather welcomed than otherwise, even by those who found themselves faced with the unwonted experience of giving an account of themselves to an officer of the law.

30-Minute Lunch Hour Abolished

Mr. Enright's next move was to abolish the half-hour allowed patrolmen on tour for lunch. This innovation was introduced by Colonel Arthur Woods to make the lot of patrolmen easier. No explanation of the change was offered at Police Headquarters beyond the obvious one that it would largely increase the number of patrol hours and avoid weakening of protection in the periods when two posts were covered by one man in the other's luncheon interim.

This order, obviously not agreeable to the men who were moved by it to renew their protestations that the abolition of sinecures they charge the Commissioner with having created for the benefit of favorites, was ascribed by some familiar with the police situation as being due to an abuse of the half-hour privilege. It was said that some patrolmen were using it as an excuse to be off post longer than the allowed period.

Official attention next was directed to automobiles. In a signed suggestion to the public the Commissioner asked all persons who use taxicabs and similar vehicles to record the licenses numbers before starting on their journeys. In line with efforts of the department, already under way, to check up on the character of licensed drivers and weed out gangsters and gunmen, the Commissioner advised citizens to endeavor to

Moves to Aid England's Million Unemployed; Government Offers Subsidies to Unions

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Government has set up a strong business committee to examine schemes of public works by which the grave situation caused by unemployment can best be met and the most useful of these schemes will be put into effect without delay. Other plans which the Cabinet has resolved upon to find useful work and relieve distress include the following:

1. The four weeks contributions qualification for benefit under the Unemployment Insurance act is to be abolished. This will bring prompt relief to many thousands.

2. There is to be spent £15,400,000 on new main roads, 50 per cent. by grant to local councils and 50 per cent. by loan. These schemes will find work for 48,000 men in London and 30,000 in the provinces.

3. Part of the new motor taxes from next month are to be spent on road work.

4. An offer to building trade unions of £250,000, 5 for each 50,000 ex-service men they accept as a member.

5. An offer to defray half cost of loss of work in bad weather.

At labor exchanges in the United Kingdom on Dec. 10 the number of persons registered as unemployed was 591,074, of whom 413,880 were men. To these figures must be added the unregistered unemployed. It has been estimated that the total of workless persons throughout the country reaches about a million, of whom a quarter of a million are ex-service men.

Owing to the sudden trade slump many thousands of workers in various trades lost their employment. The suspension of work at Ebbyvale Steel Works, at the United Alkali Company's works and in the shipyards and steel works near Middlesburgh have affected many thousands of employes.

Meantime the workless and homeless men are holding processions and seizing public buildings in order to secure roofs over their heads. Today a number of unemployed, mostly ex-service men, seized the Westham Town Hall, one of the finest municipal buildings in Greater London. There was no disorder and the Mayor told the raiders they would be allowed to remain in possession from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. each day.

Only this phase of the order was directed to the public, but inspectors in all boroughs last night sent out word through the entire force that hereafter the license numbers of all motor vehicles were to be kept clean. The practice of allowing them to be so befouled with dust and mud as to be illegible no longer is to be tolerated. Because of the increasing number of crimes in which automobiles are among the prime instruments, the police were said to be determined upon measures to facilitate the detection of criminals who fled in vehicles.

These measures, it was said about the headquarters building, were inspired by the success of Lieutenant Horton in recording the number of the taxicab from which he was shot, though he was dying when he noted it. The number he scribbled in his notebook resulted in the apprehension of the companions of the gunman he killed.

While the new orders were being put into effect there was no abatement of vigilance in other directions such as was initiated Saturday night and Sunday morning. In some sections motorcycle patrolmen toured the streets during the hours of darkness. Their places are to be taken soon by lieutenants, the Board of Estimate having authorized an appropriation for one motorcycle in each precinct.

Police Reserves in Evidence.

Police reserves in automobiles were in evidence in all the zones laid out for them Sunday night, five armed men under command of a sergeant riding in each car. One car was kept scurrying along the paths in Central Park and policemen attached to the Arsenal Station made renewed efforts to clear the park of all persons after midnight. It is against the law to loiter in the park after that hour and for the citizen's own protection, "loitering" was construed for the time being as meaning even passing through the park on one's way home.

The raiding automobile squads of regular detectives who began the crook roundup Saturday night were kept busy again last night, visiting many of the places they had examined previously and taking in more dance halls, cabarets, tea rooms, coffee houses, saloons and other haunts of idlers and criminals.

Word seemed to have traveled still further in the underworld that this time the police meant business and few as were the malefactors caught in the first raids, it was said even fewer were apprehended last night. Gangsters and gunmen who have been known to the police to go armed on all possible occasions, if they ventured out at all left their weapons safely hidden.

COURTS RAISE BAIL AND HASTEN TRIALS

Several Judges Apply Measures to Aid in Checking City's Crime Wave.

High bail and speedy trial for persons charged with robbery and other crimes involving violence were applied in many instances yesterday by Judges in several courts as a step to check the crime wave. One man under indictment for robbery, grand larceny, assault and carrying a revolver, was held without bail by County Judge Reuben Haskell in Brooklyn. In three instances bail was raised from $1,500 to $10,000. Trials on robbery indictments are being placed on the preferred list in several courts.

Vincent Pariscandola, arrested in connection with the holdup and robbery of two messengers of J. B. Bowden & Co., jewelers, of 15 Maiden Lane, in Brooklyn on Saturday, was held without bail by Judge Haskell. District Attorney Lewis, in asking for Pariscandola's commitment, declared that "too much sickly sentiment has been wasted on crooks."

Judge John F. McIntyre, in Part I., General Sessions, indicated his attitude toward holdup men yesterday when, at the request of Assistant District Attorney Frederick J. Sullivan, he raised from $1,500 to $10,000 each the bail of Joseph Tepper, Paul Schlatt and Irving Schwartz, charged with a loft burglary. Harry Franck of 193 East Seventy-sixth Street, charged with pointing a revolver at a policeman, had his bail raised from $2,500 to $5,000, and Harry Pokash, also charged with robbery, had his bail similarly increased.

Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, in Part II., General Sessions, announced that the rest of his term—until the first of the year—would be devoted to robbery cases. He disposed quickly of one robbery case when John Battaglio, charged with two other men with holding up a storekeeper at Lexington Avenue and 118th Street, decided in the midst of a jury trial tto plead guilty. Judge Rosalsky committed him to the Tombs for sentence Monday, and immediately placed on trial the two alleged confederates—Harry La Forte and Salvatore Di Cola. William Karstein, charged with holding up a laundryman and indicted for first degree robbery, also pleaded guilty, and will be sentenced Monday.

Three men who, according to the police, were trying to force open a safe in a barber's shop and theatre ticket office at 1,568 Broadway, on Dec. 12, had their bail raised from $2,000 to $25,000 each yesterday by Magistrate Levine in the West Side Court. Magistrate McQuade had reduced the bail from $15,000 to $2,000.

SAYS EXCESSIVE BAIL WON'T PREVENT CRIME

Judge Willis Brown, founder of the Utah State Juvenile Court and instigator of the Parental Court Plan, takes issue with George A. Lavelle, Assistant District Attorney, who approved the holding of Lawrence Hawthorn in $100,000 bail for trial.

"I do not think that this excessive bail has one particle of influence on any man who contemplates the commission of a crime," said Judge Brown. "Just as hanging has never checked murder, liberty on bail, pending trial, does not prevent thefts, regardless of the amount of bond demanded.

"The gathering in of thirty-eight men on Sunday, many of whom have police and jail records, as a preventive of crime commission, seems to hit far of the mark.

"The crimes recorded on Sunday cannot be identified with the 'Old Criminal' class. The Police Commissioner and prosecuting attorneys bear out the statement that fully 75 per cent. of the crimes are committed by young men with average age of 21. The record in the Sunday TIMES gives proof to this fact:

John O'Neil, age 21; hold-up.
William Metz, age 17; robbery.
Felix Shoenberger, age 22; hold-up.
Bruno Klein, age 38; theft.
John Canning, age 24; auto theft.
Edward Bruno, age 24; auto theft.
Walter Heddy, age 22; murder.
Vincent Pariscandola, age 20; housebreaking and robbery.

"I agree with Magistrate Corrigan's opinion that the statement 'that much of the present crimes is committed by men out on bail' is 'all stuff and nonsense.' Magistrate Corrigan is right when he states that there is too much sentimentality with the person who knowingly and deliberately disregards law.

ENRIGHT CALLS FOR MORE MEN AT ONCE

Asks Estimate Board to Provide 769 Patrolmen Refused in 1921 Budget.

HALTED BY A SINGLE VOTE

LaGuardia's Negative Postpones Resolution Granting Request, but Action Expected Today.

Although declaring that serious crimes in New York City are "about normal," Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright asked yesterday for 769 additional patrolmen of the 1,269 he applied for and failed to get in the 1921 budget, and for authorization to employ immediately the 500 additional patrolmen included in the budget, money for whose salaries would not ordinarily be available until Jan. 1.

Because of the rule that unanimous consent is required for the passage of a resolution not on the calendar, Mayor Hylan, to whom Commissioner Enright made his request, was unable to get the required authorization. F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, voting against the Mayor's resolution, and Controller Charles L. Craig being absent.

The resolution to give Commissioner Enright the additional patrolmen will come before the board again today, when only a majority vote will be required for its adoption. Its passage is expected with at least ten affirmative votes, as the three votes of Controller Craig, even though they should be joined with the three votes of Mr. LaGuardia, will not be sufficient to defeat it.

Henry H. Curran, Borough President of Manhattan, although he said he would vote for any resolution to increase the police force, condemned the administration of the Police Department and declared that Commissioner Enright should be removed for inefficiency. Mr. Curran sent to Joseph Haag, Secretary of the Board of Estimate, a resolution calling for a legislative investigation of the police situation, the financial situation of the city and every city department. This resolution is admitted by Mr. Curran to have no chance of adoption, but is intended to make his position clear.

Inquiry at the Board of Estimate meeting as to how the city was to raise money to pay for the additional policemen, something like $1,000,000, led to the reply by the Mayor that there were two ways—by the issue of special revenue bonds and by taking the money the city department heads and four Borough Presidents had promised to save for the $27,000,000 deficiency in the Department of Education appropriation, using it to pay for the additional patrolmen and putting it up to the Legislature to find some way to find the money for the Department of Education deficit.

Commissioner Enright's Letter.

Commissioner Enright's letter to the Mayor applying for the additional patrolmen was read at the beginning of the meeting of the Board of Estimate, called to continue its investigation of alleged collusive bidding on city contracts. The letter follows:

City of New York,
Police Department,
Dec. 18, 1920.

Hon. John F. Hylan, Mayor the City of New York, City Hall, New York City.

My Dear Mr. Mayor:

In the budget for 1921, submitted in July of this year, I asked that 1,269 additional patrolmen be allowed for this department. We could use to advantage many more men, but I believed that this number was the irreducible minimum, and out of consideration for the financial condition of the city, I asked for the lowest possible number.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment, because of the statutory financial limitation respecting city finances, felt obliged to reduce the number of patrolmen to be allowed in the tentative budget for 1921 to 500, and later on, when it became necessary to make further reductions in the budget, it was decided that the appointment of these men be distributed through the year so that I would be able to appoint 125 on the first day of January, 125 on the first day of March, 125 on the first day of May and 125 on the first day of July.

As we are obliged to train these men for a period of sixty days before they can be placed in uniform, the first men would not be in uniform before March 1, and the full quota would not be in uniform until Sept. 1, 1921.

The people of this city are somewhat alarmed because of a few spectacular and atrocious crimes which have occurred in this city recently, and although our records show that serious crimes in this city are about normal, still I believe that we should make such immediate adequate preparations to meet the conditions with which the whole world, as well as our own country and our own city, seems to be confronted. There is a great deal of unrest througnout the world and the reports from all parts of the country indicate that crime is on the increase, and we must make ready to handle the situation in this city.

I respectfully recommend that the full 500 men allowed in the budget for 1921 be made immediately available, or that, at the least, I be permitted to appoint them on probation not later than Jan. 1.

If they can be so appointed, they can be trained in a period of sixty days in the training school, and in the evenings they can be used in plain clothes throughout the city.

I further request that the full number of men, namely, 1,269, be immediately allowed, and that the necessary 769 men over and above the 500 already allowed be immediately granted, so that they can be placed in the training school immediately after Jan. 1, or as soon as the names can be obtained from the Municipal Civil Service Commission, so that in the early part of the coming year we may have an adequate force to cope with the more or less dangerous conditions with which we are confronted.

May I state here that the police force of this city has not been increased since July, 1913, nearly eight years ago, during which time an additional population of at least 800,000, or a city approximately as large as Detroit, has been added to the City of New York. In the meantime, traffic conditions have become very much intensified and police problems in general have become much more complex.

It therefore seems to me to be absolutely necessary that we be supplied with a sufficient force of men to properly protect a city of seven millions of people, including its transient population, and property values estimated at ten billions of dollars. The money which the city will invest in supplying this department with an adequate number of men and with adequate equipment, I believe, will meet with public approval and will be cheap insurance for the tremendous interests involved. Very truly yours,

R. E. ENRIGHT,
Police Commissioner.

When Commissioner Enright's letter was read to the Board of Estimate it bore the following indorsement:

"I hereby approve the foregoing recommendation.

"JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor."

As the meeting was called to investigate contracts, neither Controller Craig nor Borough President Curran, who are not in sympathy with the investigation, was present. A telephone request brought Mr. Curran to the meeting, but Controller Craig did not attend. It was learned that he had been in Brooklyn most of the day on official business.

Curran Condemns Enright.

In explaining his proposed resolution asking for a legislative investigation of city departments, Mr. Curran asserted that there were several matters which made such an inquiry necessary, in his opinion. "The scuttling of the schools to the tune of $27,000,000 is enough in itself," he said. "The nightmare of murder and robbery that has overwhelmed the city makes such an investigation an imperative duty.

"I shall vote for the 769 additional patrolmen. I would vote for three times as many if that alone would help us. We need new patrolmen, but before that we need a new Police Commissioner, for the trouble is not with the men but with the Commissioner.

"The incompetence is at the top. Commissioner Enright has the confidence of neither the policemen nor the public. While he should be removed, his is only one of the departments that have broken down. We should have a thorough and impartial investigation throughout all branches of the city government. We need first the facts. Then we can plan intelligently for relief."

5 CHAPLAINS OFFICIATE AT FUNERAL OF HORTON

Enright and Four Deputies Attend Services—Full Departmental Honors for Lieutenant.

With full departmental honors, final services here were held yesterday for Lieutenant Floyd Horton, who sacrificed his life in a pistol battle with a gunman whom he slew at 146th Street and Broadway. Hundreds of members of the force, filled with admiration for the gallantry of their fellow officer, who, though he lay in the gutter mortally wounded, managed to write down the number of the automobile in which the gunman and his companions were fleeing, gathered before the little Horton home at 1,159 Fifty-first Street, Brooklyn.

Funeral services had been held Sunday night and the second occasion to pay honor to the dead policeman lay in the sending of his body to his family home in Downsville, N. Y., where it wil be interred after a Masonic service.

Five police chaplains officiated at the brief ceremony yesterday. They were the Rev. Drs. John A. Wade, W. G. Ivie, J. J. Coogan, Lawrence Bracken and Abraham Blum, the departmental representatives of all creeds joining in a final tribute.

Police Commissioner Enright, who transferred Horton from precinct duty near his home to a desk in the West 152d Street station at the time the Commissioner broke up Captain Dan Costigan's vice squad, of which Horton was a member, stood at attention before the Horton home with four Deputy Commissioners and two special Deputies when the casket was borne out. Four platoons of patrolmen, 160 strong, saluted with their nightsticks as the Police Band played "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

Then the little funeral procession was formed with Commissioner Enright leading, followed by the Deputies and a group of Inspectors, Captains and Lieutenants, representatives of the various police organizations; former members of the vice squad, led by Captain Costigan, and a deputation from the West 152d Street station. There were three carriage loads of flowers.

The sidewalks were packed as the procession went slowly down Fifty-first Street to Fort Hamilton Parkway to Eighth Avenue. There the escort halted at salute and the hearse passed on to the Weehawken ferry.

The pallbearers were Lieutenants Rufus J. Leyo, Frank R. Morris, Louis Schauberger, Charles Van Buskirk and Daniel W. O'Grady.

The Downtown League announced it had forwarded a subscription of $10 toward a popular fund for the relief of Lieutenant Horton's family. It has been suggested that subscriptions would meet with approval of business men and others who would help establish a permanent home for the family. The Fidelity Trust Company, it was announced, was receiving subscriptions as custodian. S. S. Conover, President of the trust company, has given $100 toward the fund.

45 ARE CAPTURED IN POLICE DRAG-NET

Clue to Andrews Murder Among Second Day's Results, Says Inspector Coughlin.

Police activity on the second day's round-up of crooks in the city produced forty-five prisoners at Police Headquarters yesterday, eleven of whom were taken from the usual line-up and sent back to the precincts where the arrests were made for arraignment on specific charges. The others were detained for further investigation.

Among the latter was an informant, Inspector Coughlin of the Detective Bureau announced, who gave an important clue to the hold-up men who killed the night clerk in the Hotel Palm, at Seventh Avenue and Fifty-third Street, on Nov. 9. The clerk, Ernest Pohm, was alone in the office counting the night receipts, when two men applied for rooms. One wore an army uniform and the other was dressed as a sailor. After felling the clerk with a blackjack the two fled with $280, taken from the office safe.

Other and less definite clues obtained through the raids, according to the inspector, opened new channels regarding the murder and robbery at the jewelry salesrooms of Andrews & Winston, 542 Fifth Avenue, on Dec. 16, when Edwin W. Andrews was killed and several salesmen were bound and gagged and robbed.

A reported attempt to pawn jewelry, which it was believed was part of the loot taken on Sunday morning from the apartment of Mrs. Cecile Sartoris, at 47 Washington Square South, was also under investigation. Inspector Coughlin said the Mercer Street station had notified him that a woman had been detained for further investigation when she was found offering certain articles at a pawnshop.

"The eleven men held are charged with various degrees of felonies," asserted Inspector Coughlin. "One of them has been out on bail for several months for stealing an automobile. Others of them were out on bail pending trials. Four or five of the prisoners will be charged with violation of the Sullivan law."

Two of the prisoners said they were Harry Newman, 22, of Seventeenth Street, Coney Island, and George Graboff, 25, of 143 Avenue B, Brooklyn. Both were arrested Sunday morning at Sixth Avenue and Thirtieth Street, in an automobile alleged to have been stolen from Patrick McCormick, 17 Carroll Street, Brooklyn. Detectives Jenkins and Schuveing said the prisoners had explained crimson stains on the rear seat of the auto by saying that a friend had been hurt while riding in the car.

DECLINE IN WEEKEND ROBBERIES REPORTED

TWO BROTHERS ARE HELD UP

Another Washington Square Burglary Revealed—$15,000 Gem and Fur Theft Is Disclosed.

Week-end robberies and similar crimes, so far as the police allowed them to become public, appeared to have been less numerous than during other Saturday-to-Monday periods when there has been no unusual police activities.

James Kangil of Big Heat, Okla., was taken to Bellevue Hospital yesterday morning when a detective found him lying dazed and possibly suffering from a fracture of the skull, in front of 1,481 Broadway. Kangil told the police he got into an altercation in a nearby saloon and that he was assaulted and robbed of $140. His assailants were not apprehended.

Ralph Damore of 446 East 117th Street was arrested in a coffee house at 2,264 First Avenue by detectives who said they found a pistol in his coat pocket. He was held in $500 bail.

William and George Amann of 102 West Sixty-first Street were held up and robbed in front of the Twelfth Regiment Armory, Columbus Avenue and West Sixty-second Street. The two brothers were on their way home, when two men stepped from the shadow of the armory and ordered them to put up their hands.

Believing they were being made the victims of a joke, they were slow to comply and one of the holdup men struck William Amann in the eye with a blackjack, knocking him down, while the other robber drew an automatic pistol. The thieves then took $82 from William and $63 from George Amann.

Robbery in Washington Square.

Another robbery in the Washington Square neighborhood became known during the day. On the evening of Thursday, Dec. 2, a thief entered the apartment of Miss Mary Mears and Miss Eleanor Hayden, at 45 Washington Square South, rummaged the premises, and took all of the jewelry in the rooms and a typewriter. The jewelry consisted of heirlooms and antiques. Entry to the apartment was made by breaking two doors. Both Miss Mears and Miss Hayden are writers.

The police refused to discuss this robbery or that of Mrs. Sartoris's apartment at 47 Washington Square South.

Mrs. Sartoris said that twenty-four hours after she had reported the robbery to the police she received an inquiry from Headquarters as to whether she had been robbed. She has retained George Gordon Battle in an effort to recover the stolen furs and jewels. She said Mr. Battle would engage a private detective. So far as she had learned, the police made no progress on the case.

Theodore Busch, of 764 Tenth Avenue, who was arrested on suspicion of killing Ario F. Campbell, of 490 Riverside Drive, an insurance broker, who was found unconscious at Third Avenue and Twenty-seventh Street last Thursday morning, was arraigned before Magistrate Joseph Schwab in Yorkville court and held without bail for further examination. Busch says some one else struck Campbell after Campbell's automobile and Busch's truck had collided.

Felix Schoenberger of 115th Street and Seventh Avenue, arrested on suspicion of being one of three men who held up Melvin Feinberg, a manufacturer, in his factory at 605 Broadway Dec. 4, was held to await the action of the Grand Jury by Magistrate Corrigan in Jefferson Market Court. He pleaded not guilty.

$15,000 Robbery Revealed.

A $15,000 robbery of jewelry, feathers and beaded bags from a warehouse of the Anchor Storage Company, Fifteenth Street and Eighth Avenue, where Henry Ferber of 100 West Twentieth Street said he had stored them, was disclosed last night when detectives of the West Twentieth Street station arrested in a jewelry store at 302 Eighth Avenue five men who, the detectives charged, were trying to sell part of the loot. The men denied the robbery.

Vincent Parascandella, 20 years old, who is charged with having been one of two men who held up two messengers of the J. B. Bowden Company of 81 Prospect Street, Brooklyn, and seized a bag containing $2,000 in money and several thousand dollars worth of diamonds on Saturday, was indicted yesterday by the Kings County Grand Jury on four counts charging robbery in the first degree, grand larceny in the first degree, felonious assault as a second offender and carrying a dangerous weapon. He was arraigned before Judge Reuben Haskell and held without bail for trial tomorrow.

A fourteen-year-old boy was arraigned yesterday in the Children's Court in Brooklyn, charged with having shot a companion Sunday in a game of poker. He is William Termine of 1,113 Willoughby Avenue. The boy he shot, according to the police, is Salvatore Campisi, 15 years old, of 119 Stanhope Street, Brooklyn. At St. Catharine's Hospital it was said the boy, who was shot in the left chest, probably would recover. The Campisi boy told the police the shooting was an accident. The Termine boy was held in $1,000 bail for pleading next Monday on a charge of juvenile deliquency.

The death of Antonio Como, 35 years old, of 125 Liberty Avenue, Dougan Hills, S. I., who was shot Sunday night by Police Captain Abraham Stewart, in command of the New Dorp precinct, has been reported as accidental homicide by District Attorney Joseph Malloy of Richmond County and Medical Examiner George Mord. The explanation of Captain Stewart, accepted by the District Attorney, is that Como seized the officer's revolver while the latter was covering him with it. It went off and the bullet passed through Captain Stewart's fingers, and then through Como's neck, killing him. The killing followed a robbery alarm.

Detectives of the East 104th Street Station recovered more than $4,000 worth of jewels lost on Oct. 23 by Mrs. Sarah La Maire, mother of George Le Maire of the Winter Garden, living at the Hotel Monterey, Ninety-fourth Street and Broadway. They arrested three men in whose possession, it is alleged, the jewels were found.

JERSEY TOWNS MOVE TO BAR OUT CROOKS

Many nearby New Jersey communities bestirred themselves yesterday to deal with the crime wave, and particularly to guard against an influx of New York bandits, which they feared as a result of Police Commissioner Enright's order banishing crooks from this city.

Mayor David U. McKenna of Englewood, announced that he was determined malefactors who visited that town should be "shown the gate," and that he would do everything to prevent criminals who found big cities inhospitable from starting a new orgy of murder and holdups in the suburbs. The Mayor issued a proclamation calling on citizens to arm themselves and asking for volunteers for night police work. As a result wealthy residents patrolled the streets in their automobiles last night, maintaining a vigil till daylight and fully prepared, it was said, to repel invaders.

Chief of Police Martin O'Shea of Hackensack, realizing that his small force might be embarassed in handling the situation, if any large number of metropolitan thugs came that way, issued a proclamation suggesting that citizens store their valuables overnight in Police Headquarters. The Chief thought that was the wisest way for persons possessed of large sums of valuable jewelry or securities to safeguard them overnight. He said receipts would be given for all packages stored in the headquarters safe and a special watch would be maintained over the strong box.

Plans for a force of fifty deputy sheriffs to patrol Essex County roads at night are being formulated by Milton E. Crawley, Secretary to Sheriff Wilson. Fourteen automobiles owned by deputy sheriffs will be used. In the absence of Sheriff Wilson, who is ill at his home, Mr. Crawley is making arrangements for the county patrol to cover twenty-one municipalities, in cooperation with the local police. Mr. Crawley said the crime wave had become so great in Essex County that emergency measures were necessary.

HOW CHICAGO POLICE HAVE REDUCED CRIME

Fast Autos for Detectives—Men Kept on Patrol—District Heads Held Responsible.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Chief of Police Fitzmorris called attention to the fact today that there had not been an uncolved murder in Chicago in the last month or a payroll holdup in the last six weeks. The cells of the Detective Bureau are filled to overflowing and the Police Department has obtained enough convictions of criminal cases to break the record of prisoners at the Bridewell.

The Police Chief gave this explanation:

"Most police departments are organized on the wrong basis. They are only organized to fight crime. I have reorganized this one as a crime preventive machine as well. I believe the first duty of the police department is to prevent crime.

"I believe the strongest factor to prevent crime is the uniformed policeman patrolling the street. I began by abolishing soft snaps in the department, the special details and the swivel chair jobs. I put 1,000 more men on the street immediately after getting an ordinance, whereby I could take a detective and place him in uniform.

"The next thing I have done is to put the responsibility of the district on the commanding officer of that district. I give him the right to pick his own plain clothesmen, subject, of course, to my approval. I have a card index system of every patrolman in the city. I receive a daily report of each man, the crimes comitted on his beat and all other details of interest in connection with his work. In this way I can see whether there is a recurrence of crimes on certain patrolmen's beats. It eliminates all chance of collusion between policeman and crook.

"Chicago covers 200 square miles, and we have but 5,000 men in the entire department. Of this number 850 are detailed to downtown traffic. Counting out other jobs, that leaves 3,200 men to cover the town. I am not asking for more men. I could use them, but I do not want any more men until I can get more pay for the ones I have."

In reorganizing the department, Chief Fitzmorris has abolished the rifle. He said on this point:

"I am using the fastest automobiles I can get to convey the detectives up close to the bandit, so that they can use their revolvers."

In reference to the crime wave Chief Fitzmorris said:

"Crime is bad throughout the country right now. I expect it will become worse. But I believe that the Chicago department is more than able to cope with the situation."

In his move to prevent crime, Chief Fitzmorris has declared war on the drug addicts. Since prohibition has gone into effect, the Chief asserted, the use of drugs has been on the increase. Fifty per cent. of the crimes formerly committed by persons under the influence of liquor, are now committed by drug addicts, he said. "Stamp out the drug traffic and I believe crime will be reduced in Chicago," he added.

sitting on a radiator in the Sailors' Home and Institute, at Jane and West Streets, shortly before 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Then they held up Arthur Murdock, clerk of the institute, and two guests. They escaped with $400.

The killing of Russell was described by Assistant District Attorney Joyce as one of the most cruel recorded in the city in many years. Russell had just left his room and was waiting for John Dunn, another guest, to go with him to a Staten Island shipyard in search of work. Not a word had been said either by him or the two bandits when one of them shot him through the heart.

Detectives believe the crime was committed by men familiar with the daily routine of the institute. They think two men who were in a near-by restaurant a few minutes before the killing are the murderers. Descriptions obtained from the proprietor of the restaurant tallied with the few details obtained from witnesses to the shooting.

Thomas Barrett, a ship's cook, told detectives he entered the institute about fifteen minutes before the killing and stood in front of a radiator, where he was joined by Russell, a sailor, who obtained employment as a ship's painter in the Robins Shipyard in Erie Basin, Brooklyn, several months ago.

Door Flung Open; Shot Fired.

Russell sat on the radiator, and told him he and his old shipmate, Dunn, had been laid off last Saturday, but expected to find work on Staten Island. Barrett walked across the floor to another radiator and passed a few flippant comments to Murdock, who had just wound up a clock and was slowly walking back to the steel cage in the centre of the room, when the inner door of the vestibule was violently thrown open and a pistol shot rang out.

Russell dropped from the radiator to the floor, he said, and the next second an underaized man, with a black mask drawn across his face, stepped over Russell's body and, leveling a pistol at Barrett, ordered him to throw up his hands.

As he spoke a taller man, also masked, hopped over the dying Russell and followed Murdock into the steel cage, where he compelled him to open the safe, containing about $400 belonging to guests. As he was stuffing the envelopes in his pocket Frank Conway, another seaman, walked into the reception room, and the shorter bandit, drawing a stiletto from his coat pocket, and still covering Barrett with his pistol, ran toward him and ordered him to throw up his hands and stand beside Barrett.

The robber then noticed that he could be seen from the street, and ordered the men to move back further in the room. The taller bandit took about five minutes to get the money out of the safe, and his confederate, becoming impatient, according to Barrett, shouted:

"Hey, hurry up there! Beat it with what you have before any more guys come in here."

Dunn Pursues Friend's Slayer.

The taller man immediately came out of the steel cage, Barrett said, keeping his pistol trained on Murdock. Then he and the short bandit backed to the door, one of them stumbling over Russell's body. They gave a parting warning to the men in the room and fled.

Dunn entered the room just as they left, and finding his friend dead on the floor, went in pursuit of the hold-up men, but they had disappeared. He met Policeman Craven, who went to the institute and called an ambulance from St. Vincent's Hospital and notified the Detective Bureau.

Eight detectives in two automobiles appeared at the institute soon after.

While some of them were questioning witnesses, a policeman discovered that burglars had broke into the store of Alexander A. Salverna, an importer, at 491 West Street, less than a block away, and had taken $300 and a quantity of wine and cigars which the proprietor had obtained for the holidays.

A large steel lock that Salverna had purchased on Saturday was cut from the front door with a saw, while Salverna and his family slept upstairs. A policeman learned of the robbery when he found the door open. In their haste, he told the detectives later, the thieves overlooked a gold watch and a diamond pin, which were in an unlocked drawer beside that in which the burglars obtained the money.

far better condition today than other large places.

"A few days ago I changed the police system to one inaugurated under Commissioner Waldo. By stopping vacations and reducing assignments I now have 600 more men for patrol duty. Tonight on regular duty I have almost twice as many as two weeks ago and the men are doing good work."

Commissioner Enright said that the parole system was unsatisfactory in some particulars. It was often too easy for dangerous criminals to obtain their release from jail and resume their nefarious calling, he thought.

"I believe that the man who comes into the office or home of a citizen with a gun in his hand has murder in his heart. Such a man I firmly believe should be sentenced to from forty years to life imprisonment. I believe heavy sentences should be meted out to the man previously convicted for serious crimes when rearrested for the same kind of offense.

Uplift Plans Are Scorned.

"I further believe that criminal offenders sent to jail should not be treated better than the guests in some of our hotels. This business of giving grand opera, picture shows and dramatic performances for the enjoyment of criminals in jail promotes crime because that class cannot be reformed and they have no fear of committing other offenses when they get out because prison has no terrors for them."

The Commissioner said he thought the order could do effective work by advocating a central police bureau in Washington. He said the public would be astonished to learn how little cooperation the New York police received from other cities outside the twelve larger cities, with which it maintained reciprocal relations.

"What we need is your help and cooperation," he said. "There is no reason why we should call on you to patrol at the present time when you are not needed."

In his letter to Commissioner Enright offering the services of the order and inviting him to address the meeting, S. H. Wolfe, commander of the chapter, said that many of the members were reserve officers and as such were empowered by the Government to carry firearms. He asked if such a procedure would conflict with local ordinances. Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien, who accompanied Commissioner Enright, said that there should be no difficulty to the members of the order in obtaining permits and Commissioner Enright added that everything would be done to aid the former officers who wanted to carry fire arms in getting official sanction.

Lieut. Col. William A. Carlton advocated a generous use of the nightstick. He said what was especially needed was constructive legislation to deal with the criminal classes. The issuance of low bail bonds was unsatisfactory, he believed.

Commander Eckford C. De Kay voiced the opinion that an organization built along the lines of the police reserves could be of effective use to the Police Commissioner.

BROOKS PLEDGES AID IN WIFE'S DEFENSE

WOMAN FACES GRAND JURY

Says She Was Dazed on Night of Murder—Testimony May Gain Her Immunity.

Mrs. John Walter Brooks, the woman in the taxicab from which the shot was fired that killed Police Lieutenant Floyd Horton on Thursday night, gave her version of the evening's happenings before the Grand Jury yesterday. Mrs. Brooks refused to waive immunity, and her involuntary appearance as a witness would automatically prevent her prosecution in connection with Lieutenant Horton's death, it was said at the Criminal Courts Building.

In a statement to Assistant District Attorney Dineen Mrs. Brooks professed a dim memory of many of the incidents of the evening, including the circumstances of the shooting. She was positive that John Cavanaugh had left the taxicab at Columbus Circle on the way uptown and that he was not present when Lieutenant Horton was killed. That would have left in the car only Nicholas Loresch, under arrest on a homicide charge, and Joe Loresch his brother, killed in the pistol fight with the policeman.

Mrs. Brooks, according to Mr. Dineen, could not establish the identity of the murderer, nor could she throw any light on the occasion of the trip to 540 West 146th Street, where the shooting occurred. She said that her senses were muddled by drink and said she was only aware that some one had fired and that she had been wounded. After that, she said, she lost consciousness until the next morning, awakening in her apartment at 52 Hamilton Place.

The story of the woman's acquaintance with the Loresch brothers and Cavanagh was told at the District Attorney's office yesterday by her husband, a Chicago insurance man, who affectionately greeted her, when, handcuffed to Cavanagh, she arrived at Mr. Dineen's office.

"Some years ago," Mr. Brooks said, "we lived close to Barnard College. Near the corner was a druggist, where there was a clerk named Nick who used to deliver prescriptions to the house. I believe he was Nicholas Loresch. I never knew Joe Loresch. I think that the John Cavanagh mentioned in the case was the son of the janitress of the Aberdeen Apartments, 546 West 146th Street, where we used to live."

Mr. Brooks said that his wife preferred to live in New York and that she had come here from Chicago on Oct. 15. He saw her on Nov. 16, he said, and until his arrival here Saturday knew nothing of her arrest.

"I thoroughly believe in my wife's innocence," he said, "and I would place my last dollar at her disposal. I know she has no vicious tendencies, and while I cannot reconcile certain things I have read as being done by my wife I do not think she could do anything such as charged. Let me say right now that I am not a millionaire. I have been in the insurance business for many years and have been doing very well, but I am not wealthy."

Mr. Brooks said that he was a supervising agent of the Health Alliance Insurance Company of Chicago and that he had married Mrs. Brooks twelve years ago. She is about 35 years old, he said, and was born in Russia. She had been married previously and her name was Lucille Emma Widermann.

Several witnesses had been called to Mr. Dineen's office in the expectation that they would go before the Grand Jury. Mrs. Brooks's examination, however, took the entire afternoon. The inquiry will be resumed this morning, when it is expected indictments will be handed up.

BANDITS STEAL SAFE WITH $16,000 IN TOLEDO

Sieze Funds From Express Company Being Taken on Wheelbarrow to Station.

TOLEDO, Dec. 20.—Six men armed with shotguns and with the lower part of their faces covered by bandanna handerchiefs, overpowered ten guards of the American Railway Express Company here early tonight, and escaped with a safe containing about $16,000 in cash and Liberty bonds.

The hold-up took place on Summit Street, the city's main business thoroughfare, less than four blocks from Police Headquarters. The express company guards were conveying the safe on a wheelbarrow to a truck in the rear of the store, preparatory to taking it to the Union Station, a mile away, for shipment east.

When the guards stepped outside the store the six bandits drove up in two automobiles, beat two of the guards senseless, loaded the safe into one of the automobiles, and escaped in both cars.

ORDEAL FOR THE CAPTAINS.

Kept on Duty Twenty-four Hours a Day by Enright's New Order.

Not a police captain in the city has been out of his precinct since last Saturday afternoon when Commissioner Enright ordered them to don their uniforms and patrol the streets to see that the men under them remained on their posts for the entire period of the tours of patrol duty. Because of the indefinite nature of the order, none of the captains has left his precinct even to visit his home, and they have been doing patrol duty between brief periods of sleep in their stations.

It is the first time in many years that police captains have been compelled to patrol their precincts in uniform. Under the rules of the Police Department they are required to patrol their precincts for a certain number of hours each day in civilian attire.

MERCHANTS CONFER TO DRIVE OUT THIEVES

Name Committee to Study Best Plan for Ridding City of Criminals.

Civic and service organizations were active yesterday in dealing with the crime situation. Most notable of the organizations which set its forces in motion was the Merchants' Association, which considered the outbreak of violence at a session of its Executive Committee in the Woolworth Building. The American Legion offered the Mayor the services of 500 to 5,000 men to do emergency police work.

William Fellowes Morgan, President of the Merchants' Association, presided at the meeting of that association. Others who attended were William C. Breed, William Hamlin Childs, Waldo H. Marshall, Lewis E. Pierson and James Gilbert White. The session was not public, but it was announced at its close that some action might be expected soon. It was decided to keep secret the names of members on a special committee directed to "study the crime situation in all its aspects and to report with recommendations as to what measures the Merchants' Association can properly take to assist in remedying this situation."

Another organization which met yesterday was the Citizens Union. Its Executive Committee held a session at the Drug and Chemical Club and considered the situation but announced no action. Dr. William J. Schieffelin, President, said Sunday night that he thought the Merchants' Association, or some other body to which a political motive was less likely to be imputed, was in better position to take the initiative.

Although no formal action was taken by the New York State Chamber of Commerce, one of the most influential associations in the city, it was learned that its President, Darwin Kingsley, and other officers and members, have been discussing the crimes of the past weeks and that it was not unlikely some action would be discussed. The Chamber will hold its regular Executive Committee meeting next Tuesday.

The Fifth Avenue Association, through its general manager, W. J. Pedrick, cooperated with the Jewelry Crafts Association in arranging with Police Commissioner Enright to facilitate the arming of ex-service men and others in the employ of dealers in precious wares. Mr. Pedrick said that the usual red tape in the issuance of pistol permits had been swept aside and instead of the usual three endorsements ordinarily required the endorsement of the Jewelry Crafts Association alone would be sufficient. Mr. Pedrick said that he had received hundreds of inquiries from jewelers in the Fifth Avenue district who wanted to know the means of getting permits.

Committees of the Fifth Avenue Association and the Jewelry Crafts Association, at a joint meeting, agreed to appeal to the Police Commissioner to drive all mendicants from Fifth Avenue

HARDING IS URGING WORLD COURT PLAN

SHIELDS FAVORS THE COURT

Prof. Lindsay, C. G. Dawes, Henry C. Wallace, Gov. Sproul and W. W. Atterbury Are Other Callers.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Dec. 20.—The details of Senator Harding's plan for an association of nations have yet to be perfected, according to the impression given by more than one of the visitors who conferred with him today.

Senator Shields, Democratic irreconcilable from Tennessee, said that no definite plan had been broached to him. Senator Harding, he stated, laid down a set of principles suggested as a basis for the negotiation of international relationships. With these principles, Senator Shields said, he was in hearty accord.

"I would favor creation of a great international court of justice and codification of the laws of nations to be administered by that court," he went on. "That court should have jurisdiction of all controversies of nations ordinarily known as justiciable, but no questions involving the honor, sovereignty and independence of nations. These might be arbitrated.

"In order to prevent wars I would favor treaties providing for a conference of nations where all, great and small, might be heard according to their absolute equality and in pursuance of settled principles of international law.

"The system should be such that the United States, for example, would remain free, sovereign and independent and not be involved in the political jealousies of others regarding dynasties or territories. As Senator Harding is working, I feel there is a good chance of producing something of this kind."

Professor Samuel McCune Lindsay of Columbia University, President of the Academy of Political Science, was also here today.

"I came away," he said afterward, "with the feeling that there is a fine promise of united public opinion in support of his efforts to secure international co-operation to stabilize economic conditions in Europe and America, to bring speedy adoption of a world court, to enforce international justice, without any political alliance or super-government, and a chance for America to play her proper rôle and her rightful leadership in her traditional policies of disarmament, arbitration and fair trade for all the world."

Wallace and Dawes Are Conferees.

Two of Senator Harding's visitors today figure in Cabinet gossip. Henry C. Wallace of Des Moines, editor of Wallace's Farmer, had a long talk this morning with Senator Harding. Mr. Wallace, as head of the Farm Bureau of Republican National Headquarters, advised with Senator Harding frequently during the campaign, and has been talked of as Secretary of Agriculture.

"It is a fearful thing," he said to correspondents, "to consider that the American farmer is suffering because overproduction has left the country with a surplus on its hands, which has forced prices down so low that farmers cannot continue producing without taking losses. At the same time millions of people in Europe, and yet more millions in Asia, are starving for the need of what we have. Senator Harding has an excellent understanding of this agricultural crisis and is fully alive to the importance of dealing with it sanely and safey. We also had some talk about international matters, and I believe firmly that he is proceeding in the right way there."

Charles G. Dawes of Chicago, who was the representative of the American Expeditionary Forces on the Allied Purchasing Board and whose friends would like to see him Secretary of the Treasury, was another of Senator Harding's visitors. Mr. Dawes said afterward:

"Senator Harding asked me to stop off some time and see him in connection with the subject of the reduction of governmental expenses and its relation to taxation, upon which I had written some magazine articles. I found that Senator Harding already knew more concerning this than I did, and that the effort to reorganize Government business methods upon an economical basis is one of the great tasks to which he proposes to set himself most energetically. From my conversation with him it is evident that in the formation of his Administration he has this great and needed reform constantly in his mind.

"With the present uncoördinated condition of Government business, especially considering the fact that no continued and firm effort has been made to rectify it since the beginning of our Government, this determination of the President-elect to make this reform will be accomplished. If the people of the country are thus relieved of a large part of the present enormous burden of taxation, it means that the chief obstacle in the way of a resumption of normal business activity is removed.

"I did not discuss with Senator Harding his views upon the international situation."

There was talk here as to whether Mr. Dawes might not be asked to head a commission to study methods of reorganizing Federal departments upon a business basis. Herbert Hoover has been mentioned in connection with the same work.

Present Pennsylvania's Claims.

Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania and W. W. Atterbury, Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, had a conference with Senator Harding this morning. They said that foreign relations were not discussed. The understanding is that the talk had to do with Pennsylvania politics and recognition of the State in the Cabinet. Governor Sproul has been associated with Senator Knox, and it is understood here that when the Governor saw Senator Penrose last week he gave assurances that should Mr. Knox go into the Cabinet a Senator friendly to Mr Penrose would be appointed in his place.

Representative Bascom S. Slemp, National Committeeman for Virginia, came here today at Senator Harding's invitation to discuss the political situation in the South. He took occasion to urge the President-elect to consider Hot Springs or White Sulphur Springs for his vacation plans.

Former Governor Frank B. Willis, Senator-elect from Ohio, consulted Senator Harding about Governor Cox's offer to appoint Mr. Willis Senator should the President-elect care to resign his seat before the inauguration of Harry M. Davis, Republican Governor-elect. Mr. Willis said that no decision would be made until he had talked with Senator Harding again.

RESENTS BRITISH FLAG.

Special to the New York Times.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 20.—Leonard S. Willard of Rye entertained two Englishmen, one of them said to be a man of military fame, at dinner last night. In their honor he hoisted the British flag to the top of a tall flagpole on the grounds of his estate.

Some Irishmen protested to the police that the American flag was not displayed above it. A policeman was sent to the house and Mr. Willard at once placed the American flag above the Union Jack.

Some one evidently not satisfied with the amends offered visited the Willard place early this morning, sawed through the pole at its base and let it topple to the ground.

BISHOP BURCH DIES; STRICKEN ON WALK

Hall. There were twenty clergymen of the diocese in attendance. Archdeacon William H. Pott made the announcement. The meeting immediately adjourned and those present walked in silence from Synod Hall over to the Cathedral and there engaged in prayer, led by Dr. Pott.

Members of the standing committee of the diocese were immediately notified officially of the death of Bishop Burch. This committee will be in charge until the election of a new Bishop. The President of the standing committee is the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, rector of St. Thomas's Church, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street. The Secretary is George Zabriskie, lawyer, of 49 Wall Street. He was to have left today for Colorado, but he immediately postponed his departure.

The only other member of the Bishop's family who was absent from the city was Albert A. Burch, his son, whose home is in Clyde, Ohio. He was notified by telegraph. Official notices also were sent out to all the churches in the diocese.

It is probable that the funeral services will be held in the Cathedral on Friday. The body will lie in state there and may remain in one of the chapels where crypts were set aside by Bishops Potter and Greer. Mourning was placed over Protestant Episcopal churches in the diocese last night and work of placing purple and black of mourning on the Cathedral of St. John the Divine was begun.

Charles Sumner Burch was the eighth Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York, and although he served in that office only for the comparatively short time of fifteen months, he had taken an active part in the affairs of the diocese during his term of eight years as Suffragan Bishop. He had been the chief assistant of Bishop David Hummel Greer from 1911 and, under the English method of diocesan management, had gradually taken over many of the duties of Bishop Greer.

Although ambitious from early school days to become a clerical of his church it was not until he was about 50 years old that he was ordained priest. Most of the years preceding his ordination had been spent in the newspaper business, although for ten years before he began to devote his energies solely to the Church he had served as deacon and in other offices of his church. Fourteen years after his ordination—on Sept. 17, 1919—he was elected to head the largest and richest Protestant Episcopal diocese in this country. That was only one of many unusual things in the life of an unusual man and Bishop.

Turns From Press to Church.

Charles Sumner Burch was born in Pinckney, Mich., on June 30, 1855, and all the years of his life were spent in and about his native State until he undertook his first parish work on Staten Island in 1905. His father, Lawrence D. Burch, was a writer, and it was from him that he received encouragement to devote his life to some kind of literary work. From his mother, who was Emily Dunning, he received the impetus to devote this inherent aptness of expression to the service of the Church.

After he had finished the schools at the home of his parents, he gathered together sufficient money to carry him through to the degree of Bachelor of Arts in the University of Michigan. Then he was delayed for years in his determination to continue his studies for the ministry and, although he labored hard to achieve a goal that had been placed before his eyes years before by the wishes of his mother, he was more than a decade beyond the usual age for ordination when he was finally ready to enter the service of the church.

After a question as to whether he did not think it unusual for the church to recruit a bishop from the newspaper business, the Bishop once replied:

"Perhaps so, but I was a lay reader while yet in journalism. I think the most appreciated honor of my life was my election to the editorship of the University Chronicle, the college paper, except being made first baseman on the college baseball nine. My journalistic beginnings were as correspondent for the Detroit Union, now defunct, but which became the powerful Detroit News. James S. Scripps was my chief.

"Later I was connected with an iron and steel journal, the Industrial World, in Chicago. Then for several years I went into general publishing, having charge of the Joliet Sun and the Kansas City Argo. Finally, I was editor and manager of the Grand Rapids Evening Press for nine years."

Ordained in 1905.

The story of his attempt through years to get what he thought would be an adequate educational preparation for a life of service to the church is a story of a busy man in one field prevented frequently by duties and obligations from fitting himself by study for unselfish work in another field. But he finally overcame every obstacle, finished his course in the Western Theological Seminary in Chicago, and was ordained priest by Bishop McLaren in 1905.

He studied in Germany and England and was at Oxford with Bishop Greer, then Coadjutor Bishop, when that prelate received a message that the death of Bishop Potter had made him Bishop of the New York Diocese through the right of succession that attaches to the office of Coadjutor. Recognizing Bishop Burch's studies in Church history and other branches of ecclesiastical knowledge, seven universities had conferred honorary degrees upon him. They were: D. D., St. John's, Maryland, 1908; S. T. D., Hobart, 1909; S. T. D., Columbia, 1911; LL. D., University of Michigan, 1912, and D. D., University of the South, 1913.

His first and only assignment to the rectorship of a church was to St. Andrew's at Stapleton, S. I., where he remained for five years. Before he received that church assignment he had served for brief periods at Christ Church, New Brighton, S. I., and St. John's, Clifton, S. I., so that all his parish work was done on Staten Island and virtually all of his church work within the diocese of which he became the Bishop in such comparatively short time after entering the service of the Church.

In the later years of his service on Staten Island he was Archdeacon, and it was said of him that he knew the island, not only in its churches of all faiths, but in all its other institutions, better than any policeman or man of any other calling. He knew all of the communicants by name, and it was this long practice in the memory of names, faces and facts which, carried into the New York Diocese when he became Suffragan Bishop, that was largely responsible for his election as Bishop to succeed David Hummel Greer. It was set forward that he knew the 430 clergy and 100,000 church members better than any other eligible prelate, and the rural churches of the diocese cast for Bishop Burch what virtually amounted to a single ballot.

BISHOP CHARLES SUMNER BURCH

Worked Among Prisoners.

While he was on Staten Island, the Bishop undertook extensive missionary work in the Italian communities there and several missions were established in his and other parishes. He also found time to work for years among the prisoners in the Tombs and various other city prisoners—a work that he undertook because of the early knowledge of prison conditions he had gained as a police reporter.

Thoroughness in the church work on Staten Island attracted the attention of Bishop Greer, who was Coadjutor with Bishop Potter, an dthe succession of Bishop Greer to the high office at the head of the diocese made vacant the place for which it was deemed that the rector of St. Andrew's was fitted by achievement and training. He was consecrated Suffragan Bishop on Feb. 24, 1911.

His duties were virtually the same as those of Bishop Greer when he was Coadjutor, except that the Suffragan does not succeed to the Bishopric upon the death of the Bishop. A new Bishop is elected, and the Suffragan may or may not be chosen—generally is not. The Suffragan has the same rights and privileges as a Bishop, except a vote in the House of Bishops.

Bishop Burch's first work in his new office was the extension of the missionary field among churches in the smaller towns in the counties outside this city, and this work made him so popular among clergy and church members that he was the favorite candidate for the bishopric upon the death of Bishop Greer. Later his work took him to every parish in the diocese as Bishop Greer, in declining health, came to relinquish more and more of his duties to his Suffragan Bishop.

Bishop Greer was elected Bishop at a special diocesan convention held in Synod Hall at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine on Sept. 17, 1919, and he was installed as Bishop at ceremonies in the Cathedral on Sept. 28, 1919. The other principal candidates at the election were the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity Parish; the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires of St. Thomas's, and the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Slattery of Grace Church. Bishop Burch was elected on the third ballot, and the other candidates united in a motion to make the choice unanimous.

Although he had exercised most of the duties of the office of bishop since the death of Bishop Greer, Bishop Burch immediately set upon the immediate problems of the diocese with new vigor and with the declaration:

"I intend to be Bishop of the whole diocese, regardless of any party or prejudice. There will be no politics in my work. I dislike ecclesiastical politics and I will not tolerate it."

One of the great aims of his administration was to push the work upon the uncompleted Cathedral, and it was largely due to his endeavors that plans were made to begin the work on the Cathedral nave on next April 1. Contracts were let last April for the cutting of granite for the nave proper, which is to cost about $3,000,000, and other plans were under way for an endowment fund of $2,000,000 for that part of the edifice.

Many of these plans had been initiated by Bishop Greer in consultation with Bishop Burch, and the last Bishop elaborated the methods that had already been formulated in their consultations. His plan was to build the nave at the rate of about $500,000 a year, and it was his desire to see the edifice well on its way to towering completion before death ended his administration.

One of his utterances that received wide attention was the letter to the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant protesting against the use of the Church of the Ascension "as a meeting place for a forum, to which are not infrequently invited as speakers men who do not believe in God, who professedly are opposed to the Government, clearly showing their irreverence for constituted authority."

Upheld by Convention.

There was a sharp division of views on deportation and many other subjects between the Bishop and the rector, but the differences were composed by exchange of communications. The diocesan convention upheld the Bishop in his stand upon the use of church edifices as forums and the Church of the Ascension Forum was moved to the parish house.

Bishop Burch was one of fifty-two American prelates who attended the Lambeth conference of the Protestant Episcopal Church in England early this year, where he took an active part in the discussions of problems affecting the Church and its relations to government and social problems. He came back with the opinion that there should be closer co-operation of all the churches and that women should have a larger sphere in the Church and ministry and even should be invited to preach from the pulpits. Shortly after his return, Bishop Burch was elected President of the Episcopal Synod of the Province of New York and New Jersey.

Bishop Burch married Margaret Hadley of Detroit on Nov. 29, 1876, and they had two children, Margaret, and Albert A. Burch, now of Clyde, Ohio.

It was frequently observed by persons who saw Bishop Burch that he not only acted but looked the part of the Bishop. He was a large man physically, about 6 feet 2 inches tall, and of fine appearance.

PAY TRIBUTES TO BISHOP.

Church Leaders Join in Eulogizing Prelate's Life and Service.

The Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, rector of St. Thomas's Church:

"The Diocese of New York has had bishops with unusual gifts of intellect, eloquence or statesmanship, but the diocese has never had a bishop more conscientious in the determination of duty nor more faithful in fulfillment than Bishop Burch. His sympathy was unfailing, and because he loved much he was universally beloved. During the single year of his episcopate all his fine qualities deepened and broadened. This was observed in the General Convention meeting in Detroit in October, 1919, and was particularly remarked upon his return from the Lambeth Conference last Summer."

Dean Howard Chandler Robbins of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine:

"Bishop Burch has quite literally given his life for the Diocese of New York. He never spared himself a single labor for which he had time and strength, but met the multitudinous demands of his great office with the zeal and loving kindness of a devoted priest who has his people always in his heart. The whole diocese will be conscious of intimate and personal bereavement in the death of one so faithful and so beloved."

Bishop Edwin S. Lines of Newark:

"A hard and difficult task had come to Bishop Burch, and I think he was meeting it with his whole mind and heart, and was doing it well. He and I were very good friends, and I have every reason to think of him with the most affectionate regard. I think he was winning a similar place in the minds of all who knew him."

"He was a man you could go to with your individual troubles, your parish troubles, and be assured of a sympathetic hearing. Personally, I was very fond of Bishop Burch. He had many problems to face as the result of new conditions, problems which often involved outbreaks of temperament in his diocese, but he always handled them in a splendid manner."

The Rev. Dr. Milo H. Gates, rector of the Chapel of the Intercession, Trinity Parish:

"I consider Bishop Burch one of the purest Christians the Church ever had. He had a great heart and he never spared himself in Christ's service. He was one of the best loved men by all classes in the Episcopal Church in this State."

GIVE CHRISTMAS DANCE.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin and Mr. and Mrs. Church Entertain for Children.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rumsey Marvin of 701 Madison Avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Frederic E. Church of 550 Park Avenue were hosts and hostesses at a Christmas dance last night at the Plaza for their children, Miss Charlotte D. Church and Miss Judith H. Marvin, who are home from the Farmington and Spence Schools respectively, and for Rumsey Marvin, a Yale undergraduate, also home for the holidays. These young people are not yet out and the 250 guests were chiefly of the younger set, with a sprinkling of this Winter's buds, and the young men were chiefly college boys. Mrs. Church, Mrs. Marvin, Miss Marvin and Miss Church received together in the Rose Room, dancing beginning about 9 and supper being served at 11:30.

Many dinners preceded the dance. Mrs. Colgate Hoyt gave one, which Miss Church attended, and Miss Marvin went to that at which Mrs. Walter Damrosch was the hostess. Mrs. Howard Borden and Mrs. George Dallas Yeomans also gave dinners.

Among the guests were the Misses Mary Alice Barney, Mimi Brokaw, Margaret and Ann Phelps, Leila and Ruth Baldwin, Betty Stettinius, Laura Harding, Georgina L. Wells, Barbara Whitney, Louise V. Schieffelin, Mary Burchell, Lee Dodge, Helen and Margaret Schniewind, Helen Rice, Adeline Kelly, Sally Sage, Barbara and Adelaide Hooker, Susan Gibney, Eleanor Flagg, Julia Fincke, Katharine Rogers, Katharine Francis, Mary Van R. Cogswell, Sarnia Marquand, Betty Wolcott Merchant, Clara Workum, Elizabeth Meeker, Margery Andrews, Adrienne Sharp, Charlotte K. Demorest and Betty Robbins.

A locomotive that maintains a consistent speed of 50 miles an hour will reach Chicago quicker than a locomotive, running 70 miles an hour, that develops engine trouble one hour and a hot box the next.

There are plenty of investments in the market today that look very good for a short haul, but an investment that is good only for a short haul is no investment.

Prudence-Bonds not alone pay 6%, but keep on paying it, and grow stronger the longer they run, because they are secured by conservative first mortgages that are systematically reduced by serial payments, thus expanding the equities and decreasing the loans.

They are also guaranteed as to interest and principal by our entire capital and surplus and are an ideal investment for people who are seeking a safe and sane yield for their January funds.

Rainey Fears Retaliation.

The minority report offered tonight by Representative Rainey in part said:

"This bill has been prepared practically without hearings. A few representatives of the cattle and sheep industries of the West appeared before the committee testifying to lack of markets and deplorable depression in the industries in which they were interested. That was all. No experts have been examined by the committee. The large amount of information compiled by the Tariff Commission was not available at the time the bill was reported out by the committee and is not now available. The bill has been hurriedly prepared without consideration. The rates imposed are believed to be absolutely prohibitory.

"This bill amounts to an embargo in time of peace as to the articles to which it relates. In the history of the world no commercial nation ever before established or attempted to establish an embargo in time of peace. It will inevitably lead to retaliatory tariffs. All commercial treaties between nations are practically annulled by the war and today new commercial treaties are in process of formation. Every commercial nation is today prepared with the means of real retaliation and there is grave danger that they will quickly respond to the challenge we give them in this bill.

"We are now a creditor nation and have become so almost over night, although before the war we were a debtor nation. Our excess of exports over imports last year amounted to more than $3,000,000,000. Up to Sept. 1 the 1920 surplus exports have amounted to nearly $2,000,000,000. The chances are that by Jan. 1 they will reach nearly $3,000,000,000. The foreign nations owe us interest on nearly $10,000,000,000 we have loaned them, and if they had all the gold in the world they would not have enough to pay this debt. They owe us nearly $750,000,000 for surplus stores the various branches of the Government have sold them. There are, too, private debts.

"They can pay only in gold or goods. They cannot pay in gold and they are not manufacturing at the present time enough goods, and even if they were, we propose by this bill to make imports less and less.

"If we are to remain a creditor nation, and we must do that or suffer now immeasurable financial calamities, we must import more than we export. England always did this when she was the clearing house of the world. The time has come when protection which keeps out importations is no longer the economic remedy for the situations which confront us. The less our importations become at the present time the greater will be the difference in exchange, and it is the exchange difference which affects particularly in this country today the producers of foodstuffs."

Estimated Addition to Revenue.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (Associated Press).—As finally approved and reported to the House, the Emergency Tariff bill carries import duties on commodities which, together with the rates agreed to in committee and the estimated revenue to come therefrom, follows:

| Commodity. | Proposed Duty. | Estimated Revenue. |
| Wheat | 30c. bush. | $2,109,520 |
| Wheat flour | 20 per cent. | 657,800 |
| Corn | 15c. bush. | 137,625 |
| Beans | 2c. pound. | 3,091,760 |
| Peanuts, unshelled | 3c. pound. | 642,540 |
| Peanuts, shelled | 8c. pound | 4,405,410 |
| Potatoes | 25c. bush | 1,580,000 |
| Onions | 40c. bush. | 787,040 |
| Rice, cleaned | 2c. pound. | 2,900,680 |
| Rice, uncleaned | 1¼c pound. | 235,575 |
| Rice, unhulled | ¾c. pound. | 70,672 |
| Lemons | 1½c. pound. | 88,250 |
| Oils, peanut | 26c. gallon. | 4,333,420 |

Senate Starts Three-Day Recession.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The Senate today, having disposed of the bill reviving the War Finance Corporation and having no other immediate pressing business before it, adjourned until Thursday, when it plans to adjourn again until next Monday. A similar three-day recess over New Year's is planned. The recess will not interfere with committee activities.

WAR FINANCE BOARD IS NOW UP TO WILSON

Senate Repasses Resolution as Amended by House and Hopes to Overcome Veto.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The resolution which directs the Secretary of the Treasury to revive the War Finance Corporation for the purpose of aiding in the building up of a foreign market for American farm products, and which was amended by the House on Saturday so as to eliminate section 2, which expressed it as the opinion of Congress that the Federal Reserve Board should extend liberal credits to farmers, was passed this afternoon by the Senate.

Senators Gronna, Smith of South Carolina, and others who have supported the bill, said that they did not approve the action taken by the House but voted for the resolution, in the amended form, in order not to delay the reorganization of the board.

The resolution now goes to the President and if approved by him it will be the duty of Secretary of the Treasury Houston to immediately order that the Finance Board be revived.

Secretary Houston is opposed to reviving the board and it is believed that President Wilson is of the same opinion, which would mean the veto of the resolution. Members of the Southern-Western combination which forced the resolution through Congress claim that they can pass the resolution over the President's veto.

The Federal Reserve Board was severely arraigned in the Senate this afternoon during the discussion of the amended resolution. Senator Harris of Georgia suggested that it might be necessary to withhold confirmation of the members of the Federal Reserve Board unless better accommodations are extended to the farmers.

Senators Smoot, Thomas, King and Glass defended the Reserve Board. Senator King said he would consider it as an honor, when the time comes, to vote for the confirmation of Governor Harding, Dr. Miller and the other members of the Board.

Committee Favors Increasing House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Enactment of the Siegel Re-apportionment bill, for an increase in the size of the House of Representatives to 483 members, is favored by a majority of the House Census Committee, Chairman Siegel said today after an executive session. Mr. Siegel hopes to have the Re-apportionment bill ready by mid-January. Hearings will be held by the committee on Dec. 28 and 29 and Jan. 4. Special attention will be directed to the alleged disfranchisement of negroes in the Southern States.

Invitations To Be Robbed!

A few don'ts.

1. It is very dangerous to personally display jewelry in Theatres, Hotels, Restaurants, Stores and in other public places. Burglars and thieves watch such people, trailing them to their homes with intention to rob.

2. For the same reason do not display in such public places money carried on your person: Keep your money in your Bank and pay your bills by check.

3. If you wish to change the location of your valuables, or carry money from one place to another, do not tell anyone in advance—especially never telephone your plans—conversations are overheard. (About two weeks ago over $400,000 was stolen, made possible because a telephone conversation was overheard.) If values are high, always have guards whom you know are reliable, but do not tell even them what you are doing.

4. Ladies should not carry valuables in their hand bags.

5. Never use strange taxis at night. They are dangerous enough in the day time. Patronize known concerns. See that you leave nothing in taxicabs.

6. Keep off of dark streets at night when possible.

7. Never ride in automobiles day or night with strangers.

8. Know the character of your servants: Do not assume their honesty: It is amazing how many criminals are posing as servants and how easy they find positions in our "best" homes, robbing their employers when they find opportunity.

9. Never allow "Inspectors," "Gas Men," "Telephone Men," "Plumbers," "Officers," "Employees," "Solicitors" or any unknown people to enter your home until you have carefully investigated the purpose of their call. Take no chances!! All kinds of schemes and devices are used by dangerous criminals to gain entrance into homes to learn plans of the doors, windows, etc., etc. See yourself that the back elevator is locked, all windows and doors are locked day and night.

10. Never attack Burglars! Make all kinds of noise to frighten them away but never fight an armed Burglar: Why risk your life?

SEVEN SHIPS BRING 10,468

London Police Heavyweights Here to Box "Finest"—Princess Ruspoli Arrives.

Seven liners arrived yesterday from Europe with 10,468 passengers, of whom 7,723 were in the steerage. In addition to full cabins the liners brought hundreds of tons of Christmas and New Year's mail.

The first ship to reach her pier yesterday was the Cunarder Carmania. Her officers said that they had raced the fleet of passenger liners since Thursday afternoon and beaten them all. The Imperator passed them Wednesday night in the fog and when it lifted the following afternoon the big Cunarder was a few miles head, with the French liner Savoie, the Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam, the Madonna of the Fabre Line and the Drottningholm of the Swedish-American Line not far away. Various messages by wireless from the Imperator to the Carmania, the last one about hanging a tow rope over the stern, seemed to have piqued the firemen on the early night watch.

When their relief came down to the stoke hole the others decided to stay below and shovel coal into the furnaces. The Carmania forged ahead, and on Friday morning the Imperator and the other liners were away astern. The final stretch was to reach the pilot cutter ahead of the Savoie Sunday afternoon and Quarantine before the sunset gun.

Two first cabin passengers on the Imperator who attracted attention were the two London police champions, Jack Stanley, 180 pounds, and Harry Malin, a light-heavyweight of 165 pounds, who have come over to box the New York police champions.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt returned from a meeting in London of the Board of the International Woman's Suffrage Alliance, of which she is President. Another passenger was Hannibal de Mesa, a Cuban merchant, reported to have broken the bank at Monte Carlo.

The Imperator had $2,500,000 in gold and 276 first, 487 second and 1,377 third class passengers.

The officers of the Swedish-American liner Drottningholm, from Gothenberg, with 1,000 passengers, said that just after entering the North Sea from the Baltic on Dec. 10 a big wave swept over the bow and carried Frithof Olsen, a steerage passenger, overboard.

American business men returning from Northern Europe said that they saw piles of autos and other goods from the United States on the docks because merchants who had ordered them had no money to pay invoices.

There were a number of French diplomats and officials on the Savoie, which brought 900 passengers from Havre.

The largest number of passengers arriving yesterday were on the Nieuw Amsterdam, which had 2,467 of all classes from Rotterdam. Princess Eugenia Ruspoli of Italy was a passenger, on her way to spend Christmas at her old home in Oak Hill, Ga. She was a Miss Berry.

NEAR EAST WORKERS LEAVE ARMENIA

Sent by Kemal Pasha to Kars, Where They Continue to Aid 7,000 Orphans.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 19 (Associated Press).—Reports that Americans have been molested at Smyrna, which have been current for several days, were denied by officers of the United States destroyer John P. Edwards, which arrived here this morning from Smyrna.

The American Near East Relief workers in Armenia have been evacuated under the personal supervision of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, and have arrived safely in Kars, Transcaucasia, according to advices from Kars.

Some of the workers will be sent to Klazim and others to Karabekir. Mustapha Kemal has placed the Americans under the protection of the Turkish army occupying Kars.

The Rev. Dr. Ernest Yarrow, general manager of the Caucasus branch of the Near East Relief; Mrs. V. Harris, Fort Wayne, Ind.; H. Barton, Worcester, Mass.; Miss J. Goodrich, Elmer Eckman and Grant York, New York; Milton Brown, Malden, Mass.; Robert Ferguson, Jacksonville, Fla.; Arthur Hammond, Newark, N. Y.; Peter Jansen, New York; Charles MacBride and H. Maynard, Topeka, Kans.; Christian Leyton, Raymond Gilman and Dr. Hawthorne, Framingham, Mass.; Miss Alma Fossom, Dr. Russell Main, Clark D. Martin, Pine Grove, Pa.; Nelson Weeks, Yonkers, N. Y.; Miss Florence Myers, Willard Nelson, Miss Myrtle Shane, Topeka, Kans.; Caroline Silliman, Clayton Skinner, Greenfield, Mass.; Elizabeth A. Thom, London, Canada; Mr. and Mrs. George White, Minneapolis; Miss Cora Beach, Dr. Barton Brush, Elizabeth Gillespie, Leonard Hubbard Princeton, W. Va.; Miss Elsie M. Kimball, Mount Vernon, N. Y.

According to reports from Batum, James Daingerfield, the district commander at Erivan; Ralph Thistle and Charles Pierce of Topeka, Kan., remained at their posts, despite the establishment of a Bolshevist régime in Armenia. Following the intimation that relief work in Soviet Armenia is to be discontinued, it is thought in relief commission circles that those who remained at Erivan must have already joined their colleague at Kars.

Communication between Kars and Constantinople is being maintained through Trebizond.

Miss Cook to Wed L. D. Egbert.

Mrs. Ferdinand Huntling Cook of 249 West End Avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Beatrice Valérie Cook, to Lester Darling Egbert, son of Professor and Mrs. James C. Egbert of Columbia. Miss Cook is a granddaughter of Mrs. James Herman Aldrich of this city and Sag Harbor, L. I. Mr. Egbert is a graduate of Columbia, class of '14, and is a member of the Zeta Psi Fraternity. During the war he served in France as a Lieutenant with the Twenty-second Aero Squadron.

SENATE AGENTS RAID COAL MEN'S RECORDS

Calder Committee Representatives Seize Correspondence of Association.

NO OPPOSITION OFFERED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Records and correspondence of the National Coal Association secured during an examination of its offices here Saturday and Sunday by Senate agent will be produced tomorrow at a hearing before the Senate Committee on Reconstruction, it was announced today by Senator Calder of New York, Chairman of the committee. J. D. A. Morrow, Vice President of the association, will be called as a witness.

The committee took the unusual step of ordering a search made of the association's records after presenting a partial report to the Senate last week declaring that profiteering and disorganization of the distribution system had marked the conduct of the coal industry during the present year, and recommending the enactment of legislation for Federal control.

"Representatives of the committee went to the association offices Saturday," Senator Calder said, "and produced for Mr. Morrow the subpoena authorizing an examination of the records and the production before the committee of such of them as seemed desirable. Mr. Morrow was informed that the law under which they were acting would be shown to him, and that the records, if necessary, would be put under lock and key to await the committee's action.

In a statement tonight Mr. Morrow said that "the National Coal Association has been at all times since its organization ready to co-operate with any agency of the Government."

"All its records," the statement continued, "were immediately placed at the disposal of the committee on Saturday without resort to any compulsion, in accordance with the offer made to the Calder committee last Summer by Colonel Wentz, President of the association."

Any statements that there might be found evidence "of price fixing, or other illegal activities" on the part of the association, the statement branded as "unwarranted."

"It is well known," the statement set forth, "that by charter limitation the association is prohibited from having anything to do with the prices at which its members sell their coal. Coal companies are members only on condition that the association observe this charter limitation strictly. It has always observed this limitation with entire faithfulness.

URGES TAX ON TURNOVER.

Mayer D. Rothschild Says 1% Levy Would Mean 3.29 to Consumer.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Meyer D. Rothschild of New York, representative of the National Business Men's Tax Commission, argued in behalf of a national turnover tax on manufactured articles when he appeared this afternoon before the House Ways and Means Committee. Mr. Rothschild told the committee that the tax could not add more than 3.29 per cent. to the cost to the consumer on the original price of the article.

Like Jules S. Bache, who testified last week, Mr. Rothschild proposed a 1 per cent. tax. He said that after consultation with manufacturers he had learned that the extremes in this pyramiding were 2 per cent. on taffeta silk and 3.29 on a rubber tire, the tire involving eleven operations in manufacture, each of these being taxed 1 per cent. of cost.

Retention of the income tax with exemptions raised to a limit between $2,500 and $5,000, duties on imports, and the inheritance tax, in addition to a new turnover tax, was the general tax plan suggested by the witness. He disputed the claim made by Dr. Thomas S. Adams, the Treasury tax expert, that the turnover would be difficult to collect.

LIKE MONT BLANC CRASH.

Recent Saseno Disaster Due to the Fall of a Mountain Mass.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Dec. 20.—More details of the disaster at the island of Saseno, in the Bay of Avlona, Albania, last week, in which the commander of the Italian naval station and nearly a score of his subordinates were killed, are now at hand.

The immediate cause of the disaster, which is attributed to earthquake shocks, was the dislodging of more than 1,000,000 cubic meters of the mountain overhanging the harbor. This enormous mass crashed down upon the port at the height of a furious storm, burying the buildings of the station and blocking the harbor.

Saseno, an island of volcanic formation, about six miles long and three wide, with a maximum elevation of 60 feet, but subject to constant changes both by erosion and subterranean convulsions, is ten miles across the bay from the city of Avlona, the main port of Albania. It is frequently referred to as "Italy's Gibraltar."

On Oct. 30, 1914, nearly seven months before Italy entered the war, she occupied the island and began to fortify it although extensive works never had the approval of Italian engineers. On the 31st of the following December, she used the island as the point of embarkation for marines who landed at Avlona for the purpose of preserving order, until Italy entered the war, and the port was used in the Albanian campaigns.

In all negotiations over Fiume and the Treaty of London Italy was conceded to have a right to Saseno and Avlona, but after the Albanian insurrection last Summer Italy relinquished all right to the mainland, but, by virtue of a treaty signed with Albania, retained Saseno as a naval station.

3 KILLED IN CLASH WITH SOCIALISTS

Seven Wounded in the Firing in Italy—Deputy Mobbed

FERRARA, Italy, Dec. 20.—Socialists and Anti-Socialists clashed here today, and in the heavy firing which followed, three persons were killed and seven wounded. The encounter came after a Socialist meeting.

BOLOGNA, Italy, Dec. 20.—The Socialist Deputy, Misiano, who deserted from the Italian Army, was attacked by citizens, who recognized him, and attempted to strike him with sticks. Misiano drew his revolver but was prevented from using it. He was rescued by the police, who denounced him for carrying arms without a permit.

James Found Guilty of First Degree Murder for Killing Bank Messenger.

CAMDEN, N. J., Dec. 20.—Frank J. James was found guilty of murder in the first degree this afternoon for the killing of David S. Paul, bank messenger, on Oct. 5 last. Supreme Court Justice Katzenbach announced he would sentence James on Jan. 4, the day on which the trial of Raymond W. Schuck, charged with the same crime, begins.

FAYETTE FIREBUGS BURN 9 BUILDINGS

BLOODHOUNDS ON TRAIL

Troops and Police Seek Incendiaries—Feeling Runs High in Three Counties.

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., Dec. 20.—A total of nine fires, attributed to incendiaries who have been active in this region for several months, were reported to authorities today. No fires had occurred in this district for a week, and authorities had hoped that the "arson terror," as they term it, had subsided. But, when the nine fires were reported today, additional State troopers were called into the region. They brought bloodhounds with them in an effort to run down the incendiaries.

Early in the day authorities here were advised of four early morning fires on the outskirts of Fayette City. A big barn was destroyed and two residences and a lodging house were damaged. Later reports were received of five fires in mine shacks near the corporation line of this city. Investigations, authorities said, tended to show that the fires were the work of incendiaries.

The entire Fayette, Westmoreland and Washington region, the scene of more than a score of incendiary fires within three months, was policed by State troopers and county officers tonight. Feeling was running high, and officers intimated that if they arrested any suspect in connection with the fires the prisoner would be taken to some city outside this district for safe keeping.

The barn, which belonged to Andrew Brown, President of the Fayette City National Bank, was fired in four different places, and burned so rapidly that firemen summoned from Charleroi, near here, were unable to save it or its contents. These included two horses, six registered cows, 1,500 bushels of oats and the mechanical equipment of a modern plant.

An hour after the barn was burned fire was discovered at the residence of George A. Stark, a mile away, but it was extinguished. Two hours later the residence of Fred Dreyer, former member of the Fayette City Council, situated on the main street of the town, was fired in the same manner as that employed at the Stark house. By this time the entire community was thoroughly aroused, and the fire was put out.

Taking advantage of the situation, the firebug prepared to carry out his plans much as he has done in other parts of the county. The road which would be traversed by a fire company from Charleroi, the nearest available aid, was obstructed at intervals of one mile with barricades of tar barrels and logs. Four such barricades were erected and it was necessary fo the Charleroi fire company on its way here to tear them away before they could proceed.

than just a sketch of a dozen of the twenty-nine combinations in the field which have not been touched on by the committee. Those which are not reached in the public meetings will be taken up before the grand juries now in session with a view to having indictments returned against them.

More Associations Dissolve.

The committee is receiving word of trade associations voluntarily dissolving as a result of the inquiry. Murmurs of rebellion by the rank and file of Robert P. Brindell's Building Trades Council are also rife.

When the Legislature meets on Jan. 5 the committee will present a resolution asking that it be permitted to continue its work to completion. Clauses originally eliminated from the resolution which brought the committee into being probably will be suggested for inclusion among the committee's powers.

From present indications the committee will continue to meet until the end of next month. The stone masons and their relation to the high cost of building will occupy the committee's time today and next week a thorough inquiry will be made into the Building Trades Employers Association. The following week the committee will delve into the amount of money placed on mortgage by banks and insurance companies.

The report of the committee will be drawn up by Mr. Untermyer during his sojourn in Florida this Winter and concrete suggestions will be made to remedy the present housing situation. Because of Mr. Untermyer's desire for positive and immediate reforms it is said to be unlikely that any influence could sway him to give his services in a State investigation of the city departments. It is known that Mr. Untermyer desires consideration of his recommendations for housing relief to be given along non-partisan lines.

THE SUPERINTENDENT OF BANKS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK SAYS:

"Only a small percentage of the people know that mutual savings banks are benevolent institutions, regulated by strict State laws, and carefully supervised by State authorities, and that the trustees serve without pay unless they have an active part in the everyday business of the institution.

"It should be emphasized that the depositors are parties in an institution, the primary motive of which is not to make money, either for those who manage it or for those who avail themselves of its privileges, but is an institution which takes care of the savings of the people and develops thrift and economy.

"I believe that if your Association will lift this veil of mystery and lay the plain truth about our savings banks before the people of the State, especially the 3,700,000 people who are depositors in your member banks, the result would be a greater public confidence which is so important during this period of general readjustment; and furthermore, you will prove to them that the savings banks can be relied upon as their faithful and efficient allies. This, in my estimation, will be a definite stride for a better public understanding of savings banks."

(Signed) Very truly yours,
GEORGE V. McLAUGHLIN,

others surrendered their arms and were permitted to proceed.

General Boyd, commander of the Dublin district, has sent notice demanding possession of the City Hall and municipal buildings by Wednesday. The Dublin Corporation met today and resolved by 16 votes to 7 to ignore the demand.

The military and police carried out raids today both in Dublin and in Cork. Many arrests were made. These included one Sinn Fein member of Parliament and the father of another Sinn Fein Commoner, Richard Mulcahy, in Dublin.

CORK, Dec. 20.—That Sinn Fein hostages are to be carried generally in Government motor cars and lorries is evident from the following proclamation issued today by Brig. Gen. Higginson, Military Governor of Cork, following on a similar announcement by the General commanding in Kerry County:

"On account of the numerous attacks which have been and are being made by rebel forces on motor cars and lorries containing forces of the Crown, officers and leaders of the rebel forces commonly known as the Irish Republican Army will in future be carried in Government motors and lorries."

William Roche, junior Sinn Fein M. P. for Cork City, and Alderman of the corporation, was apprehended at his residence. He had been on the run for some time.

REPORT DE VALERA FOR 'IRISH KINGDOM'

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CHERBOURG, France, Dec. 20.—The Aquitania arrived at Cherbourg this afternoon, but there was no Mr. de Valera among either passengers or crew. Neither the French police nor officials of the liner had been informed of the rumors of his presence aboard, but, nevertheless, there was strictest examination of all passengers who were due to land here.

Captain Charles of the Aquitania was more astonished than any one else when a corps of Cherbourg correspondents boarded his ship and demanded to be led to the "President of the Irish Republic."

"He certainly was not among my passengers," said the captain, and a search confirmed his statement. By coincidence the captain had met a passenger named Sparling, bound for Southampton, who had happened to stay at the same hotel in New York as De Valera, having the next room to him. "I learned to know De Valera intimately," said Sparling, "and it is true that he left the hotel a few days before the boat sailed. I don't see how he could get on board this English ship. To do so he must have disguised himself either as a stoker or deckhand."

Talk of an "Irish Kingdom."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Reports that Eamon de Valera is aboard the Aquitania have become so insistent that special arrangements to meet the vessel on her arrival at Southampton have been made both by the Government and newspapers.

The Aquitania was expected to reach the English port this evening, but a message just in from Southampton states that she will not arrive before 7 o'clock on Tuesday morning.

Orders have been issued to authorities at all British ports to carefully watch for De Valera, as it is considered that he might come over here as a member of a ship's crew or even as a stowaway.

One evening newspaper today made a sensation out of a statement which Tim McNulty is stated to have made in London at a meeting of the Irish Vigilance Association. McNulty is credited with saying that de Valera was coming with authority from the Irish in America to agree to a proclamation of Ireland as a separate kingdom and that they would welcome a British Prince to the Irish throne.

Report Premier Summoned de Valera.

Copyright, 1920, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Eamon de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," who has been reported aboard the Aquitania, is said to be intending to go to Paris, where it is said he will meet a representative of the British Government.

It will then be decided whether he will be allowed to proceed to Ireland or a meeting of the Dail Eireann, which Premier Lloyd George still is convinced is the only body capable of settling the Irish dispute.

I am informed that the Premier personally arranged for de Valera's coming, not allowing even his closest advisers to know what he was doing.

France Would Admit Him.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 20.—"If de Valera wishes to land in France he will certainly be allowed to land and stay in France as a private citizen. If, however, he indulges in any anti-British propaganda he will be requested at once to leave the country in the same way as was Gavan Duffy, who for a time represented the 'Irish Republic' here."

The foregoing reply was given at the French Foreign Office today to a question as to what would happen should de Valera arrive here, as it was reported that he might. The French Government takes the view of the whole Irish question that, being in close diplomatic relations with the Government of Great Britain, France cannot allow any anti-British agitation to be carried on in this country.

Should Mr. de Valera come here a strict watch would be kept on his words and actions to prevent him organizing any anti-British agitation or trying to inveigle this country into an Irish discussion. This will not, of course, prevent his being interviewed in the press or giving information, as is done by the Irish representatives who have remained since Gavan Duffy was invited to leave. He will not be allowed, however, to parade himself as "President of the Irish Republic."

Reports that Eamon de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," is among the passengers on the steamship Aquitania were denied here yesterday by Cunard Line officials. They admitted the possibility that he might be a stowaway on the liner, but flatly denied having knowledge of his being aboard.

In support of their belief that the Irish leader was not aboard, the officials explained that a triple check is made on the identity of passengers, each of whom must have a ticket, a passport issued or visaed by the British Consul, and a certificate from representatives of the Internal Revenue Collector showing that the holder has paid his or her income tax.

At the office of the British Consul-General it was declared they had no knowledge of De Valera having left the country or having procured a passport.

Ask De Valera to Send Money.

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—A request that he immediately send to Ireland the funds collected in the Irish Liberty bond drive was telegraphed last night to Eamon de Valera by the Massachusetts Council of the Friends of Irish Freedom. The telegram in part said:

"We understand that millions of dollars collected for Ireland during the bond sale are deposited in American banks in your name and remain in your personal control. We believe the suffering people of Ireland are entitled to the use of these funds at once. Therefore, at a regular meeting of the State Council it was voted to respectfully urge you to send all available funds to Ireland. As a large part of the fund in your possession was subscribed in Massachusetts through the instrumentality of the Friends of Irish Freedom, we know that we speak the sentiment of the Irish people of this State when we urge you to act on this suggestion at the earliest possible moment."

FINDS PEACE DESIRE GROWING IN IRELAND

London Daily Telegraph Says That a Referendum Now Might Repudiate Republic.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Daily Telegraph, in an editorial on the Irish situation, refers to some developments of the last week as "affording new evidence of a general craving for peace in Ireland." It mentions "the courageous action of Bishop Cohalan as "the first vigorous and effective movement from the side of the Catholic hierarchy against the criminal madness that is ruining Ireland," and says that upon this the friends of peace are inclined to build strong hopes. The paper dwells on the number of cases of repudiation of the Sinn Fein, following the lead of the Galway County Council, by the local Government bodies in Nationalist parts of Ulster, "a fact of high significance, considering that Irish moderate opinion had warned us against the Galway example to be of much effect as yet."

As regards the exchange of communications between Father O'Flanagan and the Premier, The Daily Telegraph says it is of supreme importance, as it disposes of the possibility of dealing further with O'Flanagan. Premier Lloyd George, says the paper, could make no other answer than he has done in repeating that there is no possibility of a settlement so long as the Sinn Fein demands an Irish Republic.

"No man," it says, "can be more sensible of that fact than the Prime Minister, whose judgment of current feeling and thought among his countrymen is unfailing. He also knows, however, what is the solidity of that opinion upon the question so starkly presented by Father O'Flanagan. An Irish republic will never be set up with the consent of the people of this country. Their instinct of self-preservation is too lively to admit of any section in politics venturing to associate itself with the Sinn Fein demand. They look to America and take note of the unrestrained violence of passion, of hostility to this country, which the Sinn Fein is striving to infect with its own venom the policy of the United States. That attempt has so far signally failed and we are convinced that it is destined to fail.

The Daily Telegraph concludes: "Some of those Irishmen who best know their countrymen are persuaded that a referendum giving a free opportunity of declaring against the movement which has brought the country so much suffering, ruin and disgrace, would result in a popular verdict which would revolutionize the whole outlook and give the best chances for the success of the policy embodied in the bill which is immediately to become an act of Parliament. That is a suggestion which the Government might well take into consideration."

AMENDMENTS PASS LORDS.

House Changes in Home Rule Bill Are Accepted.

LONDON, Dec. 20 (Associated Press).—The Irish Home Rule bill now is safe and will be placed on the statute book this week in a form only slightly amended from the shape in which it first left the House of Commons. The House of Lords today, after a brief debate, agreed to all the amendments made to the bill by the Commons.

The only amendment discussed by the Lords today was that passed by the lower house providing that if either area in Ireland refused to set up a Parliament the Executive could not make the offer a second time unless within three years after June 1 next both houses of the British Parliament passed a resolution asking for it.

Earl Midleton objected to this time limit of three and one-half years, and challenged a division on the question. He was defeated decisively by a vote of 91 to 14, whereupon this and the other Commons amendments were agreed to without further discussion.

Owing to a slight modification, however, made at the suggestion of Lord Birkenhead, the Lord Chancellor, the bill again will have to be submitted to the House of Commons as a formality, and it probably will be tomorrow before the royal sanction is given.

A modification secured by the Lords is that, instead of the Council of Ireland being nominated by the two Parliaments, each Senate will appoint seven of its members and each Parliament thirteen, making a total of forty, with, instead of the President of the Council being the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, as proposed by the Government, he will be nominated by the Lord Lieutenant on the advice of the Crown.

BISHOP COHALAN REPLIES.

Describes Irish-American Protest Over Ambush Ban as Nonsense.

Bishop Cohalan of Cork has answered the message of protest sent to him recently by the "American Association" for Recognition of the Irish Republic. The protest read:

"We protest against the use of your spiritual authority in British interests. You have no right to excommunicate Irishmen for defending their country. Irish priests must not be used to disarm the Irish people. Your assertion that the killing of British military is murder is a libel upon the patriots of 1776 who shot down from ambush military on their return from Lexington.

"American Association for Recognition of Irish Republic.

"Major Kelly, Secretary."

The Bishop's reply follows:

"Nonsense. I desire Irish independence as sincerely as you. When you come with an army able to fight the enemy and defend the weak and unprotected, I will act as chaplain. It is scandalous for you to defend touch-and-run ambushes that do no political good, and expose the lives of the defenseless and unprotected to such danger as murder in reprisals, and the homes of the city and country to reprisal destruction. The ruin of Cork is the result of your policy. Why not get the Irish Republic recognized by the United States?"

FIFTH AVENUE'S CHRISTMAS

The hearty hand of Christmas has slapped, so to speak, the world on the back, bringing color to the cheeks and a warm friendly glow to the heart.

OVER Fifth Avenue hovers the spirit of the season. The Avenue, its stores and institutions, reflect the life and sparkle of Christmas and this old bank which has seen so many Yuletides gladden Fifth Avenue, gives to the public—the stores and their customers—financial service such as this busy season demands.

$22 TO $50 A WEEK NEW CLOTHING RATE

7 MORE FACTORIES REOPEN

Amalgamated Head Stamps Reduced Pay as an Effort to Cut Production.

A new scale of piece-work pay, averaging about 30 per cent. under the highest wage paid clothing workers since November, 1919, was announced yesterday by the Clothing Manufacturers' Association. Despite the fact that seven more garment factories re-opened their doors, Sidney Hillman, President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union, stamped the piece-work scale reduction and the return to that basis of employment as an attempt to cut production instead of to increase it, as the employers contended.

The new rates, according to the manufacturers' announcement, are designed so that the average worker will earn approximately $15 less a week than he did during the period of his greatest prosperity in the last year. Varying with the degree of skill required to make a suit of clothes, the workers will draw from $22 to $50 a week.

Sleeve sewers, rated next to the pocket makers in point of skill, are to get $45 a week, an increase of 50 per cent. over the February scale; cutters are to be paid $45 a week, or 36 per cent. increase, and tape sewers $42 a week, an advance of 58 per cent. The lowest paid operatives are the sleeve liners, who will receive $22 a week, a 51 per cent. increase.

The comment of President Hillman was:

"The purpose of this is to cut production. From the reports we have received of the manufacturers' meetings, it seems that they propose to stop production throughout the country, in order to maintain present high prices. We are picketing the locked-out shops from the outside, but the manufacturers are picketing them from within in order to keep the workers out."

According to the statement at the union's headquarters, in 31 Union Square, Chicago members of the organization's Central Executive Board, asserting they spoke for 44,000 workers in the Illinois city, declared that their $500,000 contribution to the relief of Amalgamated workers out on strike was only a first effort

Robert E. Forbes, Losing Memory, Is Found After Week's Roam.

Robert E. Forbes of 319 West Ninety-fourth Street, who mysteriously disappeared a week ago, was found last night in the Grand Central Station by a friend, John A. Crane, who had noticed Mr. Forbes last Thursday wandering about near Sixtieth Street.

Mr. Forbes, who, according to his physician, is suffering from a nervous collapse, was taken to the home of his playwright brother, James Forbes, at 137 East Sixty-sixth Street. It seemed, said his brother, that he was taken violently ill from nausea last Monday while on his way to work. Since then he remembers nothing definitely, but once he found himself in Jersey City.

CANADA'S LUXURY TAX CURBED EXTRAVAGANCE

Their Main Purpose Has Been Accomplished, It Is Announced, in Ending Levies.

OTTAWA, Dec. 20.—Canada abolished its tax on manufacturers today, but the luxury tax was only partially removed, remaining in full force on its four heaviest revenue producers—liquors, confectionery, playing cards and chewing gum. The two special taxes already have yielded nearly $50,000,000.

Telegrams came from all parts of the Dominion congratulating the Government on the partial lifting of these special levies. The order in council taking this action was made because reduction of needless buying, the object of the measures, had been accomplished, and several factories making articles subject to the taxes had closed.

Under the luxury tax, wines and other liquors yielded $14,822,110, confectionery $376,427, playing cards $142,480 and chewing gum $33,512. The automobile produced the most revenue under the manufactures tax, a total of $6,161,755. Matches, on which the tax also was removed, brought in $1,967,023.

From April 1 to Nov. 30, this year, the sales tax yielded a total of $17,203,018, the manufactures tax $14,838,050 and stamps $5,105,033. On importations the sales tax brought $6,515,886 and excise taxes $4,801,682.

TO LAND CABLE AT COJEMER.

Western Union Announces Site Selected in Cuba.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 20.—Announcement was made here today by officials of the Western Union Telegraph Company that the South American-Barbados cable would be landed at Cojemer, a village about ten miles from Havana, Cuba. The cable, which has been laid to a point three miles out from Miami, will be cut at the nearest point to Cuba and a short length laid from there to Cojemer.

Buildings have been leased in Cojemer by the telegraph company, but only for six months. It is understood that with the change in administration in Washington another attempt will be made to obtain a permit for landing the cable at Miami.

SAYS 2 TRIED TO AID NASSAU GAMBLERS

INVOLVES SHERIFF SMITH

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, Dec. 20.—John N. Fleischer, Assistant Secretary of the Nassau County Association, which in 1918 and 1919 fought gambling in Nassau County, was the principal witness yesterday at the trial in Supreme Court here of Assemblyman Thomas A. McWhinney, a leading Republican and member of the Lockwood Committee; Sheriff Charles W. Smith, Postmaster Thomas H. O'Keefe of Oyster Bay, and Supervisor George Wilbur Doughty of Inwood, Republican leader of Nassau County, on an indictment charging them with conspiring to protect gambling house proprietors on the south side of Long Island during the association's crusade.

Mr. Fleischer was preceded on the witness stand by David H. Gideon, well known race track frequenter; William H. Busteed, who admitted he was a gambler for forty years, and John Shaughnessy of 215 West Eighty-eighth street. Gideon and Busteed were fined $1,000 each several months ago when they pleaded guilty of running gambling houses in Nassau County, and Shaughnessy received a suspended sentence on a similar charge. Yesterday on the witness stand each of them denied he ever paid any official of Nassau County for protection against arrest while he was operating his gambling house.

In his testimony, however, Mr. Fleischer declared that prior to a raid by the citizens' organization on Shaughnessy's resort in 1918, Assemblyman McWhinney called on him in the witness's office and offered to obtain $2,000 for him if Mr. Fleischer would induce the Board of Directors of his organization to stop their crusade and end attacks against the gamblers in a newspaper published by the association, and of which Mr. Fleischer was the editor.

Later on, the witness said, he met Postmaster O'Keefe, and the latter said if he would desist in his newspaper attacks the leaders of the gambling ring would give him $1,500.

Mr. Fleischer also told of a conversation he overheard in the office of the Board of Supervisors at Mineola and in which he heard one man say, "If anything breaks call up Lynbrook 1144." He said that was the telephone number of a gambling house kept by one Reegan at Lynbrook, and that when he entered the room he found Supervisor Doughty and Sheriff Smith there. They appeared embarrassed at his entrance, he said.

He said that in January or February he gain met Doughty, and the latter said: "You are not interested in Long Beach, are you?" Mr. Fleischer said he informed Doughty he was not, whereupon the Republican leader said: "Well, perhaps we will arrange to have some places run at Long Beach. I have already arranged it with Elvin Edwards." Mr. Fleischer said Mr. Edwards was Assistant District Attorney under Mr. Weeks.

TWO NEW YORK ROADS RAISE PASSENGER FARES

New York Central and Delaware & Hudson Put Into Effect Higher Pullman Rates Also.

ALBANY, Dec. 20.—Increased passenger fare rates became effective on the lines of the New York Central and Delaware & Hudson Railroads within New York State today. The New York Central increases went into effect at noon and those of the Delaware & Hudson at 2 P. M.

The 20 per cent. increase brings the fare up to 3.6 cents a mile. Parlor and sleeping car rates also were advanced 50 per cent., the new schedule becoming effective today.

The advanced rates were ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission on Nov. 27 to be effective on Nov. 29. The Public Service Commissions and the State's Attorney General obtained injunctions, restraining the roads from increasing their fares, but the injunctions were vacated by Justice Hasbrouck at Kingston on Saturday.

Republican Women Form Permanent Body.

The Republican Committee of One Hundred, an organization of New York City women formed last Fall to assist in the election of Senator Harding and Governor Coolidge, will be continued permanently and will begin at once to prepare for the Mayoralty campaign, it was announced yesterday. The committee has moved from 36 West Thirty-ninth Street to permanent headquarters at 117 West Forty-sixth Street. Mrs. Mary Hatch Willard is Chairman of the committee.

An Informal Dance

What entertainment gives so much pleasure as a dance that goes, and do we not all know that it is the informal dance or the one given on the spur of the moment that is the most successful?

We have just finished dinner. Our own young people and a half-dozen of their friends constitute a merry, chattering party. Some one makes the happy suggestion, "Let's have a dance." The words are electrifying in their effect, all are at once on the qui vive of anticipation. The rugs and furniture are quickly moved to the sides of the room and the wide hall is freed of its encumbering table and chairs and the improvised ballroom is ready.

"While we are at it, let's have a few more in." Neighbors and friends are telephoned to and soon we have a score of eager and light-hearted guests.

Down in the kitchen they are busy, too, for the impromptu spirit is very catching, and sandwiches and cakes are being prepared for the light supper, and a cooling punch will be ready soon to refresh the thirsty dancers.

What fun it all is, and how enthusiastically every one enters into it!

The music? Well, it is the Ampico that makes this dance possible. It gives us GODOWSKY, BUSONI, RACHMANINOFF, and all the great pianists (we like them when the rugs are down), but for the time when the rugs are up, it gives us all the latest dance music, and how wonderfully it is played!

HERBERT CLAIR and his associates, who make these wonderful dance records, know what dance music should be. What rhythm, and how those accents come in just the right place, and how the music fairly carries one along! Any one could dance to such playing, and here it is in the house all the time. All we have to do is to say, "Let's have a dance," roll up the rugs, telephone to a few of the neighbors and there we are.

FRUITS IN LIBERAL SUPPLY

With the exception of turkeys, Christmas food prices should be much lower than last year, if the retailers give the consumers the benefit of the low prices prevailing in the wholesale food markets this week, according to a statement issued yesterday from the office of Dr. Eugene H. Porter, State Commissioner of Foods and Markets, at 90 West Broadway.

Turkeys are higher than at Thanksgiving, the Western birds being quoted at 56 to 57 cents, as against 55 cents at Thanksgiving. The near-by turkeys are 65 cents, against 60 and 62 cents a few weeks ago. Last year turkeys were quoted at 40 to 42 cents a pound wholesale. There is a plentiful supply, but the demand is slow. Fowls are selling at 33 to 34 cents a pound.

There has been a very active demand this year for small roasting pigs. These pigs weigh about 15 pounds and sell for 28 cents a pound.

"Apples are selling wholesale for about half what they brought this time last year. Baldwins, for example, are 2 to 3½ cents a pound, whereas last year they were 3½ to 5 cents a pound. Oranges are 10 to 40 cents a dozen wholesale, whereas last year they were 25 to 60 cents a dozen. Florida grape fruit are selling from 4 to 8 cents.

"The same variety of potatoes that sold last year at a wholesale price equivalent to 3 to 4 cents per pound are now 1¾ to 2¼ cents. White onions that last year were 5 to 7 cents a pound are now 1¼ to 2 cents wholesale. Celery averages now from 2 to 3 cents a large stalk that last year brought 6 to 12 cents. White cabbage is ½ to ¾ cent a pound that last year was 4 to 5 cents. Out of forty different kinds of fruits and vegetables on the market twenty-nine are lower than last Christmas week.

"Christmas trees are quite plentiful in the wholesale markets, but retailers have shown little demand for them. They were being sold Monday at $1 per bundle, or from 25 to 50 cents per tree. There is plenty of mistletoe, which is selling at from $5 to $8 per barrel."

GOVERNOR SMITH MOVES.

Brings Family Here, Leaving Executive Mansion Empty.

ALBANY, Dec. 20.—The Executive Mansion was without a tenant today. Servants and caretakers were its only occupants.

Governor Smith, Mrs. Smith and the five Smith children left this afternoon for their home on Oliver Street, New York, after a two years' sojourn at the big house on Eagle Street that is the official residence of the State's Executives.

It is understood that the next tenant, Governor-elect Nathan L. Miller, will take possession of the mansion on Dec. 27.

INTRUDER IN GIBBONS HOME.

Man Supposed to Be Demented Is Caught—Cathedral Robbery Feared.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 20.—A Canadian, believed to be demented, was caught in the act of ransacking that portion of Cardinal Gibbons's home designated for the sexton, here tonight.

Several hundred police surrounded the Cathedral, fearing that an organized effort was being made to loot that building of some of its priceless interior decorations.

The man gave his name as George O'Hara and said that he had been in this city three days, coming here from his home at Ste. Cecile, Canada. When questioned, he admitted in a rambling fashion that his purpose was to interview the Cardinal.

ELFIE FAY MARRIES.

Elfie Fay, the musical comedy actress, who some years ago was an eccentric chorus girl in "Ma'mselle 'Awkins," and later made a hit singing "The Belle of Avenue A," was married yesterday afternoon to Samuel Armstrong Benner, of 106 Central Park West, former Vice President of the Export Steel Company of Pittsburgh. The ceremony was performed by Deputy City Clerk Cruise at the Marriage License Bureau.

The bride had divorced her first husband, Eugene Rosenblatt, a year ago. In 1902 reports that she was engaged to Sir Thomas Lipton were emphatically denied by her.

OLD TAXES AND NEW.

Doubtless the proposed substitutes for and ameliorations of the income and excess profits taxes have their defects; no tax system is free from them. But if we allow the imagined and conjectured but never clearly specified objections to substitute taxes to deter us from a candid examination of their merits, we shall make little progress toward tax reform. We are told by some of the experts that there are grave objections to the sales tax, for instance. If the defects of the sales tax can be proved to be one-half as serious as the known and proved vices of the present income and excess profits taxes, then that tax will surely be rejected. We want something better, not something only half as bad, but at any rate we ought to get away from the present Federal tax system with all prudent speed.

As the Secretary of the Treasury has pointed out, the present tax laws are failing in their primary purpose. For the year 1916 reported incomes in excess of $300,000 a year totaled $992,000,000; two years later, the total had fallen to $392,000,000. The estimated yield of the excess profits tax for the fiscal year 1920 is a little over $2,000,000,000, but for the fiscal year 1922 it is only about $800,000,000. Moreover, with the best will in the world, no individual, no corporation, can be certain that his or its taxes have been paid, not even three or four years after payment has been made of the sums supposed to be due. The returns of 1917 are still in process of audit. The bureau is demanding back taxes at the rate of nearly $500,000,000 a year, and Commissioner ROPER told the Appropriations Committee of the House that with a sufficient force of auditors he could collect $1,500,000,000 in back taxes in twelve months. A tax law under which the yield so rapidly diminishes and which is so exposed to evasion or to innocent errors due to wrong interpretation is not fit to remain on the statute book. Business men all over the country are reaching that conclusion. They are at last taking an active interest in the matter, and as a result of individual or organized study of the tax laws, suggestions are pouring in upon Congress. The United States Chamber of Commerce, through a committee, has submitted to its members a program and many questions designed to elicit the business opinion of the country upon the proposed amendments or substitutes.

In a statement addressed to the National Conference Board Mr. OTTO H. KAHN expresses the opinion that too little attention has been given to the hidden but certain effects of the income and excess profits taxes in absorbing the cash working capital of the country. Upon this point he says:

> Taken together with the action of various other elements influencing the situation, our ways of taxation became instrumental in causing an intolerable strain upon our financial resources, a scramble for funds, credit inflation, mounting costs and, finally, forced liquidation and a sudden and violent shrinkage of values, including the products of agriculture. The recent semi-panicky collapse in the market for securities may be ascribed, in considerable part, to forced offerings by those in pressing need of cash with which to pay taxes.

Mr. KAHN offers as a modest middle-ground suggestion a form of sales tax that surely would not be burdensome, and being designed as a practical test of that method would be instructive. His suggestion is that the experiment be made with "a carefully designed "gross sales or turnover tax, limited "to commodities, but only at a rate "which would be an almost nominal "one, say one-quarter or possibly "one-third of 1 per cent." Assuming that the tax would in all cases be passed on from the producer, manufacturer, jobber and retailer to the ultimate consumer, the addition to the consumer's costs would be very slight. He estimates that at the rate of one-third of 1 per cent. "a gross sales tax "on commodities ought to bring in "somewhere between $500,000,000 and "$650,000,000 for, say, the twelve-"month period beginning July 1, "1921." This total would be reduced by some 10 per cent. if farm crops and live stock were exempted. The policy of exempting the farmer always appeals to Congress, but it happens in this case that the tax would not be paid by the farmer, but by the purchaser of his products.

This would be a modest beginning, certainly. It would not go very far in correcting the evils that flow from the imposition of the higher surtaxes and the excess profits tax. Nobody proposes that the income taxes be altogether removed, but the whole body of informed opinion favors a material reduction of those imposts, by no means from tender consideration of those who pay them, but in the public interest. Inasmuch as laws imposing sales taxes are now enforced and administered to the general satisfaction in Canada and in the Philippines, it would seem that after due deliberation Congress might be able to go beyond the stage of experiment and devise a form of sales tax that could, with confidence, be looked to to provide a larger measure of relief from taxes now in force.

THE HUNDRED NEEDIEST.

The amount of money contributed for the Hundred Neediest Cases is still far short of that which had come in at a corresponding date last year. Though many of the cases have been relieved wholly or in part, much of this work of mercy is still undone. Those who intend to contribute, but for one reason or another have put off their contributions, would perhaps be less deliberate if they remembered that hunger and cold do not wait.

At this Christmas time there are innumerable charities, most of them eminently deserving, which make their appeal to those who in their own well-being do not forget their less fortunate neighbors; this year there is notably the great enterprise which Mr. HOOVER is conducting for the relief of children in Central and Southeastern Europe. That work deserves the most liberal support, but such support need not and should not conflict with this other task, which is peculiarly New York City's own work. The generous gifts of the people of New York for the relief of suffering in Europe are well known, and there is no reason to doubt that the great work of the past will be continued. But there is enough money and enough generosity and enough enlightened community feeling in New York to make possible the complete relief of the Hundred Neediest Cases that can be found by the city's great charitable organizations, without stinting in any way the contributions to unfortunates abroad. "This shouldst thou have done and not have left the other undone."

THE THREATENED DYESTUFF INDUSTRY.

Like the American merchant marine, the dye and dyestuff industries were an incident and achievement of the war with Germany; in other words, if there had been no war there would now be no American ocean ships to carry American cargoes to every port in the world, and there would be no valuable dyestuff industry indispensable to manufacturers and employing a great army of workmen. No American would propose the scrapping of the merchant marine, or tolerate it. Why should the dyestuff industry be scrapped or sacrificed? Any mistake in legislation dealing with this American industry that grew out of the exigencies of the war would cause rejoicing in Germany. The Germans alone would benefit by it. They would profit enormously if our new industry were neglected and allowed to languish, ultimately to perish.

It should not be forgotten that during the war the Germans turned dye factories into poison gas factories and were very near to winning the war in the drive of March-April, 1918, by gassing the allied troops. Two years ago, when American hospitals were filled with soldiers suffering tortures from the effects of the enemy's poison gas — hundreds of soldiers had been asphyxiated and died on the field—the American dyestuff industries were struggling toward prosperity without the aid of German dyes, and public opinion demanded that they should be made self-sustaining so that they could stand alone and be independent. A good deal of capital has since been invested on the justifiable assumption that Congress would assist with necessary legislation after the war when Germany endeavored to recapture her dye and dyestuff trade.

At the first session of the present Congress Mr. LONGWORTH of Ohio introduced in the House a bill to safeguard the industry for a limited period and to enable consumers to obtain dyes which American producers are not yet able to furnish. The measure was described as "a bill to "regulate the importation of coal tar "products and to promote the establishment of the manufacture thereof." American textile concerns were to be supplied with imported dyes through a commission which would issue licenses upon application. The commission, consisting of representatives of leading manufacturers' associations, was to allow only importations actually needed. In England a licensing bill has passed the House of Commons and will become a law. In the interval since ratification of the Peace Treaty the Germans have "dumped" dyes and dyestuffs valued at £5,000,000 into England, and the home industry would be ruined without legislative help.

In this country the home industry will collapse unless legislation on the lines of the Longworth bill is provided. The Longworth measure has already passed the House. In the Senate two Senators, THOMAS of Colorado and MOSES of New Hampshire, prevented passage, and unless their obstruction is overcome by the plain logic of the situation, or by closure in an extremity, the American dyestuff industry is doomed. If it deserves support and assistance—and there should be no cavilling about the wisdom of sustaining and encouraging the industry — the Longworth bill can be amended to perfect it. Before the Peace Treaty is ratified, or peace with Germany made in any way, the protecting law should be on the statute book.

BISHOP BURCH.

The sudden death of the Bishop of New York will come as a shock and bring a sense of public loss to all the people of the city. It seems but a short time since he succeeded Bishop GREER, yet already Dr. BURCH had established himself in the confidence of the whole community, as well as in the respect and affection of the Episcopal communion. His great office compelled him to touch civic interests in many ways, and he did so with a dignity and usefulness that reminded many of Bishop POTTER. Within his own diocese Bishop BURCH showed himself a prelate of moderate views, but ready to deal firmly, while kindly, with restless spirits too little considerate of the peace of the Church. The Bishop made the impression of an able and strong man who has been cut off before the fruition of all his promise.

IRISH UNREALITIES.

The opinion of no Irishman is more eagerly sought in America than that of Sir HORACE PLUNKETT. Disliked and denounced though he is by both Ulstermen and Sinn Feiners, we think of him here as a man who holds his judgment calm and even between the extreme factions of his countrymen. Yet what Sir HORACE had to say on landing in New York only deepens the unreality which now seems to enwrap the whole question of self-government in Ireland. He assures us that an independent Irish Republic is impossible, and that the Irish people know it to be so. But apparently 80 per cent. of them continue to assert that the Irish Republic is now an accomplished fact, and that the only road to peace is for England to recognize it and make a treaty with it as a sovereign nation. Sir HORACE also informs us that Ireland would be perfectly content with a Dominion form of government, such as Canada has. But LLOYD GEORGE has repeatedly summoned representative Irishmen to come forward and say if this is true, and none have come.

This is what we mean by Irish unrealities. Things in Ireland cannot be what they seem. What is the true Irish opinion? Who is entitled to utter it? Mr. ARTHUR HENDERSON recently returned from Ireland and declared that in none of his previous visits had he found "the desire for peace so marked." He said that he had "come into contact with every "school of thought—political, religious "and economic—and that one notion "only prevailed: 'We are tired of "this awful strife.'" Yes, but what are they willing to do to end it? Seemingly, nothing but demand the absolute surrender of the English Government.

These Irish dilemmas start up at one whichever way he turns. The British Prime Minister quoted recently a conversation of his own with an authority on Irish sentiment. Supposing there were an election in Ireland, would the Sinn Feiners triumph? Certainly. Does that mean that Ireland supports them? "Oh, no; it means that no man dare put up against them." This leaves you just as does the interview of Sir HORACE PLUNKETT, with the baffled feeling that in Ireland words are twisted out of their natural sense, and that you are dealing with elusive phantoms. Certainly all ordinary tests break down when they yield such contradictory results.

Sir HORACE PLUNKETT implies that he thinks the Sinn Feiners are bluffing. They will take much less than they demand. This is also LLOYD GEORGE'S view. It was the basis of his recent negotiation for a "truce" in Ireland. For a time it looked as if Sinn Fein was weakening. It began to talk about making terms. It also issued warnings about "traitors," which hinted plainly at internal dissensions. But finally it slammed the half-open door shut in LLOYD GEORGE'S face. He must recognize an independent Ireland or nothing would be done. This being impossible, the only course is to wait for Ireland to come to a saner mind. Violence must be put down at the same time that conciliatory offers are kept open. Under the Home Rule bill a separate Parliament will soon be set up in the Ulster provinces. Another one could be set up in the South of Ireland if the Irish would have it so. In the end they will have to make the clear choice between that form of self-government, modified and enlarged as needed, and being governed by martial law.

THE MILK IN THE COCOANUT.

Mr. UNTERMYER'S utterances with regard to Senator KAPLAN have the emphasis of understatement. It has long been evident that many of the trails of lawbreaking and graft which he has found crook toward the Tammany longhouse, but he only says: "Ever, "since the duty of the committee required that we delve into the peculiar relations between HETTRICK and "the City Administration, Senator "KAPLAN has been a thorn in our "side." There are nine other men on the committee, fairly divided between Republicans and Democrats, yet Senator KAPLAN has been "the sole disturbing factor." The course of the committee has "been upheld "throughout by each and all of his "nine associates."

The cry that the twenty-nine stone contractors who have pleaded guilty be not let off with a fine but sentenced to jail has an obviously popular appeal. Yet to all who understand the situation the wisdom of the committee's recommendation is far more obvious. Most of the defendants are corporations, and as such liable only to fines. To invoke the full rigor of the law against the few who happen not to be incorporated might easily impress a jury as unfair. For this reason, as well as for manifold other difficulties familiar in such prosecutions, convictions would be well-nigh impossible. The all-controlling and all-conclusive reason has reference to the future of the Lockwood inquiry. Guilty as the contractors confessedly are, there are hidden forces, presumably far more menacing, that are still to be brought to light. If the contractors are humanly and sensibly dealt with, "their "testimony is expected to aid in "reaching the more guilty culprits of "whom these men are largely cats-"paws. * * * The men higher up, "that is the milk of the cocoanut."

In a little more than a week Senator KAPLAN'S connection with the committee will terminate. Hitherto Mr. UNTERMYER has shown no mercy in exposing manifold evils, but only unflagging energy and skill in behalf of the interests of the people. As to what measures are best suited to his future purposes surely he and the Lockwood committee are the proper judges.

OLD HOME WEEK IN ATHENS.

It was a great day in Athens when CONSTANTINE came home. The merry populace danced about his carriage, kissing the harness and singing hymns; the bands played, olive branches waved, the Dollar Princess, in new furs, smiled down from a balcony, and everybody was happy. Most happy of all, without doubt, were the faithful friends of the King, coming back from exile to their old jobs, or to new jobs of greater dignity and augmented stipends. The relation of the victors to the spoils seems to be well understood in Greece; forty-six university professors have been removed by the incoming Administration, and fourteen whom VENIZELOS had displaced are set back in their old seats. Since one of these was Dr. STREIT, chief adviser of the King in exile and previously a bulwark of pro-Germanism, one may suppose that the fourteen lost their places for rather sound political reasons; but no doubt the royalists have excellent logic back of their removal of the forty-six. No wonder everybody, or nearly everybody, is happy.

Least happy, one may suspect, is CONSTANTINE himself. He appeared on the festal occasion in the full-dress uniform of a Field Marshal; but that uniform will have to go back to the closet before long. This is no time for a full-dress King; if CONSTANTINE wears a uniform, it will have to be the old one he wore at Kilkis. CONSTANTINE and all his henchmen are swearing before all the altars of Greece that they are the most violent sympathizers with France and England, and that they have nothing but admiration for the policies by which VENIZELOS made Greece great. They are going to carry out those policies just as if nothing had happened. But one might suppose from the result of the elections that the mass of the Greek people have wearied of those policies; that they have decided that greatness is too expensive. The plebiscite hardly affords much evidence for the view that the result of the elections was purely or chiefly a personal victory for CONSTANTINE; it was a sign that the people were tired of VENIZELOS and the expensive, troublesome and glorious career which he had laid out for them.

It will be CONSTANTINE'S task to get all the glory without the trouble and expense. England and France refuse to let him have any money. It may be that French tenderness for the Turk has something to do with this, but that was not the decisive factor. England and France know CONSTANTINE and they do not trust him. They will not invest money in him. He must beat the Turk and recover Anatolia without foreign aid. He must do it without the aid of a great many Greeks whose services might be useful to the country; for Generals have been losing their jobs as fast as university professors. In the great Greek community of Constantinople, the goal of all Greek nationalistic endeavors, the King's name is hooted and his officers are almost lynched. Few democracies have reached the point where the opposition can be counted on to support the Administration, or the Administration to be fair to the opposition; and the Greeks do not appear to have got on very far since the days of KIMON and THEMISTOCLES.

All friends of Greece will wish Greece good fortune, under whatever ruler. If CONSTANTINE accomplishes for his country the great things he seems to intend, he will deserve much credit. If foreign observers are skeptical of his prospects, that is the fault of CONSTANTINE and his record.

A LARGER HOUSE.

It is unfortunate, if only too natural, that the House Republican caucus voted to pass in the present session a reapportionment bill whereby the number of members will rise from 435 to 483. The great Republican States will have, it is estimated, thirty or more of the forty-eight new seats. It is noticeable, however, that sixty-one Republicans in the caucus voted against enlargement. It would be unjust to attribute the consent to the increased number to partisan motives only. Under the new arrangement twenty-five States will gain seats and no State will lose. Many Representatives have a vague fear of possible political revenges in States that would lose if a larger basis of apportionment were adopted, and they don't want to legislate any of their friends out of office.

The House is too large already. After the next census Congress will have to perform the duty which it now shuns and postpones. For physical reasons, if no other, the growth of the House can't be allowed to continue indefinitely. The bigger it is, the greater the hindrances to effective work.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Of Courage They Have Enough.

What New York policemen can accomplish by individual effort when opportunity offers was well illustrated in two cases recorded yesterday. Patrolman JOSEPH A. DOUGHERTY of the West Thirtieth Street Station saw two men following a woman along Twenty-ninth Street, near Broadway, suspected that they intended to rob her, and when his suspicions were verified by a sudden rush they made at the victim they had selected he leaped at the evil twain from the doorway whence he had observed their proceedings. With well-adjusted blows administered with the butt of his pistol, held in one hand, and with his nightstick, held in the other, he promptly repressed the attack which the two at once made on him and took them both to the police station.

Probably as "bandits" they were poor specimens, else they would not have tried to rob a woman from whom not much in the way of booty could be expected, but they were armed and dangerous, and to capture the two of them was certainly a mark of efficiency.

Equally efficient, and probably at greater risk, Patrolman MCINERNEY of the West Forty-seventh Street Station entered a house in West Forty-fifth Street in search of a man whom he had seen on one of its fire escapes, evidently planning a burglary. A call to surrender was ignored, and the man ran to the roof. There a fierce fight followed, but the policeman won and the arrest was made.

Happenings like these are significant of the fact that, whatever may be the matter with the police as an organized force, the trouble is not due to any lack of courage among the policemen or to any disinclination on their part to do their full duty, whatever the odds of numbers or circumstances may be.

Legalistic Minds at Work.

That in emergencies energetic measures are required is something which there is a tendency to forget in some quarters, and this peculiarity already is manifesting itself with regard to the proposals made and the action taken to end the "crime wave" from which the city has been suffering.

From one side come protests against any simplification of the formalities attendant upon the granting to honest citizens of permission to carry a pistol. There is, of course, some danger in the arming of large numbers of men, many of them inexperienced in the handling of weapons, but so much greater is the danger incidental to having next to all pistols in the hands of members of the criminal classes that for a while, at least, a relaxation of the regulations will be justified if only a reasonable degree of care be exercised in granting the new licenses.

On the other hand, it is a generally recognized and often mentioned fact that the ease with which men accused of crime can get bail is a serious evil, not infrequently resulting in the commission of other crimes as a means of raising money with which to pay expenses incurred because of the original offenses. Yet the demand that the size of bail bonds be increased immediately and largely is resisted on the ground that to do so would inflict hardship on innocent men arrested without real cause and on first offenders not belonging to the ranks of professional criminals. That argument is not without weight, of course, but the number of false arrests is very small—certainly too small to justify the perpetuation of a custom that works constantly to the advantage of men who are not innocent at all.

Reviving German Industries.

Famous chiefly for the making of cannon and other such implements of war, the news that the Krupp works at Essen made in the last year profits running far into the millions of marks is calculated to cause something of disquietude. It is to be remembered, however, that these millions of marks are to be divided by something like twelve to bring them into relationship with real money. That done, the profits of the enormous organization seem small instead of large.

Moreover, the Krupp concern always did make many things besides guns, and now, presumably, it is making next to no guns at all, but is turning its energies to the production of the machines of all sorts which its customers in and out of Germany so much need.

The Krupp report, after all, is chiefly interesting and important as showing that the Germans, in spite of their lamentations and their professions of economic and financial helplessness, are getting back to work again. That they are doing so is very far from a crime; on the contrary, it is highly to be commended—especially by their creditors.

That Germany was hard hit by the war doubtless is true. Also, the hardness of the hitting will not cause the shedding of many tears outside of Germany, for it couldn't have been harder than she deserved. But the news from Essen does not stand alone in hinting that she is not so near utter ruin as she claims when asking other countries to forget the past and help her to get another start. Her royal family, certainly, does not go hungry in peace, having escaped poverty, just as in war it escaped danger.

Knowledge Cruelly Withheld.

A practically limitless field for speculation is offered by a peculiar episode reported from Columbus, Ohio. In that city, it seems, persons unknown took one ALEXANDER P. LICHTEN, put him into a large sack and then suspended the sack from a spike high on a telephone pole. This was done at night, and when morning came, on the sack was found a card bearing the request that Mr. LICHTEN should not be taken down until after he had told why he was put up.

The request seems to have been reasonable enough, but evidently it was not heeded, for the young man was not forced to explain his elevation as the condition of release. It is likely, therefore, that what he did will remain forever unknown except to those who invented this highly original way of exciting curiosity.

His relatives, friends and acquaintances will suffer much from a thirst for information, and Mr. LICHTEN will be lucky if they do not punish the unkind silence which he keeps by putting him back into the large sack and replacing him on the telephone pole.

A NEED OF THE POLICE.

A Man With the Authority of Tom Byrnes, Dr. Parkhurst Says.

THE TIMES, issue of the 18th inst., contains an article on the Police Department which should commend itself to the Mayor, the Commissioner of Police and indeed to the entire reading public. It contains a reference to a former Commissioner, "Tom" Byrnes, that is peculiarly apt to our present condition of unrepressed lawlessness. The full significance of the reference can hardly be appreciated except by one who has stood in close relations with the department and with the man who was its executive head in 1893.

Byrnes had a genius for command. He was the most effective police head that we have had during the forty years of my acquaintance with the department. He was great. His word went. "Shut up" meant with him the instant closing of every saloon, gambling shop and disorderly house in the city. He was a man worth fighting. If he had been as fine in character as he was tremendous in authority we should have had a city in which any man or woman might in perfect security have gone about by day or by night without fear of molestation. Whether a man be a Republican or a Democrat, he is unfit for the position occupied by Commissioner Enright unless there pertain to him a certain sovereignty of purpose that guarantees its punctual execution. It is not primarily a matter of more policemen or of fewer policemen, but a matter of their being the instruments in the hands of a man that bends them and binds them to the enforcement of his will. I admired Byrnes even while I fought him, and before his death we met in my apartment in relations of mutual respect. THE TIMES editorial should be carefully read.

Regulation of Firearms.

During the past Summer I was managing a gold mine in Sierra County, California, and a number of people were surprised that I had no gun or revolver. I replied that until 1913 I had lived in countries (New Zealand and Australia) where few people own firearms of any kind, unless it be for rifle practice, and so far in America I had no occasion to possess any such weapon. Since coming to this country I have been astonished to learn the number of persons who own revolvers. From children to grown-ups, a large proportion of the people have them, whether it be a toy or deadly weapon. Apparently many women keep revolvers, as a few years ago in California there seemed to be an epidemic of shooting of husbands and others.

This brings me to a topic that is uppermost among the people at present, namely, the wave of crime. It seems to me that the daring banditry is largely due to the ease with which revolvers may be obtained in America. As you remarked in a recent editorial article, these bandits are only brave with a gun; at heart, they are cowards. Why should firearms firms, apart from the manufacture of army and sporting weapons, produce any revolvers? Why are the windows of every pawnshop in many cities bulging with revolvers of all kinds?

The manufacturers of firearms should be kept under supervision as to the ultimate destination of surplus revolvers, and no pawnshop should be allowed to buy or sell guns under any circumstances; while all persons should be forced to give up their small arms. I urge that drastic measures be enforced toward this end.

CHRISTMAS.

The mystery of Christmas, how it permeates the air!
There are hintings of surprises here and there and everywhere.

Over stockings by the chimney and the shining Christmas Tree!

How memory at Christmas takes us back to days when faith
Was a living, virile substance, not a shadow or a wraith!
All the promises of Christmas that seemed then so fair and good—
Were we children that their message seems today misunderstood?

Were we children that we worshipped and believed that Christmas Day
Heralded good-will among us and on earth a peaceful sway?
Did we look beyond our pleasures, deeper than our heart's delight,

"Peace on earth!" "The angels sing it!" So the children all are taught.
"Peace on earth"—the noble motive for which our brave soldiers fought!
Ah, the Christmas needs bring solace—needs bring all the faith it can,
Ere we join the thoughtless voices singing of "good-will to man"!

THE DYE BILL.

Conditions of the Industry in Germany and Here.

Two years ago, when our hospitals were filled with American soldiers wounded by the poison gases made in German dye factories, when our textile, leather, paper and other industries were smarting under the experience of servility to a foreign nation for supplies of needed dyes, the thought of the nation was clear as to the necessity of a complete self-sustained American dye industry.

That thought reflected itself upon the Congress of the United States and found expression more than a year ago in the passage by the House of Representatives of the Longworth bill, a measure adequately protecting for a limited time our rapidly growing dye industry and at the same time insuring ample means for consumers to obtain those dyes which American producers are not yet in position to furnish.

During the intervening year a remarkable situation has developed. Two pictures have been painted which should be exhibited before all thoughtful Americans.

In Germany, despite the protestations of poverty and consequent inability to meet reparation payments, the unification of the great German dye plants, effected in 1916 and originally planned to continue until 1966, has now been extended to the year 2000. For the enlarged operation of these plants new capital is being called and eagerly subscribed by German citizens. Badische, Baeyer and Hoechst are each adding 90,000,000 marks, Berlin Anilin 30,000,000 marks.

An entirely new factor now enters. The world's destiny is more closely bound up in the utilization of nitrogen than in that of any other chemical element. This element when properly harnessed affects food supply, dominates war material and enters largely into dye manufacture. It is the one raw material of which Germany has an unlimited supply, as it constitutes four-fifths of the atmosphere. For its utilization under the Haber process but little power is required. Professor Haber, who worked out the details of this process, is the same Professor Haber who was the head and front of Germany's war gas program. The future operation of the Haber process on a greatly increased scale is now under a special organization controlled by the dye cartel or trust, the present capitalization of the nitrogen organization being fixed at 500,000,000 marks. Today the American representative of this organization is endeavoring to sell nitrite of soda at very low prices from "that portion of nitrite of soda as produced by the Badische Anilin and Soda Fabrik of Germany through their atmospheric nitrogen development which has been allotted for consumption in the United States." A letter from this agent further states: "We have instructions from Germany to find out the prospects of nitrite of soda consumption in the United States over the year 1921."

That is the picture which, more than any other, bears directly upon the future peace of the world.

The Longworth bill went to the Senate more than a year ago, extended hearings were held, a skeptical Senate was convinced, and the bill, endorsed by Republicans and Democrats alike, was favorably reported last Spring, though the importers of German dyes and a small group of textile interests opposed it at every step. It has been impossible to gain a vote on the measure. Why? Because two Senators, one a Republican and one a Democrat, Senators Moses and Thomas, have conducted a determined filibuster, under the Senate rules, against the measure and are still determined to continue that filibuster.

As a result of this inaction, this uncertainty as to the future, the continued grave of the American dye industry has been seriously set back. Contemplated developments have been postponed; research staffs are being curtailed; chemists whose work had accomplished such brilliant results during the past four years are now seeking employment; capital has become shy; the enthusiasm of the many prospective chemists now filling our university laboratories is becoming chilled—all because two members of the Senate are obdurate.

The American picture has been blotched. For its restoration only one means remains—the adoption of a closure rule on this bill by the Senate. No matter how great the hesitancy may be regarding the adoption of a closure rule, the situation demands it. Arguments on the merits of the bill are no longer needed. The case has been made out. Bring the measure to a vote. Vital interests are too deeply at stake for two members of the Senate to block a nation's will.

F. Andrews Buys 1482 Edition at American Art Galleries Sale.

Books, manuscripts and letters from several private collections were sold yesterday afternoon and last evening at the American Art Galleries. F. Andrews paid $1,100 for the first edition of the Pentateuch in Hebrew, printed on vellum at Bologna in 1482.

Lathrop C. Harper gave $330 for "Summa de articulis fidei" by Thomas Aquinas, Mainz, circa 1460. C. Swann, as agent, obtained for $400 a manuscript poem by Lord Byron, entitled "Prometheus." Mr. Swann also paid $375 for the manuscript by Bret Harte of "Jeff Brigg's Love Story." The two sessions brought $10,299. The sale will be concluded today.

FOR TRADE ARBITRATION.

International Chamber of Commerce Seeks to Make It Compulsory.

PARIS, Dec. 20.—The International Chamber of Commerce, which was organized in Paris last July by the important commercial organizations of the United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy, has decided to attempt a worldwide extension of the plan for compulsory arbitration in commercial disputes. A similar plan now exists between Argentina and the United States, by which all controversies between merchants of these two countries, particularly over shipments of goods, are decided by an arbitration commission.

Applications for membership by the various South American countries will be considered by the Board of Directors of the International Chamber when it meets in January.

DUCHESS TO QUIT ENGLAND.

Consuelo of Marlborough Will Probably Make Paris Her Home.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Consuelo Vanderbilt, who recently obtained a divorce from her husband, the Duke of Marlborough, has decided to leave England permanently and will probably make Paris her home, according to The Daily Mail.

For many years the Duchess has given a cup to a certain organization as a prize, and it was announced on Saturday, when this year's cup was presented, that the gift would not be made in future.

ONLY CHILDREN WILL GET GIFTS IN VIENNA

ADRIATIC FLEET BUSY, TOO

Admiral Andrews Is Feeding 20,000 Refugees in Dalmatia, Many of Them Russians.

VIENNA, Dec. 19.—Christmas cheer in Vienna will be distributed only among the children by the American Mission, the American Relief Administration and the American Red Cross. For the majority of the 1,800,000 inhabitants of the city this Christmas is certain to be the darkest ever known.

The strike of hotel, restaurant and café employes has spread to the outlying sections, closing more shelters which at least offered warmth for people coming from their cold homes.

A heavy fall of snow, which only served to deepen the gloom of the people of Vienna, is being removed by groups of pale men and women, many of whom fall to the ground from exhaustion caused mostly by starvation. The Viennese shuffle about the streets, resigned and hopeless, in preference to freezing in their homes, filled with a penetrating chill resulting from the long standing lack of heating.

The American Relief Administration will supplement its feeding program by distributing 340,000 garments among 300,000 children. It will provide a Christmas tree in each of its 2,000 feeding centres in Austria. Each child will receive an extra one-pound cake made of American white flour.

The American Red Cross will distribute clothing and condensed milk to 40,000 children under 6 years of age and children of all ages in orphanages and hospitals.

At the Christmas tree celebration arranged by the Hoover Mission, to be held in Vienna, Dec. 23, the new President of Austria, Dr. Michael Hainisch, will make his first public appearance.

VENICE, Dec. 19 (Associated Press).—The American fleet in the Adriatic will act as Santa Claus for more than twenty thousand persons, including Italian and Russian children, the latter being among the refugees recently disembarked along the Dalmatian coast. The beneficiaries of the fleet's Christmas spirit will receive toys, candy, fruit, clothing and shoes, done up in small packages.

The Russian children, just landed in Dalmatia with their fathers and mothers, who escaped the Bolshevist sweep in South Russia, suffered intolerable hardships on the merchant ships which brought them. They were packed in the ships so tightly as to be unable to move, with hundreds in the holds among the coal and other supplies, standing or sitting in virtually the same position for twenty days.

As no provision had been made for their arrival in Dalmatia, the American fleet undertook the work of caring for them. Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, Commander of the American warships in the Adriatic, whose headquarters is here, received news of the plight of the refugees from the Olympia, his flagship, and immediately began the work of relief. He authorized the fleet to do what it could, meanwhile telegraphing to American Red Cross headquarters in Paris for help, in response to which appeal he received a telegraphic allotment of 250,000 francs.

The Olympia was then stationed at Ragusa, on the Adriatic, thirty-eight miles northwest of Sattar, into which place thousands of refugees were pouring. The Americans started the work of organization, in order to care for the refugees. Kitchens were set up to provide food to the refugees, and baths and houses were furnished.

Requests were sent to Admiral Andrews for vaccine and other medicines, and he immediately sent men to Milan to buy the necessary supplies. All were loaded and reached their destinations along the Dalmatian coast in thirty-six hours, United States destroyers taking them aboard at Venice.

Meanwhile, at Cattaro, the United States destroyer Chandler was handling thousands of other refugees in the same efficient manner as the Olympia, under the direction of Captain H. L. Wyman, her commander. At Ragusa the entire work of relief organization was carried out by the officers and men of the Adriatic fleet, including supplying quarters and getting refugees, among whom were many noblemen and Generals, to work.

"It was just a little old American push we used," said Captain Wyman. "All worked cheerfully with our 'push and smile.'"

In a few days the whole organization was working smoothly. Then the Jugoslav Government came to the rescue and took over part of the work, while the American Red Cross in Paris dispatched special workers to the scene to handle the supplies. Other naval officers participating in the work of organization were Lieut. Commander C. B. Platt, Executive Officer of the Olympia; Lieutenant J. L. Cotton, Lieutenant D. M. Steere and Lieutenant J. M. Bregar, Surgeons Fetherston and Bostick and Commander Ancrum.

GIFTS TO VIENNA CHARITIES.

Strauss Gives Proceeds of Tour—Rockefeller Institute Aids Clinics.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Richard Strauss, the composer, has returned to Vienna after a successful tour in South America. Some of the proceeds of his tour, estimated at 2,000,000 kronen, are to be placed at the disposal of Viennese charities. Theatrical funds are to benefit, while some money is to be given for the relief of children.

A great Viennese medical school is likewise to benefit by a gift from the Rockefeller Institute of New York, amounting to $60,000, which is equivalent, at the present rate of exchange, to some 26,000,000 kronen. This is for the benefit of Viennese clinics and has only one condition attached to it—that the charges for foreign students and patients shall be raised above those of Austrians.

MINCE PIE FOR GERMANS.

American Quakers Will Serve It to Students on Christmas Day.

BERLIN, Dec. 20.—Thirteen thousand German university students will have the first opportunity to eat real mince pies when the American Friends' Service Committees serve them Christmas dinner.

The Quaker Relief Commission has ordered thirty cases of mincemeat from England and will distribute it, with flour and full instructions in German as to how to make mince pies to eighteen universities where poor students are now receiving one hot meal daily. A Christmas card from the Society of Friends will go with each pie.

PREPARE TO WARN SPAIN.

American Ambassador Acts With His Colleagues on Taxation Issue.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Representatives of the great powers in Madrid, led by Colonel Joseph Willard, the American Ambassador, have prepared a warning to Spain to the effect that they view with disfavor attempts of certain elements in the Cortes to strangle foreign enterprises in Spain through high taxation and other means, it was announced here today.

When the question of revising the laws governing taxation of outside capital received serious consideration, nearly every country instructed its representatives in Spain to do whatever they could to prevent it. It became known in London today that the British Ambassador went to Colonel Willard, who is the dean of the Madrid Diplomatic Corps, to ascertain what the United States purposed to do.

Money Sent to The Times Goes Directly to Relieve Distress—Many Organizations Respond.

The Hundred Neediest Cases received $5,555.33 yesterday, making a total of $35,984.80 for the eight days since the appeal was printed. The total for the first eight days after last year's appeal was $66,886.07.

The entire amount contributed last year was $106,967.14, so that today the total is more than $70,000 below last year's figure. The Hundred Neediest Cases and more than 100 additional cases were provided for last year.

A great increase in contributions is necessary in the few remaining days before Christmas if anything like the number of sick and destitute who were aided last year are to receive a helping hand this Christmas, and be saved from the further misfortunes which are threatening them.

Small gifts have been coming more rapidly in the last few days, but the larger ones are few and far between. So far this year there have been only two gifts of $1,000 or more. Last year, during the same period, there had been nine such gifts, one of them being for $4,000.

Contributions to the Hundred Neediest Cases equip Santa Claus for his Christmas visit to homes where anxious mothers, wasted by the struggle to support and keep their children, are praying for a miracle. As far as he is equipped to do so, he will make those miracles happen. At the present rate, however, the number of families who will experience the miracle will be only about half of last year's number.

Brings Hope to the Stricken.

Into such households as he is enabled to visit, Santa Claus will come with the biggest gifts and the best news in the world. His pack of dolls, games, candy and Christmas toys is a small one. His material gifts consist of shelter, food, clothing and medicine. But his big gift is the gift of family to mothers and children and sick or crippled fathers. He gives her babies to a mother. He gives little boys and girls their own sisters and brothers to play with and their own mother to watch over and love and comfort them.

Each contribution, no matter how small it may be, makes his journey so much longer and stuffs his pack with a little more kindness and happiness. Each contribution that might have been sent, but is withheld because of forgetfulness, or selfishness comes along to smother the good impulse—each contribution thus withheld curtails his Christmas journey, and continues the grief and misery of some unfortunate family. One of the letters received yesterday was the following:

39 West Fifty-fifth Street, Dec. 20
THE NEW YORK TIMES:

Dear Sir: I see by the paper that this year's subscriptions for the Hundred Neediest Cases are far behind last year, and am sending another check for $10. Hoping the required amount may be obtained before Christmas, I am, yours very truly,
H. R. JOHNSTON.

Another letter received read:

The Church of the Holy Communion,
Lake Mahopac, N. Y., Dec. 17.
THE NEW YORK TIMES:

Dear Sir: In an editorial of this date, referring to the Hundred Neediest Cases, you say, "Charity of this kind may properly be thought of as an investment." How true this is, and what a marvelous investment such a charity is was happily shown by the great French pulpit orator, Saurin, who wrote of some charitable rich man:

"He has exported his fortune before him into Heaven by expending it in charities."

We are so accustomed to hear and accept the statement that we cannot take our money with us into the world beyond the grave that it ought to be and I believe will be good news to many rich philanthropists to learn of this unique method of thus securing safe transportation of their fortunes into the next world, to be enjoyed throughout all eternity.

What investment offers such a return as this?

And so, practicing what I am preaching, I am enclosing you herein check for $10 to be applied to said cause, $5 from Church of the Holy Communion, Lake Mahopac, and $5 from PHILIP W. FAUNTLEROY.

The fund for the Hundred Neediest Cases has suffered a falling-off, not only in large gifts but in a curious type of "conscience money" which used to reach a substantial figure in previous years. Many who sent good-sized contributions wrote that they had spent so much money on themselves and on their friends that they found it necessary to their peace of mind to contribute largely to the Hundred Neediest. Many such letters came from out-of-town people stopping at New York hotels and having a holiday here.

Father of Six Stricken.

"The Lord will provide," says old Mrs. G. soothingly as she smoothes away the fears of her son. He is the father of six children, the oldest of whom is 11. Until he was brought low with pernicious anaemia, the disease that has steadily been sapping his strength, Henry G. was a good provider. The children all show the good care and training that he and his wife have given them. Unless his old mother's words come true, this family will be separated until Henry is better.

CASE 34.

Tell Breaks Mother's Strength.

Just as long as the five children were well, Mrs. J. was able to provide for them by cleaning offices in the early morning and working in a laundry the rest of the day. A bad accident to 10-year-old Bob made it imperative for her to stay at home and nurse him. It was then that the accumulated strain of five constant years' toil began to tell on her. It is no longer possible for her to continue at the former life-breaking rate. Ralph, the oldest, now has his first job. He is willingly placing his shoulder to the wheel, but the burden is heavy and he can't move it very far.

CASE 41.

Cold and Hungry.

Thirteen-year-old Ellen and twelve-year-old Danny shouldered the responsibility of taking care of their mother and the three younger children when their father died last August. It was Summer, and there were no truant officers to tell them it was against the law to work. Since school began, however, they are back at their desks, chafing in their childish minds at the injustice which allows the six-months-old baby to grow thin and peaked. Ellen, their mother, is now under the care of a doctor who is giving his services for nothing. In a few months, he says, she will be strong enough to take up some work.

Invalid Mother Needs Sons.

Any mother would be proud of three such sons as Duncan, Malcolm and James. Mrs. W. feels that the years she gave to their care were well spent even though it means that today she sits in her chair, a helpless invalid. The home is neat and clean, plants growing in cigar boxes on her window still are tokens of her sons' care. Duncan is 15. In another year he will be able to do more than the odd jobs after school. He will become the breadwinner for the family. Malcolm, 13, will soon follow in his footsteps. There is a bright future ahead for this hardy little family provided they can be held together for another year.

CASE 61.

Broken-Up Home Unless.

The only bright spot in the dark, little room that is home to Joseph, 6, and Martin, 3, is the gayly colored box of buttons with which they play. That is the only toy they have. Their mother, a young woman of 26, sits sewing on heavy garments near them. Manual, who is in the sanatorium, is a tailor, and a very good one he was before the dread disease overtook him. It is said that he is getting along very well and that by next June he will be back at his place as breadwinner.

CASE 62.

Her Strength Is Going.

The women she works for say that Mrs. E. is not as good a washwoman as she used to be. Maybe she is not. Standing at the steaming tubs all day and keeping a home for her five fatherless children in the hours that are left her are not conducive to improvement at a job such as hers. While she is at work, the two oldest, Julius, 14, and Clara, 13, plan a future of ease and comfort for her. It may be that some day those plans will be brought to realization.

CASE 63.

Seven Are Fatherless.

Jonathan was killed last June in an accident just before the seventh child was born. The mother has managed so far with the death benefit she received at the time, but in spite of the most painful economy this is now exhausted. Until the two youngest are a little older, so that they may be left temporarily with others, the mother needs help.

CASE 82.

Children Beg Meals.

She couldn't stand the sight of her 6-year-old little sister visiting the neighbors at the time she knew they were eating their meal, so Gilda put her hair up and her skirts down and went out to get herself a job. The $13 a week opened vistas of opportunities to her. She saw her invalid mother well, her two little sisters and the 3-year-old orphaned cousin who lived with them fairly bursting with the food they craved. The dream vanished with the coming of the officer of the law. Gilda was not old enough to be at work, although she was old enough to suffer because of lack of it.

During the war and the period immediately after the war, the Hundred Neediest Cases were helped by soldiers and sailors stopping here and passing through the city. One of the most liberal patrons of the Hundred Neediest Cases this year is Private Carl L. Cordell of the Headquarters Company of the Fifth Regiment, now at Quantico, Va. His pay is $30 a month and he offered to make a regular allotment of $5 a month to one of the Hundred Neediest Cases. The family he picked, however, was already provided for, but he insisted on having some other unfortunate child to whom he could play the big brother.

Among the poor children next in line for assistance after the Hundred Neediest Cases are provided for is a little boy named George under the care of the State Charities Aid Association. Private Cordell adopted him for a brother and wrote:

Quantico, Va., Dec. 16, 1920.

Dear Friend George: I am a soldier boy and have been for five years, and I still have two years to do yet. I have traveled nearly around the world —France, Belgium, England, Germany, Siberia, Japan, Philippines, Mexico, Italy, and have postcard pictures from all of them.

I am here today, going to school for an education that I could have got seven or eight years ago, but no, I thought I could do better without it then. But I have found that I cannot make a go without it. Now, George, I am not preaching or anything of the kind; just telling you what I am doing at present. I am 5 feet 11¾ inches tall, 189½ pounds, light brown hair and blue eyes, ruddy complexion, 22 years old.

I will endeavor to tell you about a soldier boy's life in my next letter, as it is nearly 10 o'clock and the lights go out at 10 o'clock every night.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain, sincerely, a true-hearted American soldier. BOY FRIEND CARL.

Aids Poor Deaf Woman.

One case reported yesterday by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor was the following:

"A contributor telephoned that she was especially interested in Cases 44 and 80 and asked for their names and addresses so that she might visit and help these two elderly women. Being given the names and addresses, she said: 'Now I wonder if you know of any one who is deaf and who would enjoy having an excellent ear trumpet which I want to give away. It is especially suitable for an old person'—and learned to her pleasure that the grandmother in Case 80, one of the families of particular interest to her as she read THE TIMES, could have no better personal Christmas gift than an ear-trumpet. This grandmother is deaf, but in her unselfish devotion to the little grandchildren she has never thought of her own handicap or asked for anything for herself.

"This case is not yet fully subscribed."

A number of organizations and groups of employes have sent gifts in the last few days. One of the unusual ways in which the Hundred Neediest Cases are benefitting is described by C. G. Green, President of the James Advertising Agency, Inc., who wrote:

"Here in our office we have a plan in connection with our bonus to employes that gives a credit for every day that the employes are on time.

"In the event of lateness or absence, a credit mark is deducted. These credit marks have a value based on the total amount of the individual's bonus, dividend by the number of working days in the quarter for which the bonus is paid. Any money accruing from the loss of credit marks is to be given to charity.

"It has been decided by our employes that the amount for the past six months, totaling $26.94, be paid to the fund for the Hundred Neediest Cases."

New York Office Employes of the Crex Carpet Company: "Enclosed herewith find check in amount of $16, being the total of contributions to the Hundred Neediest Fund made by the office employes of the above company We all commend THE NEW YORK TIMES in this deserving cause and wish great success in obtaining the necessary amount."

Troy & Co., Inc., 276 Fifth Avenue, stocks and bonds: "Enclosed herewith is check for $100 contributed by the officers and employes of Troy & Co., Inc., to be applied to the Hundred Neediest Cases Fund."

Joseph Thum—"At a meeting of the New York Billiard Room Owners' Association, held yesterday afternoon, it was voted to send you a donation of $25 for the above fund. It gives me great pleasure in sending you a check for the above amount, it surely being a worthy cause."

Samuel Klein—"Enclosed please find check for $17 collected from the employes of the Diamond Shoe Company to be ddded to your worthy cause."

Sunday schools have in most years figured prominently among the contributors to the Hundred Neediest Cases. A check of $10 was received yesterday from the Sunday school class of the Fordham Manor Reformed Church.

Letters Express Deep Pity.

Mrs. E. R. Felton—"Please find enclosed my check for $5 for the Hundred Neediest Cases. It is to the little children who are striving to help their loved ones I hope my check will help to bring relief."

Anonymous—"In memory of an English sailor for the old couple who do not wish to be separated."

Katherine McDonald—"Enclosed please find check for $5. I am sorry that the returns for this year are so far behind those of last year. The cases are so obviously deserving. Perhaps the next few days will more than make up the deficit. I am sure I trust that such will be the case."

Ridler Davies, Decatur, Ill.—"I am out of the city this Christmas and therefore have not seen the particulars of the Hundred Neediest Cases for which I am sure you are appealing as usual. Will you therefore apply the enclosed $10 to any one you may deem fit?"

Anna C. Duncan—"I am sending $5 for Case 84. I only wish the gift were large enough to justify the mother's hope that a change of luck will come with the Christmas baby."

"A Stranger in Town"—"In response to your appeal in today's paper, I am enclosing a very small contribution. Your appeal is very well put and I trust it will be most successful."

"A Mother of Soldiers"—I enclose a small check for Case 47, unless provided for already. I am sorry it is not more, but it is rather literally the widow's mite, and I have assisted many other worthy charities this year. There are so many more who need help than one has power to give it, it wrings one's heart."

Dr. H. B. McCrary, St. Petersburg, Fla.—"Enclosed find check for $15. Thank you for the opportunity. You are doing a splendid work."

J. H.—"Enclosed please find $15 for Cases 2 and 83. Might I ask that you let me hear about these cases? Last year the 'J' family who were in want were listed in your columns and I asked to be let know how they fared, as I contributed a small sum toward the fund, and you sent a couple of letters regarding their welfare. Only wish we could add several figures to the abovementioned amount."

No aid is being received by any of the families in the Hundred Neediest Cases under the State pension law.

Contributions are deductible from income tax returns.

Every cent goes to buy food, clothing and other necessaries, no administrative or clerical expenses being paid from the contributions.

Checks may be drawn to the order of THE NEW YORK TIMES or to the order of the Hundred Neediest Cases.

FINK TAKES FINAL OF SQUASH TOURNEY

WINS BY 15-12, 15-1, 15-8

Crescent Expert Reveals All-Around Superiority, Handling Backhand Shots With Special Skill.

National handicap honors in squash tennis were won yesterday afternoon by R. Earl Fink of the Crescent Athletic Club, who, in the final round of the tournament on the courts of the Harvard Club, conducted under auspices of the National Squash Tennis Association, defeated Ralph G. Coburn of the Harvard Club in three straight games, scored 15—12, 15—1, 15—8. Fink overwhelmed his rival. There was never a time from the start of the game, once the contestants for final honors had struck their stride, when there was the least doubt in the minds of the large gallery as to the ultimate winner.

Fink was handicapped at minus 5 and Coburn at minus 2. As the game was actually played, Fink started from three points behind scratch. He might have conceded several additional aces and still have won, so decisive was his manifestation of superiority. Last year the national ranking assigned Coburn to tenth place, while Fink was not placed among the first ten. Barring happenings impossible to foresee at the present time, there will have to be a serious readjustment, if yesterday's performance is to be considered a criterion of their comparative standing in the current season.

Fink was a trifle slower in getting his game into full swing yesterday than Coburn. In the first game Fink canceled his three-ace handicap in his first three hands. But Coburn then began to show skill in position play. He worked Fink's backhand time after time and quickly assumed a commanding lead. He ran the score from 3—0 to 5—1, 6—2 and 10—2. Fink was flubbing his shots repeatedly, especially on his backhand. It looked at this stage like a real battle, with the Crescent man in serious danger, despite the fact that his showing all through the later rounds of the tournament had pointed unmistakably to him as the ultimate winner.

Fink's Backhand Improves.

Then, when he was trailing by a margin of eight aces, the Crescent expert awoke to the needs of the occasion. He swung his backhand into action and, where, in the early part of the game, he had been playing defensively on his left side, he now turned this stroke into a strong offensive weapon. From that period to the end of the match the result was foreordained. Fink's backhand wallop became a thing to conjure with. It seemed almost a greater asset than his forehand hitting, which Coburn found speedy enough in all conscience. As a matter of fact, the ball could not reach Fink from any angle or position too difficult for him to handle. His gets were remarkable. The Harvard man's only chance for a point was a clean placement, and Fink was too wary an antagonist, too good a court tactician, to present the opportunity for a placement, excepting on the rarest of occasions.

In his eleventh hand of the first game Fink scored no less than ten aces, completely changing the complexion of the game. Where he had been trailing at 10—2, he took the lead at 12—10. He accomplished this remarkable pull-up by mixing his strokes in baffling fashion, almost as much as by his improvement in backhand hitting. By this change of pace and hard smashing he scored four clean placements and forced the Harvard man into four tin-tales and two outs. That one hand of Fink's practically ended the first game. The rest was a mere matter of form. Fink continued his steady playing, and, after missing the game ball once, finally ran out the count on a fine around-the-court placement.

The second game was a walkover for the Crescent man. He canceled his handicap in his second inning and then ran through the rest of the points practically as he pleased. He finished the fifteen points in nine hands, his backhand continuing strong and his around-the-court shooting increasing in severity. It was game ball once at 14—1 and Coburn made it hand-out, but the next time Fink completed the game at 15—1 on a service ace. At this stage of the proceedings Fink had compiled a remarkable record. From the eleventh hand of the first game to the end of the second he had scored twenty-eight aces to three for Coburn.

The Final Game.

The Crescent A. C. expert was equally in command of the situation in the third and closing game. Coburn did some excellent shooting in this session, as, in fact, he had throughout the match. Yet always Fink returned his best shots, and not only returned them but often transformed them into winning strokes for himself. It must have been highly discouraging to the Harvard man. No matter what he tried Fink was always in readiness to receive his efforts and turn them to his own advantage. Fink canceled his handicap in his second inning in this game and never relinquished the lead thereafter. After he had made the count 13—3 in his favor he relaxed a bit and Coburn, by a run of three aces in his eighth hand and another of two in his tenth, arrived within six aces of the flying Crescent man at 8—14. But that was the end. Fink, after three times failing on the match point, finally put it over when Coburn smashed the ball above the backline. The score of the third game was 15—8.

The stroke analysis indicates the measure of Fink's superiority tellingly—a superiority manifested throughout the tournament no less than in the final round. The Crescent man earned 24 points to 10 for Coburn, and made but eleven errors to thirty for the Harvard man. The advantage in both cases was considerably more than two to one in favor of Fink, who at the present time is playing the sort of squash that would make him a formidable contender in any company.

Sawyer Shows Himself How Hole Can Be Made in One

Ned Sawyer, the present metropolitan golf champion and former holder of the Western title, used to say that he never did believe in the possibility of making a hole in one unless by some miracle of chance. In the course of twenty years' activity on the links, Sawyer declared he not only had never holed out in one himself, but he had never even seen the feat accomplished. Yet Sawyer has now given himself an unwitting demonstration of the possibility of the achievement. Playing at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club against John W. Harris, Sawyer made the second hole of 190 yards in a single stroke. It was some time after he had accomplished the feat before he realized it. He combed the surrounding territory microscopically, searching high and low for his ball before it occurred to him to look in the cup, where it was reposing peacefully.

CORNELL FIVE WINS IN FINAL MINUTE

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 20.—Cornell's basketball team opened its intercollegiate league season tonight by defeating the fast and strong Princeton five, 24 to 20. The game was one of the fastest and most spectacular ever played on the local court, the score being tied up to the next to last minute of play. With only sixty seconds to go the score was 20-20, but Captain Molinet, who played a sensational game for Cornell, sifted a long goal through the net from the middle of the court. Thirty seconds later Cornish, the other Cornell forward, twisted his way through the Princeton team, and on a dribble nearly the entire length of the floor flashed under the Tigers' basket and dumped in a pretty goal.

Princeton, which had a team of fast, hard-playing basketball men, showed the way to Cornell durng most of the first and second halves. The Tigers excelled in teamwork and speed and assumed an early lead, which they held until the middle of the second period. Legendre, Bill Roper's star football end, was the bright star of the Princeton attack and shot four goals during the evening, his speedy and heady playing keeping the Tigers out in front in the first half.

When the closing chapter was half spent Cornell, summoning all its energies, launched a formidable offensive that soon tied the score. Molinet and Sidman bore the brunt of the work, and with the assistance of Barkelew, who was sent in to forward in place of Cornish when the latter moved to guard, they netted enough goals to send the Red and White team into a narrow lead, 17 to 15. Legendre, however, contributed a goal that again deadlocked the issue, and the two rivals battled on even terms until there was only a minute left.

At this critical juncture came Molinet's sensational goal, and Cornish broke the hearts of the Tigers by making his spectacular dribble down the floor and shooting a second goal, which gave Cornell a four-point lead. Molinet and Sidman were the stars for Cornell, and Legendre stood out above his Princeton mates.

The line-up:

| CORNELL (24). | | PRINCETON (20). |
|---|---|---|
| Molinet | R. F. | Netts |
| Cornish | L. F. | Opie |
| Rippe | C. | Dickinson |
| Pope | R. G. | Wittmer |
| Sidman | L. G. | Legendre |

Goals from Field—Molinet (3), Cornish (2), Sidman, Barkelew (2), Netts, Opie (2), Legendre (4). Goals from foul—Sidman 8 out of 11, Legendre 4 out of 7.

EASY GAME FOR CRESCENT.

Cooper Union Is Swamped in Basketball by Score of 73 to 17.

When the basketball team of Cooper Union sallied forth for an invasion of the Crescent Athletic Club courts yesterday evening it should first have ascertained the condition of the weather in Brooklyn. Had the Cooperites done this they might have been preparated for a blizzard in the neighboring borough and not have gotten themselves snowed under to the tune of 73 to 15. That was the final tally after two twenty-minute periods.

The Crescents played thirteen men all told. Parmely, who went in at a forward position after the game had been some minutes under way, was the particular star of the New Mooners. That, being a bad pun, permits a second one to the effect that he was the shooting star, shooting some eight goals in approximately the same number of minutes. Cooper Union also made a number of substitutions.

| CRES. A. C. (73). | | COOPER UN. (17). |
| Michlas | L. F. | Bossert |
| Stannard | R. F. | Griffiths |
| McTigue | C. | Rhodes |
| Ashmead | L. G. | Meyer |
| A. Stuart | R. G. | Diamond |

Goals from floor—Crescent: Michlas (2), Stannard (6), McTigue (2), Ashmead (4), A. Stuart, Kinny (5), Parmely (8), Peck (2), Griffins (3), Heath (2), Fimms; Cooper Union: Bossert, Griffiths (2), Rhodes, Meyer, Russal. Goals from foul—Crescent: Michlas; Cooper Union: Griffiths (3).

TEN GAMES FOR COLGATE.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 20.—The complete 1921 schedule of the Colgate University football team was given the finishing touches by the arrangement of the Colgate eleven to play Columbia at the Polo Grounds in New York on Thanksgiving Day next Fall and was announced late today by Graduate Manager Bill Reid of Colgate athletics. The schedule is the longest, and probably one of the hardest in which a Colgate eleven has ever been called upon to compete.

In the list for next Fall the Colgate management has included two teams that Colgate has never met before, New York University and Columbia. Another departure has been the plan for playing teams on neutral territory. N. Y. U. will probably be met in Utica. The contest with Brown at Fenway Park and the game with Columbia at the Polo Grounds are expected to prove huge winning cards in the gridiron struggles of next season.

Many elevens in the East asked for places on the Colgate schedule, one of the most gratifying offers being that of the Amherst eleven, for Oct. 15 or 22. But as the Maroon had definitely arranged to play Susquehanna here on the former date, and Cornell at Ithaca on the latter, it was necessary to decline. The offer was gratifying to the Colgate management, inasmuch as it would have brought about a renewal of the warm football relation that existed between Amherst and Colgate before the war.

Sept. 24, St. Bonaventure, at Hamilton; Oct. 1, Allegheny at Hamilton; Oct. 6, Princeton at Princeton; Oct. 15, Susquehanna at Hamilton; Oct. 22, Cornell at Ithaca; Oct. 29, New York University at Utica or Hamilton; Nov. 5, Rochester at Hamilton; Nov. 12, Syracuse at Syracuse; Nov. 19, Brown at Boston; Nov. 24, Columbia at New York.

Franklin Five Wins, 27 to 13.

The Franklin School basketball team defeated the Columbia Grammar five, 27 to 13, in a game yesterday afternoon on Franklin court. The winner's teamwork and accurate shooting were too much for the grammar school quintet.

HUSTON LAUNCHES ATTACK ON JOHNSON

The forces are again lined up for battle in the American League. On the one side are the owners of the New York, Chicago and Boston Clubs, on the other stand Ban Johnson and those club owners which gained the name of "loyal five" by their stand with Johnson in the Mays case, in the effort to make Judge K. M. Landis supreme head of baseball, and, more recently, in the steam-roller work at the American League meeting last Friday.

In the Mays case the Yankees gained all they demanded in regard to player rights, using Mays, despite a suspension that Johnson inflicted, and finally getting the case out of the courts. They compromised by withdrawing certain suits against Johnson. In the move to put Judge Landis in charge of baseball, the three American League Club owners joined forces with the National League, and Johnson finally had to accept the dictum of the eleven clubs.

Petty Politics Last Week.

Then came the petty politics at the American League meeting last week. All who have closely followed this baseball strife know that it means another uprising in the near future. Under a system of rotation in the League, the Board of Directors for the ensuing year should be made up of Messrs. Comiskey, Ruppert, Frazee and Dunn. The Johnson followers refused to elect this quartet, as Dunn alone is lined up as a Johnson supporter. Comiskey and Frazee were rebuffed, Ruppert declined to serve under the conditions which would be imposed and the new board, like the old one, is an all-Johnson ticket.

During all the time last week, when the meetings and conferences were being held Colonel J. L. Huston, half owner of the Yankees, was confined to his home with illness. After careful consideration of the details Colonel Huston yesterday issued a broadside against Johnson, in which he charges Johnson and his followers with being dissenters in the new régime, insisting that only the elimination of Johnson and his power will make possible the peace in baseball which is so eagerly sought.

Huston's statement follows:

"Johnson's action in breaking the precedent of eighteen years in not electing New York, Boston and Chicago members of the Board of Directors of the American League indicated clearly that he and his "Willful Five" are dissenters from the new Landis régime in baseball, and shows how very deeply he resents the part which these three clubs had in bringing about the new order of things.

"Johnson is against any plan that does not originate with him. He is reluctant to relinquish the power which is passing from his hands, due to his own incompetence. Johnson is very bitter against the owners of three clubs, New York, Chicago and Boston, because it was they who, in the Mays case, gave him his first real setback in baseball, and it was these same three club owners who, by combining with the National League, compelled Johnson to relinquish his throttlehold on baseball. He can show his resentment only by the petty exercise of power in his own league.

Ban Opposed Landis.

"During the past two years Johnson has been strong and loud in his opposition to Judge Landis as Chairman of the National Commission. During the past year Johnson has fought the appointment of Judge Landis as Chairman of the National Commission, and successfully resisted the Judge's entrance into baseball until compelled to consent at the recent Chicago meeting. His show of acquiescence is the veriest hypocrisy. He had to surrender at the recent Chicago meeting because his "Willful Five" deserted him in the fear that the proposed twelve-club league would injure their property investments. No other reason would appeal to them. It was hoped that the adoption of the new National Agreement would bring about peace in baseball and leave all concerned free to devote their time to the purification of the game itself. Johnson has willfully broken open old sores, and his evident intention is to kick up and perpetuate rows which will be calculated to disgust and discourage Judge Landis at the start, but it is certain that Judge Landis will quickly find means to curb Johnson and his puppets.

"Johnson and his five clubs are banded together by ties other than true sportsmanship. Johnson announced two years ago that five clubs would hereafter run baseball. He has endeavored to carry this threat into execution. The strength of this unholy alliance has made Johnson exceedingly arrogant, and has been the cause of all the recent trouble in the American League and in baseball, and until it is broken there can be no peace. The elimination of Johnson would automatically restore tranquillity."

MARTIN IS LEAGUE HEAD.

Southern Association Re-elects Its President for Three Years.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 20.—John D. Martin of Memphis was re-elected President of the Southern Association for a three-year term, and approval was given a post-season series between the pennant winners of the Southern and Texas leagues for the Class A championship of the South at the opening session here today of the Directors of the Southern Association.

It was voted that the Presidents of the several member clubs should attend the meeting of the National Association of Minor League Clubs at Chicago next month, when the proposed new national agreement will be discussed.

PLAN BUSY RIFLE SEASON.

Smallbore League Announces Many Events for Next Year.

The American Smallbore League is planning one of the busiest seasons in its history for next year. Rifle matches and tournaments of all kinds will be included among the numerous events that will be scheduled, according to an announcement just made by Captain Frank Winch, Secretary of the league. Not only will the regular fixtures and championships be held, but there will be individual, novice and sweepstake matches as well.

Chief interest naturally will centre in the international match carded for April. The scores will be exchanged by cable. The American Smallbore League team will compete against the representatives of Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, France, Italy, England and Australia. The American team will be composed of the five shooters making the highest scores in the individual matches now in progress. The high man in the international match will earn the title of world's champion indoor rifle shooter. The national championship will be held on the American Smallbore League range at Tenafly, N. J., in September. The tournament will last two weeks.

Benefit Bouts Prohibited.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—An order prohibiting a boxing carnival scheduled for tonight under the auspices of a Chicago morning newspaper fund to furnish Christmas dinners for the poor was issued this afternoon by Charles Fitzmorris, Superintendent of Police, after protests had been made by Methodist and Baptist ministerial associations.

Heinie Groh Is Not to Be Traded, Declares Herrmann

CINCINNATI, Dec. 20.—Upon his return today from the baseball meetings in New York, August Herrmann, President of the Cincinnati Baseball Club, said that under no circumstances would the club trade either Heinie Groh or Eddie Roush. He admitted, however, that the New York club had offered $150,000 for Groh. He also said that the Cincinnati club had not given up hope of landing Maranville, Boston shortstop.

SPEAR AND BRUSSEL WIN AT BILLIARDS

STANDING IN NATIONAL CLASS C. BILLARD TOURNAMENT.

| F. A. Unger | 2 | 0 | 1000 |
| J. M. Lewis Jr. | 2 | 0 | 1000 |
| G. Spear | 2 | 1 | .667 |
| S. Brussel | 1 | 1 | .500 |
| C. J. Steinbugler | 1 | 2 | .333 |
| J. R. Johann | 0 | 2 | .000 |
| Claude Lewis | 0 | 2 | .000 |

Two matches were played in the Class C 18:2 balkline tournament for the championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players at the National Recreation Academy in Brooklyn last night. In the first game, George Spear defeated Claude Lewis by a score of 150 to 132. In the second game, Sidney Brussel, the present champion, won from C. J. Steinbugler, 150 to 120.

The match between Spear and Lewis was the more interesting. Spear was in excellent stroke, a fact attested by his average of 4 6-36. His high run was 23. Lewis, with a high run of 20, averaged 3 27-35. Spear took the lead at the outset and was never headed. Although he was not brilliant in his work at the table, he was very consistent and made his creditable average by compiling small clusters with regularity.

It was not until the closing innings of his match with Steinbugler that Brussel pulled away to win by a comfortable margin. Up to the thirtieth inning of the tussle it was nip and tuck; in fact, at the end of the twenty-seventh inning, Steinbugler was leading by 93 to 89. Brussel assumed command in the thirtieth and thereafter increased his lead until he won by a margin of 30 points.

OWLES EASY CUE VICTOR.

Beats Bassi in Preliminary Round of A. A. B. A.'s Three-Cushion Play.

The preliminary round of the national three-cushion championship tournament of the American Amateur Billiard Association was started at John Doyle's Academy last night. Before one of the biggest galleries that has ever witnessed an amateur three-cushion match in this city Fred G. Owles defeated Louis Bassi by a score of 25 to 12 in thirty-six innings. The victory was scored just as easily as the tally indicates.

Owles was in excellent form and jumped away to a commanding lead soon after the game started. In the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth innings he made successive runs of 4, 4, 3 and 3. By the time one-half of the match had been played Owles was leading, 21 to 5. Because of the big lead he had piled up Owles eased off in his work at the table. He was inclined to be careless and missed many "naturals" during the closing innings of play. Bassi, on the other hand, was outclassed throughout.

Owles is conceded to be one of the best shot makers among the amateurs in this city. If his safety play were equally strong there is little doubt that he would be able to more than hold his own against any amateur in this section. Last night Owles made many shots that would have done credit to any of the leading professional players of the country. Not only did he tear off the "naturals" during the early innings with deadly accuracy, but he made several very difficult short angle shots.

RAYNOLDS REACHES FINAL.

Will Meet Shoemaker in Last Match of Crescent A. C. Cue Tourney.

Edward F. Raynolds, the New York State champion, last night earned the right to meet Howard Shoemaker, the national champion, in the final match of the pocket billiard tournament being staged at the Crescent Athletic Club for the Eastern championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. They will meet in the match that will decide the title tomorrow night.

Playing one of the best games he has turned in, Raynolds scored a one-sided victory over A. S. Hart by a score of 125 to 38. The outstanding feature of the visitor's work was his position playing. He was extremely accurate in getting good position for break shots at the end of each frame. Not once did he fail to pocket the ball and break the bunch. It was an exhibition of some of the best pocket billiards that has been given by an amateur player this season. Raynolds also proved extremely accurate in making shots.

| Player. | Won. | Lost. | P.C. |
| H. Shoemaker | 3 | 0 | 1000 |
| E. F. Reynolds | 3 | 0 | 1000 |
| G. Gardner | 2 | 2 | .500 |
| A. S. Hart | 1 | 3 | .250 |

W. & J. TO PLAY BUCKNELL.

Presidents Will Next Year Meet Gridiron Rival After Lapse.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 20.—Washington and Jefferson's football schedule for 1921, announced today by Graduate Manager Robert M. Murphy, shows few changes over the card presented for 1920. The only teams dropped for next season are Geneva and Kalamazoo and the only new opponent added is Bucknell. Bucknell has not been played since 1914.

Of the nine games booked, five have been arranged for the home grounds, with four away from home, the latter being with Pitt, Syracuse, Lehigh and West Virginia. The Lehigh game was booked under a two-year agreement which brought the South Bethlehem eleven to Washington last October. The same holds true of the contest with West Virginia, the Presidents and Mountaineers having entered into a permanent agreement that provides a game on alternate years at Morgantown and Washington.

The Pitt contest comes on Nov. 12, having been placed at this time because of its paramount importance as the biggest athletic event of the year in Western Pennsylvania. It will be played as usual on Forbes Field. The game with Syracuse is a pleasant surprise as it was feared the match could not be arranged.

COLUMBIA AND YALE CREWS WILL MEET

Columbia and Yale have entered into a two-year rowing agreement which calls for a race on the Housatonic next Spring and a return appearance of the New Haven crew on the Harlem River in 1922, according to announcement yesterday by Graduate Manager Watt of Columbia. The dual race next year will be held at Derby, Conn., on April 30, but no date has been set for Yale's race on the Harlem in the following year.

The signing of the new agreement is in line with Columbia's policy of staging more dual races and regattas on New York waters. The first step in this direction was taken last year, when the Blue and White made a successful bid for the Childs Cup race, which will be held next Spring on the Harlem for the first time in a long span of years. Previously the Columbia policy had been to schedule all of its races on foreign waters, usually at New Haven and Annapolis, and culminating in the Childs Cup race and the Poughkeepsie regatta, which have always been held away from New York.

In addition to the Childs Cup race, the date of which has been set for May 14, Columbia is angling for still another event on its own course. Negotiations are being conducted with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which has asked for a dual race on the Harlem for April 23. If this clash is arranged, as seems probable, it will be the first test of the season for Jim Rice's varsity eight, and will precede the Yale race by a week.

Columbia crews will also be entered in the eight-oared race at the American Henley, which will probably be staged again this year on the Schuylkill River, Philadelphia. Penn, Princeton, Navy, M. I. T. and probably Cornell will be entered. The date of the regatta is May 28 and Columbia will probably send both a varsity and junior varsity eight.

The last race on the schedule will be the Poughkeepsie regatta, in which Rice will have three eights, varsity, junior varsity and freshman. The annual classic on the Hudson will be held probably in the third week of June, the exact date depending on water conditions and the time that the various colleges have set for final examinations. The three Columbia eights will leave for their boathouse on the Hudson a few days after the end of the term in the first week of June and they will spend at least two weeks in workouts along the course itself. Recent inspections show that the Columbia quarters at Poughkeepsie are in first-class shape and only a short time will be required in which to get them ready for the oarsmen.

May 14, Childs Cup Race, Harlem River; 28, American Henley, Schuylkill River, Philadelphia; June 15 to 25 (date not set), Poughkeepsie regatta, Hudson River.

COLUMBIA TO PLAY HOCKEY.

Intercollegiate Contests for Ice Team to Begin After Holidays.

The Columbia hockey team, which began practices recently at the 181st Street Ice Palace after the ice sport had been inactive at the university for many years, will start its intercollegiate matches after the Christmas holidays. Although official approval by the University Committee on Athletics is still lacking, the athletic authorities at Columbia are taking informal steps to arrange a schedule and a tentative list of contests is being drawn up.

It is considered a foregone conclusion that the ice sport will receive the approval of the athletic committee, which has withheld its decision until the situation can be thoroughly investigated and the possibility of getting a suitable rink determined. The committee was also desirous of determining how well the student body would support the new venture and what sort of material would answer the call for practice.

Coach Harrison has had the Blue and White ice squad working three times a week in the 181st Street Ice Palace, where most of the home games will probably be played. The coach has had thirty-five candidates competing for positions on the team and he is now busy making a final selection of players. The cover point position is the only post without a satisfactory occupant. Garside has been shifted to centre, Church going to left wing on the scrubs. The latter, however, has shown consistently good form and is likely to find a place on the varsity before the first game. At the other wing position on the first team is Anderson, the best shooter on the squad and a brilliant all-around performer.

Fordham is one of the teams that will be encountered by Columbia and games will probably be arranged with members of the Intercollegiate League. Penn, Harvard, Princeton, Yale, Cornell, Williams and Boston are also on the list of teams with which negotiations will be begun.

GIRLS' TEAM RETURNS.

Philadelphia Hockey Players Back From Tour of England.

Fourteen Philadelphia girls, who make up the Philadelphia hockey team, returned here yesterday from a tour of England, during which they played nine scheduled games and one extra game for the soldiers' hospital at Southampton. Their contests were all against girl teams representing the county and territorial clubs, including Scotch teams, with the exception of the game at the Southampton hospital, which they played just before sailing for home against a picked team composed of nurses and county players.

The Americans won the games played at Cambridge and Southampton, but were beated in the other contests. The team sailed from New York Oct. 21, and the girls played their first match Nov. 3 against the Surrey team at Wimbledon.

PITTSBURGH WINS ON ICE.

Defeats Canadians in Exhibition Hockey Game by 3 to 2.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 20.—The Pittsburgh Club of the United States Amateur Hockey League defeated the Granites of the Ontario Hockey League in an exhibition game here tonight, 3 to 2. It was the first game of the hockey season in Pittsburgh. The two teams will meet here again tomorrow night.

WILL CAPTAIN NORWICH.

Smith Elected to Lead Vermont Eleven—Schedule Announced.

NORTHFIELD, Vt., Dec. 20.—C. C. Smith, for three years halfback of the Norwich University football team, was elected Captain of the 1921 team at a meeting of the squad today.

The schedule for next season, including eight games, was announced. The season will open on Sept. 24 and close on Nov. 12.

Sept. 24, Dartmouth at Hanover; Oct. 1, University of Maine, Orono; Oct. 8, Rensselaer Polytechnic at Northfield; Oct. 15, Middlebury at Middlebury; Oct. 22, Tufts at Medford; Oct. 29, Clarkson Tech. at Northfield; Nov. 5, University of Vermont at Northfield; Nov. 12, Boston University at Boston.

FIVE NEW ORLEANS FAVORITES IN VAN

FANTOCHE FINISHES FIRST

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 20.—In spite of the fact that cloudy weather greeted the racing at Jefferson Park this afternoon and that the track was heavy, fair-sized fields went to the post in four of the seven events on the program. A total of forty-six horses ran, and of this number the favorites managed to scramble home in front in five of the events, and only once did the public choice finish outside the money. Had it not been for a bad ride by Jockey Wida on White Star, the 7 to 10 choice in the fifth race, another favorite might have flashed under the wire in the van. As it was, White Star completed the journey a poor third, six lengths back of the second horse.

The fifth race, a one-mile test for two-year-olds for the Chalmette Purse, was the featured event of the card, and it was in this race that the players made White Star the choice. There were but five starters, and to the form players it appeared that White Star had a splendid chance to romp off with the honors. It was conceded that Fantoche, which eventually won, had a chance, as well as Bunga Buck, which finished second, and the play centred on these three horses, with the majority of the money being placed on White Star's chances. Day Lilly and Petrarch, the only other starters, were counted out of it before the horses went to the post, and the public's opinion of them was justified by the running of the race. They finished fourth and fifth, repectively.

Bunga Buck broke from the barrier to a flying start, with White Star in second position and Fantoche third. Bunga Buck managed to hold the lead right up to the last seventy yards of the trip, but Mrs. M. Dattner's chestnut colt tired in the stretch and Fantoche was able to win by a full length. Lyke, who had the mount on Fantoche, gave the gelding an excellent ride. The eventual winner was kept in the best going and moved up steadily. He gradually wore down Bunga Buck. The latter showed impressive speed, but could not maintain it for the full distance. At one time Bunga Buck had an advtange of six lengths over Fantoche, but before the horses had rounded the turn into the stretch, Lyke had let down Fantoche a bit and the gelding responded. He closed the gap quickly and was in an excellent position to make his final and winning effort as the horses entered the stretch.

Romp for Vice Chairman.

The fourth race, a six-furlong dash for all ages, proved little more than a romp for the favorite, Vice Chairman. It was the second most attractive feature of the day's offerings, but the track conditions caused free use of the blue pencil, and nine horses were scratched. This left but five to contest the honors. Vice Chairman won by four lengths from Hadrian, while Sagamore was a head back in third place and fighting hard to keep Smart Guy from finishing in the money. Sagamore managed to hold onto the show position by a scant neck.

Jockey Lyke also had the mount on Vice Chairman, and it was due to his strong handling as much as to the colt's speed that the 6-to-5 favorite won so easily. Lyke hustled his mount into the lead as soon as the barrier had been sprung, and he held sway throughout the running. He got away in third position, but was rushed to the front and soon had a two lengths command of the situation. This he increased until he was leading by three lengths as the horses entered the stretch. Vice Chairman was able to increase this advantage by another length and still finish the race well in hand.

Hadrian was kept well up from the start, but did not have the speed to overtake the leader. J. C. Ferriss's colt managed to outstay Sagamore, who had his own troubles saving third place from Smart Guy. Sagamore ran forwardly all the way, but tired near the end. Smart Guy was held off the pace in the early running, but moved up determinedly just before the horses entered the stretch. Had the race been a little longer there is not the slightest doubt that he would have taken the show position from Sagamore.

The form players got away to a good start in the first event, a six furlong sprint for two-year-olds. One of the largest fields of the day went to the post for this race, eight horses facing the barrier. S. A. Clopton's Toss Up was made the choice at 17 to 10 and rewarded his backers by winning by a head from Secretary, with Pimlico third, two lengths further back.

A Badly Beaten Favorite.

Three-year-olds and upward ran six furlongs in the second race, and the favorite, Opportunity, could do no better than finish a poor last in a field of eight. The race was won by Lonely, which paid its backers 5 to 1. The race produced one of the best finishes of the day, for it was not until the closing strides that Lonely was able to overtake Lancelot and win by a head. Oaklawn Belle was third.

Hervey Smarr was the second favorite to win. He captured the third race, a test at a mile or three-year-olds and upward. After being far out of it in the first quarter he moved up determinedly after going half a mile and overhauled Galway. Hervey Smarr, however, was hard pressed near the end by Old McKenna and just managed to beat the latter by half a length. Galway was third.

The summaries:

Kid Lewis, British Welter, Arrives Here for Holidays

Ted (Kid) Lewis, the British welterweight who formerly held the world's championship title, arrived in New York yesterday on the Cunard liner Imperator. Lewis was accompanied by members of his family. The British boxer plans to remain in this country over the holidays and will return to England, where he is scheduled to engage Jack Britton, holder of the world's welterweight championship, in a return bout to be held in London. Lewis does not plan to engage in any matches during his short stay here.

YOUNG EDDY WINS BOUT FROM M'CABE

Young Eddy, Greenwich, Conn., lightweight, gained the decision over Mickey McCabe, Harlem boxer, last night in their twelve-round bout, which was the principal attraction at the Star Sporting Club. The Nutmeg State lightweight carried off the honors in the majority of the rounds and was clearly entitled to the verdict of the judges.

In attaining his triumph, Eddy overcame handicaps in height and reach. The Greenwich boxer, a squat, sturdy veteran of many hard-fought ring battles, waded into his rival without respect for McCabe's blows to the face and stomach, and pounded the Harlemite severely about the mid-section. Particularly did Eddy follow this line of attack in the early rounds and the effect was to weaken McCabe considerably, so that the latter missed repeatedly and was slowed up to a marked extent.

McCabe, with his advantage in reach, was able to carry off the laurels in the early rounds. The Harlem lad boxed cleverly, but, at the same time, cautiously, as if he entertained a wholesome respect for his adversary's punching power. Pecking away tantalizingly with his left, McCabe frustrated Eddy's attack, and made the Connecticut lightweight miss repeatedly. At infighting, too, in the early rounds McCabe more than held his own, for, with his long arms, he was able to protect himself against Eddy's blows, countering meanwhile with stinging wallops of his own.

Eddy, however, stood up under the blows without any visible effect. He never backed an inch, but persisted in his efforts to counter with effective punches. The combination of McCabe's early strength and the Harlem boxer's physical advantage, proved an insurmountable hurdle for four rounds.

In the fifth, however, the tide of battle shifted. Eddy plodded on in his attack, coming in against the swings and hooks of McCabe, taking some of the blows and evading others, and himself landing with powerful drives to the stomach. These punches took some of the steam out of McCabe and must have robbed the Harlemite of much of his punching power, for thereafter Eddy just bored in, regardless of his rival's counters, and worked diligently for the stomach at close quarters. For three rounds Eddy gave his undivided attention to McCabe's mid-section, and then the Greenwich boxer suddenly shifted to the face. In the ninth round he had McCabe retreating before his fire, and in the tenth Eddy several times forced his rival to the ropes under a shower of rights and lefts. Near the bell in this round Eddy landed with a long, sweeping overhand right to the jaw after rushing McCabe to the ropes, and the Harlemite's knees sagged. Eddy stepped in to follow his advantage, but the bell sounded, ending the round.

Through the eleventh and twelfth rounds Eddy continued his attack, repeatedly landing with blows which forced McCabe to seek refuge in clinches. The closing round was a riot of punching, both boxers letting go without restraint from bell to bell. The final clang of the gong found the men locked at close quarters, swinging with all their remaining strength. Eddy landed more often and effectively than his opponent in this terrific last-round flurry.

The semi-final bout of twelve rounds resulted in a victory for Frankie Maxwell of Harlem over Jimmy Blute of Yorkville. Maxwell gained the award of Referee Barney Williams after the judges had disagreed. This contest was a slugging bee throughout, most of the action being provided at close quarters, at which style of milling Maxwell appeared to advantage.

ENGLISH 'BOBBIES' ARRIVE FOR BOUTS

Two Champions of London's Police Force Are Here to Meet New York's "Finest."

When the Cunard liner Imperator slipped into her berth in the North River yesterday, two husky looking London "bobbies" stepped down the gangplank accompanied by Inspector Arthur J. Spriggs of Scotland Yard, Secretary of the Metropolitan Police Athletic Association of London. They were Constables Jack Stanley, a capable looking 196-pounder who holds the London police heavyweight championship, and Harry Mallin, carrying about 160 pounds, holder of the middleweight title of the department.

The two British policemen are here for the purpose of engaging the leading New York policemen-boxers in their respective classes. They earned their championships and the opportunity to visit this country through their successful participation in a series of elimination bouts in which the boxers of the London force participated. The arrival of the "bobbies" marks the first invasion of foreign amateur boxers for an international tournament which will be held early next month, probably at one of the big hotels, under the auspices of the International Sporting Club. During their stay here the London policemen will be quartered at the New York Police Club on Riverside Drive.

Champions Meet Invaders.

When the British cops arrived they were met by a reception committee which included some I. S. C. representatives and Police Department champions in various sports. Deputy Commissioner John A. Harriss, President of the New York Police Club, headed the committee, which included Patrolman Bill Spengler, heavyweight champion of the "finest," who has also held this title in local Amateur Athletic Union ranks and was a member of the last Olympic team; Patrolman John Ruff, welterweight champion of the force, who gained his title in the bouts conducted last Winter at the Crescent A. C.; Patrolman John Randolph and Isador Cantor, wrestlers; John Brilla, pistol expert, and Sergeant Thomas M. Shaw, jiu-jitsu instructor of the Police Department. As soon as their baggage had been properly checked the visiting policemen were whisked away to the Police Club.

Matchmaker Tex O'Rourke of the International Sporting Club, who went abroad several weeks ago to complete arrangements for the forthcoming tournament, is expected to arrive here tomorrow with Great Britain's army and navy heavyweight and middleweight boxing champions. These representatives in the international tournament, as was the case with the "bobbies," have been selected by a board of selection after a series of elimination bouts. Following the arrival of the British service men, representatives of the French and Belgian armies and navies will come here for the International Sporting Club competition. Secretary Adam Empie declared yesterday that the complete foreign representation is expected to be here within a fortnight, when final plans for the tournament probably will be disclosed. Elimination bouts to determine the American army and navy competitors are now in progress, according to Secretary Empie.

To Arrange Final Plans.

While no positive announcement has been made, it is understood an official welcome to the visiting policemen will be tendered by the International Sporting Club. This reception will probably be in the form of a dinner at which the Englishmen will be the guests of honor. Final plans will be determined after the return home of Matchmaker O'Rourke tomorrow. Secretary Empie yesterday significantly remarked that the International Sporting Club would be prepared at this reception to disclose some important plans for bouts for its members, which have been developing within the past few months.

The international amateur bouts, which the International Sporting Club has arranged, will be conducted exclusively for the club's members. Negotiations for permission to hold the contest in a hotel are now in progress, and it is expected the developments will have attained a stage by tomorrow where the International Sporting Club officials will be prepared to announce their plans upon the arrival of Matchmaker O'Rourke.

BANTAMS DOWN TO WEIGHT.

Herman and Lynch Register Correct Poundage for Title Bout.

Pete Herman, bantamweight champion, and Joe Lynch, west side contender for the title, who will clash in the stellar fifteen-round bout tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden, were yesterday reported down to the required weight for the championship battle. The boxers will wind up their training today. Herman, confident that he will retain his title, has booked passage on the Imperator, which sails for England Thursday. The bantamweight title holder is sailing abroad to box Jimmy Wilde in a twenty-round match at London, Jan. 14.

Three bouts will precede the Herman-Lynch contest. In ten-round matches Midget Smith will clash with Johnny Buff and Kewpie Collander will engage Young Montreal. A six-round bout will bring together Georgie Thompson and Willie Spencer.

THREE MEN SUSPENDED.

Boxer, Manager and Referee Barred Indefinitely at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.—Bobby Burman, a local boxer; Eddie Hayes, his manager and Tommy Keenan, official referee at the National Athletic Club, today were barred indefinitely from participation in boxing in this city by Director of Public Safety James T. Cortelyou. The action of the director was taken as a result of a free-for-all fight during a bout at the club Saturday night between Burman and Tommy Cleary. The trouble is said to have started when Referee Keenan warned Burman against roughness.

Director Cortelyou also announced he had lifted the ban on Harry Wills and Sam McVey, colored boxers, who had been under suspension since last Summer for alleged faking.

This Sum Passed Through Pari-Mutuel Machines in Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 20.—At the Fall meetings of the four one-mile racetracks of Maryland $38,000,000 passed through the pari-mutuel machines during the sixty-nine days of racing, according to figures disclosed by the State Racing Commission today. The commission did not begin operations until after the Spring season was over, but conservative estimates for the entire racing year (110 days) place the amount at $60,000,000.

The total net earnings of the four tracks for the Fall season, according to their statement to the commission, were $1,149,862 before deductions for new construction, equipment and repairs were made, and $617,002 after the deductions.

The commission applied the pruning knife to the deduction accounts heavily. It reduced the yearly salary of James F. O'Hara, General Manager of the Bowie track, from $20,000 to $10,000 and that of G. D. Ryan, his assistant, from $15,000 to $5,000. An item of $8,300 for Bowie Directors' fee was cut to $1,200.

Difference Between That and Market Price the Issue, Says Defense.

Alleging that his income tax return for 1915 was "incorrect, misleading and false," the United States Government yesterday brought action in the Federal Court here against John D. Rockefeller Sr. to obtain judgment for $292,678.78, together with a penalty of 5 per cent. and interest thereon at the rate of 1 per cent. a month from June 30, 1916.

Assistant United States District Attorney R. S. Holmes brought the suit, which is based upon the income tax return which Mr. Rockefeller filed on March 26, 1916, with the Collector of Internal Revenue of the Third District of New York, and which purported to be "a true and complete statement of the gains, profits and income received by or accrued to him during the year ended Dec. 31, 1915."

The complaint drafted by Prosecutor Holmes alleges that the Rockefeller return failed to include as part of his profits and income for 1915 any part of the 50,104 shares of the capital stock of the Illinois Pipe Line Company or 67,176 shares of the capital stock of the Prairie Pipe Line Company, or the value of those shares.

Rockefeller Is Defended.

Mr. Rockefeller is in the South, but his representatives in a statement issued last night declared that the whole matter at issue was the difference between the par and the market value of the stock in question and the right of the Government to hold stock dividends as taxable. The statement explained that Mr. Rockefeller in 1915 received the oil company stock as its pro rata distribution to stockholders, and that under a ruling of the United States Treasury Department that stock dividends were not taxable, the stocks were not included in Mr. Rockefeller's income in his tax return for that year.

Later, when the Treasury Department changed its ruling, the Rockefeller return was revised to include the stocks at their par value and he paid the tax under protest. When the United States Supreme Court decided that such stock dividends were not taxable, Mr. Rockefeller filed a claim for a refund of the money he paid on the stock dividends in 1917. The department disallowed the claim on the ground that the stock dividends were really dividends paid in property and therefor taxable and that the assessment anyway should have been on the market and not the par value of the stocks.

"The return in 1915 was in accordance with the Treasury Department's rulings," says the statement, "and Mr. Rockefeller believes that the additional amount now claimed is not a legal tax under the decisions of the United States Supreme Court, and for that reason, pending a decision by the courts, he has declined to pay it."

Charges by the Government.

The Government's complaint alleges that during 1915 Mr. Rockefeller was the owner and holder of 150,313 shares of the capital stock of the Ohio Oil Company which on Feb. 15 of that year delivered to him as a dividend 50,104 shares of the capital stock of the Illinois Pipe Line Company, of a par value of $100 each. At the same time, the complaint sets forth, Mr. Rockefeller was the owner and holder of 44,784 shares of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, which on March 25, 1915, paid him as a dividend 67,176 shares of the capital stock of another company known as the Prairie Pipe Line Company, of a par value of $100 each.

The par value of the 50,104 shares of the Illinois Pipe Line Company, the complaint states, was $5,010,433.34, and the par value of the Prairie Pipe Line Company was $6,717,600, making a total of $11,728,033.34. The market value of the Illinois Pipe Line Company, the complaint further explains, was $6,663,965 and of the stock of the Prairie Pipe Line Company $9,942,048, making a total of $16,606,013.

According to the complaint Mr. Rockefeller's return for 1915 was corrected by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue so as to show that on July 9, 1917, the value of the stocks of the Illinois Pipe Line Company and of the Prairie Pipe Line Company was $11,728,033.34, and assessed against the defendant an additional tax of $754,737.09 on the stock distributed as dividends of the Ohio Oil Company. This tax was paid by Mr. Rockefeller on Sept. 24, 1917.

"That the net income," the complaint states, "for said calendar year ending Dec. 31, 1915, irrespective of said shares of stock received by defendant as dividends as set forth, was in excess of $500,000 and by reason of the premises an additional tax in the sum of $292,678.78, became due and owing from the defendant to the plaintiff, namely, an additional tax of 6 per cent. on the sum of $4,877,979.66, the difference between the market value of the shares of stock at the time the same were distributed and received by defendant, to wit, $16,606,013, and the par value of said shares of stock, to wit, $11,728,033.34."

The complaint in conclusion asserts that no part of the additional tax of $292,678.78 has been paid, although demanded and the same is now due and owing, together with a penalty of 5 per cent. on the amount thereof and interest at the rate of 1 per cent. per month from June 30, 1916.

K. of C. to Close Times Square Hut.

The hut of the Knights of Columbus which has stood for two years in Times Square at Broadway and Forty-sixth Street, where more than 1,000,000 men in service during the war went for entertainment, and where more than 60,000 since the war were provided with employment, will be closed within the next few days, according to an announcement yesterday by Supreme Secretary William J. McGinley. As it has been found that most of those applying for work recently were from out of town, the organization believed steps should be taken to prevent the swamping of the labor market here by men from other places who could probably find employment in their own localities.

OPIUM PARTY KILLS GIRL.

Another Is Seriously Ill, and Six Persons Are Arrested in Philadelphia

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.—One girl is dead, another seriously ill in a hospital and six persons are under arrest as the result of an opium smoking party in a house on Melon Street early today. Four of those under arrest are held without bail and the two others under $500 bail for a further hearing next Friday.

The dead woman is Virginia Ginivan, also known as Virginia Davis, aged 23, who lived in a rooming house on Poplar Street. Florence Smith, aged 27, who runs the house on Melon Street where the girls are said to have smoked the opium, and Frederick Slocum, employed as a drug clerk, are held without bail.

Edward Regan and Ernest Stabler also were held without bail, charged with attempting to obtain possession of the girl's body and with trying to rob it. James Richards, who took the girls to the Melon Street house, and Howard Raymond, who was in the house at the time, were held as witnesses.

RUMELY SENTENCED TO YEAR AND A DAY

Each Asserts Innocence of Concealing German Ownership of The Evening Mail.

Prison sentences of one year and one day each in the Atlanta Penitentiary were pronounced yesterday by Federal Judge Grubb on Dr. Edward A. Rumely, S. Walter Kaufmann and Norvin R. Lindheim, who were convicted on Saturday on indictments charging them with having conspired to conceal from the Alien Property Custodian the alleged German ownership of The Evening Mail. The defendants were paroled in the custody of their counsel until today, when bail of $10,000 each will be furnished and they will be set free pending an appeal.

The Court refused a motion that sentence be deferred until the Supreme Court hears argument on the constitutionality of the Trading with the Enemy act. Judge Grubb said he saw no reason for an arrest of judgment.

Arthur G. Hays, head of the law firm of which Kaufmann and Lindheim are members, asked for clemency. He said he was away when the report to the Alien Property Custodian was made, but that if he had been here he would have acquiesced in it.

Dr. Rumely read a statement to the Court, the gist of it being that he was innocent and that, while his grandparents were of German blood, he had worked for and advocated the full maintenance of the rights of this country more emphatically against German ruthlessness than against the English blockade. Part of his statement read:

"My resources are far spent. Seven indictments and continuous prosecution during the past two and one-half years have debarred me from all work. The attacks upon me destroyed my school, drove me out of my engine company, which was at the time in the service of the War Department without recompense; the newspaper equity, which even this verdict allows was mine, was destroyed. I have had to bear the burden of carrying to the Supreme Court removal proceeding designed to take me to a strange district for trial.

"These two and a half years have been a black hell, but they have brought also insight into the grandeur of life in friendships that stood through adversity. Fanny Scott, my wife; James A. Patten, and hosts of others have shown such loyalty as is given to few men to know."

Kaufmann and Lindheim also addressed the court. The former stated that neither one of the convicted men was guilty, that he had committed no wrong and that no consideration could induce him to do an act of wrong against this country. Mr. Lindheim said that when he signed the report submitted to the Alien Property Custodian he believed it was true.

RABBI SILVERMAN RESIGNS HIS POST

SERVED NEARLY 33 YEARS

MAY BE RABBI EMERITUS

Action Deferred Until Jan. 17—Letter Causes Surprise to Many.

Dr. Joseph Silverman, for nearly thirty-three years rabbi of Temple Emanu-El, Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street, one of the chief temples of the Jewish faith in this city, presented his resignation last night to the Board of Trustees at the annual meeting of the congregation held in the vestry rooms. A desire to devote himself more extensively to literature and to communal work prompted his decision to quit the active ministry.

Although Dr. Silverman's wish to retire was placed before the congregation by Louis Marshall, President of the Board of Trustees and of the congregation, definite action on it was adjourned to a meeting to be held on the evening of Jan. 17 in the vestry room. Mr. Marshall explained that the Trustees desired time to consider Dr. Silverman's request, which undoubtedly would be granted, and to make some arrangements.

While it was said to be likely that Dr. Silverman would be elected Rabbi Emeritus for life, no thought has yet been taken as to his successor.

Letter of Dr. Silverman.

The rabbi's wish to lay aside the responsibilities of his active charge after years of work and service came before the meeting in the form of a letter addressed to Mr. Marshall and the eleven other Trustees. After the annual report of the congregation and the reports of committees had been read and accepted, Mr. Marshall read Dr. Silverman's letter. It was as follows:

45 East Seventy-fifth Street,
Dec. 19, 1920.

New York City,
Gentlemen:

It is with some hesitation that I address you on the subject of my future relationship to our congregation, having completed over thirty-two years of active and unbroken service in the Babbinate of Temple Emanu-El, and having arrived at a time of life when I would like to have sufficient leisure to carry out a long-cherished ideal of devoting myself to literary, and, in general and Jewish, I feel that I ought not to delay any longer in consulting you as to the best means of arriving at a decision which would be just to Temple Emanu-El as well as to myself. I am also impelled to this step by a desire to take an active leadership in some important communal work.

It is evident that I cannot follow the inclinations indicated without my congregation's hearty approval, co-operation and support. Permit me, therefore, to request that you kindly consider how I may be released from such part of my routine duties and responsibilities as may be necessary to afford me the time and leisure required for the purposes aforesaid and yet not eliminate me entirely from the Rabbinate of Temple Emanu-El.

I shall be glad to receive a communication from you on this weighty matter, and enter into a conference regarding it. In the meantime, be assured, gentlemen, that I am deeply appreciative of the great honor, joy and privilege, that have been mine for so many years, of serving in Emanu-El's vineyard of the Lord, and that I trust our official, personal and friendly relationship will continue indefinitely.

Faithfully yours,
JOSEPH SILVERMAN.

The reading of the letter seemingly took many of the congregation by surprise. For this reason, said Mr. Marshall later, it was decided not to put the resignation before the congregation at once, but to defer it to the adjourned meeting.

Board Will Confer With Rabbi.

"The Board of Trustees," said Mr. Marshall at his home last night, "felt it was their duty to present the letter to the congregation, due to the fact that they had not had any time to consider the matter. We requested that it be put over until the next meeting and accordingly it was voted to do so. Before this next meeting the board will take up the subject with Dr. Silverman and arrange a course of procedure which will be submitted to the congregation. There is no question as to the severance of Dr. Silverman's connection with the congregation, and he will undoubtedly be elected for life as Rabbi Emeritus.

"Dr. Silverman has been an incumbent of the pulpit of our congregation for nearly thirty-three years, and during that time he has been active in all of the congregational work and has likewise occupied a leading position in the American Rabbinate.

"He has now reached the age of 60 years and feels the necessity of being relieved from the great physical and mental strain to which he has been subjected during all these busy years. He is held in high regard by the Board of Trustees and by the congregation."

Besides Mr. Marshall the members of the Board of Trustees of the temple are David Leventritt, Irving Lehman, Mortimer L. Schiff, Daniel Guggenheim, Henry Sidenberg, William L. Spiegelberg, Henry M. Toch, Adolph S. Ochs, Philip J. Goodheart, Samuel M. Newberger and Edward Schaffer.

In his long tenure as spiritual director of the temple Dr. Silverman has found time to be exceedingly active in community and patriotic service, apart from his ministry. He was one of the leaders in the Liberty and Victory Loan drives. He is rated as one of the leaders of his faith.

Active in Philanthropy.

Dr. Silverman was born in Cincinnati Aug. 23, 1860. He came of a family which had long maintained high ideals and at an early age he felt the inclination to be a religious teacher. After completing his studies at the University of Cincinnati and the Hebrew Union he went to Texas, where he served several small synagogues.

By a coincidence his first charge was of Temple Emanu-El at Dallas, Texas, where he ministered from 1884 to 1885 and thence he went to the Congregation Benai Israel at Galveston. From this post he was called to the one which he now leaves. He was the fourth rabbi of Emanu-El, which was founded in a room at Clinton and Grand Streets on April 13, 1845. His predecessors were Dr. Leo Merzbacher, Dr. Samuel Adler and Dr. Gustav Gottheil.

Upon first coming to Emanu-El, Dr. Silverman served as junior rabbi to Dr. Gottheil, who founded the Emanu-El Sisterhood. Upon assuming full direction of the temple, Dr. Silverman established the Emanu-El Brotherhood, an organization launched thirteen years ago. As first President of the brotherhood he did much to stimulate interest in philanthropic work among his co-religionists through the United Hebrew Charities. He also represented his faith in the Council of Religions held in connection with the Columbian Exposition at Chicago.

Although occupied with the many interests of his important charge and with the multifarious activities growing out of his philanthropic work, Dr. Silverman has found time to be the author of many important books and pamphlets dealing with the worship and the traditions of his fellow religionists. He has gone particularly deeply into research work and is the author of the article on Judiasm in the Encyclopedia Americana.

WAITERS OF VIENNA MAY RUN RESTAURANTS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Dec. 18.—The waiters who are on strike are considering the possibility of taking over restaurants and running them on their own account.

Whether this is to be prmanently a part of a Communist scheme or until the proprietors surrender is not clear. It seems certain, however, that the Social Democrats are behind the strike fever which has recently seized Vienna, as they are anxious to discredit the Christian Socialists, who now form the largest party in Parliament.

All the waiters in the hotels, restaurants, cafés and cabarets have been on strike since Thursday, as well as the whole army of chambermaids, cooks and charwomen. It took three hours yesterday to obtain luncheon in a little out-of-the-way restaurant, which every one seemed to have discovered and where more than 2,000 luncheons were served. Today I was forced to take luncheon at a railway station, where I watched how sometimes the waiters would come staggering in with a trayload of plates only to be plundered of the dishes before they could deliver them to the proper customers.

As the strike widens in its scope it will be fairly impossible for business people to get luncheon, and that means that they will have to go a whole day in Winter without a hot meal or drink.

In honor of which absurd and strangely and weirdly quiet, the guests are obliged to make their own beds, clean their own boots, shift for breakfast as best they can and walk upstairs instead of going up by an elevator. Pickets are at the doors to see that only guests enter, and it is impossible to receive calls from one's friends or business connections.

SAYS FRANCE WON'T EVACUATE SYRIA

But Premier Talks of Withdrawal From Cilicia if Turks Guarantee Safety of Armenians.

PARIS, Dec. 20.—M. Leygues, President of the Council, declared to the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate today: "I will never consent to evacuate Syria." This was in reply to a question regarding the duration of the French occupation of that country.

To the Finance Committee of the Chamber M. Leygues declared that the Government was considering the evacuation of Cilicia after an understanding is reached with the Nationalist Turkish Government and with Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, whereby guarantees shall be given against the massacres of Armenians.

The estimated cost of the occupation of Cilicia and Syria for the first two months of next year is 105,000,000 francs.

ATHENS, Dec. 20.—Information reaching here tonight from Asia Minor via Smyrna, which I send under reserve, states that the Kemalists are very jubilant at the recent French setback.

Kemal has now completed his compact with the Bolsheviki. The Government of Angora has taken an oath of fidelity to the Turkish Soviet. A proclamation has been issued by Kemal declaring his adhesion to the principles of Sovietism and announcing expropriation of the wealth of Christians and Mussulmans alike, which is to be utilized to further the cause of the Turkish Soviet régime.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 17 (Associated Press).—Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, communicated to the Turkish Government today the conditions under which he is prepared to negotiate with it for a settlement. These are:

First—the immediate evacuation of Anatolia and Thrace by the entire Greek forces.

Second—The unconditional return of Smyrna to Turkish rule.

Fifth—Modification of the financial and economic clauses of the Peace Treaty of Sèvres.

Grunstein and Hammermann joined the crowd within the corridor and worked from behind illustrated newspapers which were held in one hand while the other searched pockets. Both were caught in the act of robbery and sentenced to one year in jail.

NATIONS UNWILLING TO JOIN NEW LEAGUE

BUT WILL DROP ARTICLE X.

Ready for Almost any Change in Covenant to Bring This Country In.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Dec. 20.—Two conclusions may be drawn from the work of the first Assembly of the League of Nations, which has just closed here. They may seem paradoxical, but they are not.

The first conclusion is that there must be important changes in the covenant if the League is to succeed. The second conclusion is that it is this League or none for many years to come.

It is commonly accepted by all the delegates that the United States will not enter the League at all unless alterations are made in the covenant, and there is no doubt that almost any changes which America might ask would be agreed to. Article X. or any other particular article would be thrown overboard. The matter of the votes of the British colonies appears to offer the greatest difficulty in reference to what has been talked of as the United States' demands.

Entirely apart from securing the adhesion of America, the experience of the first Assembly has shown that the League will never get any real cohesion until the covenant is changed to give some actual power to the Assembly. There is no matter of real importance within the constructive program of the League which is not now in the hands of the Council. The covenant confers upon this body the specific right to act on enforcing Article X., or on applying Article XVI., or laying down mandate terms, or ruling on amendments. One has only to read the covenant to see that the Council receives the most important duties.

Assembly Chiefly for Speeches.

It provided that the Council may deal with any matter within the competence of the League. Joining these provisions with the fact that the Council meets seven or eight times a year or even oftener and the Assembly once, it is easy to see that the Assembly can do little more than make speeches. It is true that the covenant says that the Assembly may deal with any matter within the competence of the League, but the Council held at Geneva that its actions were not subject to review by the Assembly.

The Council is controlled by Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy, with Belgium. In other words, it is the allied powers' machine. What it can do was illustrated at Geneva when the big powers, through the Council, refused to let the Assembly even discuss the mandate terms, and, although the Assembly passed resolutions about those terms, A. J. Balfour, on behalf of the Council, stated from the rostrum that the Council would not consider itself bound in the slightest by anything the Assembly did in this respect.

The Assembly had three constructive measures of importance before it—disarmament, the world court and mandates. On all three the big powers had their way against the overwhelming majority of the Assembly delegations.

I am not going into the merits of whether or not this has brought the best results, but the point is to be made that the League will never have the sincere co-operation of all its members so long as four of them really run the whole performance, as is the case at present.

Project for Amending Covenant.

I know of a dozen projects for amendment of the covenant intended to give the Assembly some sort of control of the Council. Inasmuch as the consent of the Council is needed to any amendment, the success or failure of these efforts depends on the attitude of the big powers toward the League.

The net result of the first Assembly was to set up the machinery of the League. Nothing else worth while was done. Nothing was done toward disarmament. There was no regulation of mandates and so on, but the machine was set up. It is here in Geneva. The future of the League depends on the sincerity of the big powers in their use of it.

As to the second conclusion, I have emphasized that what tied up the League at Geneva was the unwillingness of France, Great Britain, Japan and Italy to sacrifice any of their sovereign rights to it. For instance, the denial of compulsory jurisdiction to the World Court, the unwillingness to commit themselves on disarmament and so forth. All of those thirty odd little nations saw the big nations monopolize the power and block projects dear to the smaller countries. They saw this result through what they regard as the national selfishness of the big powers of Europe.

Yet they are in the League and will certainly stay in it to fight for changes until they are convinced that it is useless. But the reason that the framework of this League must be kept, or there will be no League for generations is why, interested as they are in this League, the big majority of its members would fail to jump at an invitation to join another League proposed by the United States or any one else in the immediate future.

They are willing to support almost any changes that America may demand. They have said so repeatedly. But there is no doubt that they would be unsympathetic to a proposal from America to join a new League, because the present one might be considered across the Atlantic to endanger America's national interests. They have a stomach full of big nations' national interests for the present.

This is no argument as to whether they are right or wrong. But it is a statement, based on impressions here, that any idea of another entirely different League is sure to fail, and that neither Mr. Harding nor any one else could get forty-seven members for it.

Frame Anti-Pogrom Plea to League.

PARIS, Dec. 20 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—Jewish women in Switzerland have organized for the express purpose of arousing Europe to a movement of protest against pogroms, says a Geneva dispatch. The organization is formulating a petition in this connection, which is to be placed before the League of Nations.

ASK ALLIES FOR BIG CREDITS.

Germans Want 6,000,000,000 Gold Marks for Food and Material.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 20 (Associated Press).—The allied delegates to the second financial conference to discuss German reparations have decided to adjourn the present session next Thursday and reconvene the conference in Brussels probably on Jan. 10.

The German demands for relief now are fairly definite. They ask that they be enabled to obtain 3,000,000,000 gold marks for food purposes during the coming year in addition to the allowances under the Spa coal agreement. More than 3,000,000,000 marks additional are needed for raw materials, the Germans declare.

The Germans ask also that the Allies approve the request made to the Reparations Commission last month that no further shipping be surrendered and that some already in allied hands be returned to Germany.

The Germans want the liquidation of German property abroad to cease and the remaining property, as well as the equivalent of the property already sold, made available to Germany in some form. They ask authority to make favorable commercial treaties.

No New Anglo-Spanish Treaty.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—At the Foreign Office today denial was made that a commercial treaty with Spain was in preparation. It was said further that neither country had even unofficially expressed a desire for such a treaty.

French Insist Germany Pay to Allies Money Raised for Her War Loan Interest

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 20.—An impression has been given the French people that the German delegates to the Brussels Reparations Conference declare Berlin will be able to make only very small payments, if any, of money for some time. French officials call attention to the fact that the German budget this year contains an item of 12,000,000,000 marks for payment of interest on German war bonds. This they say is in violation of the Treaty of Versailles which in Annex 2, Article 12, Paragraph B says:

"The Reparations Commission shall examine the German system of taxation to the end that sums for reparation that Germany is required to pay shall become a charge upon all their revenues prior to that for service, or discharge of any domestic loan."

The French point of view is that these 12,000,000,000 marks should be paid to the Allies rather than to the holders of German bonds.

French opinion is further irritated by the refusal of Germany to pay the amount due nationals of the Allies on account of debts owed by German nationals. For the last six months the Germans have been making these settlements. They paid the October account, 40,000,000 francs, but that for November, 27,000,000 francs, they refused to pay, although due Dec. 8.

The German point of view is that debts owed their nationals by allied nationals should also be paid, but the treaty says under Section 3:

"Any balances which may be due by one or more of the allied and Associated Powers shall be retained until complete payment shall have been effected of sums due allied or Associated Powers or their nationals on account of the war."

Prime Minister Leygues had a conversation on the subject with German Ambassador Mayer yesterday and today a note was drafted to the German Government calling on it to make the payment for November.

These matters have a bearing on the French political situation, because Prime Minister Leygues is being accused by political enemies of not standing sufficiently firm against what is called the German campaign to evade payment of reparation.

SMALL LONDON BANK SUSPENDS PAYMENT

Farrow's, Started as "Foe of Usurers," Had Over £4,000,000 Deposits.

DISTRESS AMONG THE POOR

Depositors Largely Tradesmen—No Widespread Financial Effects Are Expected.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Farrow's Bank, a small private institution with a paid-up capital of £361,423, suspended payment today. An official statement of the Board of Trade points out that this is due to losses and bad management extending over a series of years, and not to "any causes of a general or particular nature of the present time."

Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, explained in the House of Commons this afternoon that the Board of Trade had known for some time of the bank's difficulties, but did not see that it could usefully or prudently intervene.

Much distress, has of course, been caused to the bank's depositors, a large number of whom are small tradesmen; but it is not believed that the suspension will have widespread effects on the financial community.

Farrow's differed from the great Lombard Street corporations as much in its purpose and methods as in its size. Its start in 1904 was due to curious circumstances. Thomas Farrow, who had been secretary to W. H. Smith, leader of the House of Commons, had become a bitter enemy of usurers and on account of his books against them was known as "the foe of money lenders." He established the bank as "a death blow to usury and encouragement to thrift," and he therefore adopted the double policy of granting one-half of 1 per cent. interest on accounts with a balance of only £10 for six months and permitting his customers, however small their accounts, to borrow freely.

The bank prospered for a time, although many doubts were expressed in financial circles that such an institution really prospered, and it has now seventy-five branches and on June 30 had £1,458,316 in current accounts and £2,678,000 in deposit accounts, with £4,657,786 assets.

Many sad stories are told of the losses of depositors, one of these being the hard case of a young woman at Ilford, a suburb of London, who deposited last week with the local branch £200 which her fiancé had sent her to pay her passage to America. Now the money is tied up indefinitely, if not lost, and her trip is postponed.

Still, it is not believed that the suspension will cause anything like the widespread distress which followed the famous Birkbeck or National Penny Bank failures.

As a result of a conference between representatives of the Board of Trade and the Director of Public Prosecutions, two warrants are said to have been issued on behalf of the Public Prosecutor. The auditor of the bank's accounts has been detained by the police and will appear in Police Court tomorrow.

JAPAN HAILS BORAH'S PLAN.

But the Press Defends Japan's Present Naval Program.

TOKIO, Dec. 20 (Associated Press).—The Japanese press is manifesting great interest in the proposal of Senator Borah for a tripartite naval agreement, under which the United States, Great Britain and Japan would pledge themselves to limitation of naval armaments. In general the newspapers favor the idea, but regard Japan's present program as a legitimate one.

In expressing strong approval of the Borah proposal the Mainichi Shimbun of Osaka compares Japan's yearly expenditure of 10,000,000 yen for teachers' salaries with the 500,000,000 yen naval expenditure. It declares that the present rate of expenditure for the navy is suicidal, and that it is the duty of statesmanship to remove the causes which make such large armaments necessary.

Of the Tokio papers, the 'Jiji Shimpo expresses the hope that the Senate will pass the Borah resolution as a means of relieving the world from a fresh outbreak of rivalry in armaments. Japan's program, calling for the building of eight battleships and eight battle cruisers, is not a menace to peace, this newspaper insists, but America's intention to have the first navy in the world, it says, will cause England to expand her building and lead to a new race in naval enlargement.

The Nichi Nichi Shimbun holds that Japan's geographical and international position does not permit her to indulge in disarmament, but that eventually the world situation will make a naval agreement necessary. The present policies of the Governments, it thinks, should pave the way to this end. If the United States reduces its armaments the others will follow, says this journal, and it argues that the responsibility for disarmament rests upon America.

'BLACK HAND' MEN FIGHT EXTRADITION

NEW YORK OFFICER'S WORK

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Dec. 20.—Difficulties have arisen over the co-operation which the Washington Government is seeking from Italy for the suppression of the Black Hand Society. The Italian Government is retorting with arguments induced by ex-President Taft's action in the notorious case of Porter Charlton, whose extradition to Italy, whence he had fled back to the United States after murdering his young wife and sinking her body inside a traveling trunk into Lake Como, was thereby retarded till Taft's term of office was over.

The Italian judicial authorities further hold that the Extradition law should not apply to the case of Italian fugitives because many of them have already been condemned in contumacy in the United States to death in the electric chair, whereas Italy has long abolished capital punishment as a relic of barbarism.

Detective Sergeant Flaschetti of the Italian Police Department in New York, who lately arrived in Naples on this matter, makes the following statement:

"The mission with which the Washington and New York departments intrusted me is a very vast and complex one. I have come to Italy to secure justice for thirty or more Italian and American subjects who, after perpetrating homicidal crimes in America, have sought refuge in Southern Italy. Most of them subsist habitually on robbery and blackmail.

"Only yesterday I tracked down and obtained the arrest at Pomigliano di Arco of a brutal assassin named Vincenzo Granito, who two years ago killed two people in Brooklyn Bridge.

"My mission here is directly connected with the new campaign for the extermination of that tremendous network of dangerous criminals who constitute the Black Hand gang and who come to us principally from the Sicilian provinces of Trapani, Palermo, Girgenti. It is a sad fact that some of these Black Hand daredevils are recruited from the professional classes. In a dramatic raid on a country inn in the suburbs of New York I had the good luck to find thirty famous Black Handers met in conclave in the wine cellars, around vaults. Three of them were Italian medical men, men who were specialists in the department of the Black Hand concerned with the fabrication of false dollars.

"Shortly afterward two brothers were done to death in their own dwelling, their bodies being riddled through and through with revolver shots. Within a month I succeeded in capturing the four authors of the crime. They confessed that the murders were wrought with their own hands in the execution of a mandate from the Black Hand, or, rather, Mano Nera as they call it, because the victims had been judged guilty of having betrayed to me the subterranean meeting place of several chiefs of the organization."

GENEVA, Dec. 20.—The departure of Constantine for Greece has naturally made Charles of Hapsburg very restless. For some time the monarchical party in Hungary has been urging him to accept the crown of that country and not wait until, as Charles never ceases to hope, he can reascend the throne of reunited Austria-Hungary.

It is reported that the Italian Government has discovered at Agram, in Croatia, documents which very seriously compromise the ex-Emperor, so much so that the Jugoslav Legation in Berne is likely to request the Swiss Government to cease harboring him. If Charles is obliged to leave Switzerland it is said that the British Government will be asked to give him asylum. He is reported to have said that he would prefer to go to London rather than to Budapest, because he is not in a position to take either bread or gold to the Hungarian capital, where both are badly needed.

ITALY'S HUGE DEFICIT.

14,000,000,000 Lire, Says Meda, but Deprecates Pessimism.

ROME, Dec. 19.—Signor Meda, Minister of the Interior, in presenting his financial statement to the Chamber of Deputies today, in the course of which he announced a budget deficit of nearly 14,000,000,000 lire for 1920-21 and a deficit for 1921-22 of approximately 10,000,000,000 lire, said these figures indicated a grave situation. He declared that they would give rise to pessimism "if we were not optimistic because of our faith in our future determination to reconstruct Italy's financial position."

ATHENS, Dec. 20.—Constantine's triumphal home-coming yesterday was marked by scenes of hysterical rejoicing by the populace. When the King and Queen alighted from their train, the efforts of the few police to clear a passage to the waiting royal carriage were unavailing. The crowd, which appeared to have gone mad with excitement, took charge everywhere. Constantine, half heaved, half carried, finally reached his carriage and was inside. Queen Sophia had the help of a few officers, who lifted her into the vehicle.

Both were deeply touched by the warmth of the welcome. The Queen, very pale after her stormy experiences, smiled on the crowd and waved her handkerchief. Twice the King attempted to address the multitude, but his words were drowned in the popular acclaim. The Crown Prince ultimately fought his way to the side of his parents, and the gala coach drove off with the vociferating multitude following it, those in front clinging to the steps at the back of the carriage.

It was a triumphal procession through densely packed streets, amid scenes of unparalleled enthusiasm. Flowers were thrown from windows and balconies, and from one end of the city to the other there was a continuous cry of "Long live our King!" A detachment of cavalry headed the procession from the palace to the Cathedral, but the King's only escort was the people. They closed around the carriage in a solid mass, until the perspiring postilions despaired of ever reaching their destination.

During this frenzied display of enthusiasm people in the crowd were knocked down and trampled upon by their fellow-sightseers seeking to push their way closer to the King's carriage. The wonder is that, owing to the absence of adequate police control, numbers of people were not killed.

The first halt was made at the Cathedral, where the King's homecoming was celebrated with a religious service. The congregation was limited to the royal family and a few privileged personages. When the officiating priest recited the prayers for the royal family, mentioning the late well-beloved King Alexander, Queen Sophia bowed her head and sobbed aloud. Constantine also gave way to tears. When the acting Metropolitan, in full canonicals, descended from the episcopal throne and presented the cross for the King and Queen to kiss, the sacred emblem was ardently embraced and moistened with the royal tears. The congregation, affected by the incident, sobbed aloud.

From the Cathedral the King and Queen drove to the Old Palace, receiving an ovation en route. From a balcony the King, surrounded by members of the royal family, addressed the thousands assembled in Constitution Square. Many minutes elapsed before he could make himself heard because of the cheering.

Compared to Return From Elba.

ATHENS, Dec. 20 (Associated Press).—Constantine read his address from the balcony of the Old Palace in the presence of 50,000 persons.

He declared that he would establish internal unity and exterior peace by using the army to cultivate good relations with the Allied Powers. He said the marriage of Prince George, Duke of Spartia, and Princess Elizabeth of Rumania insured an alliance with that country, and he declared that he would follow the policy of his fathers, and foster the ancient Greek culture. Constantine asserted that he suffered deeply during his exile, and referred to the late King Alexander as one "who had done his duty."

The spectacle of the King reading his message was witnessed from their hotel balconies by the members of the Diplomatic Corps. The scene was a moving one.

The royal party itself was palpably quivering with emotion, and tears were wiped away by some of them, notably Prince George and Princess Helen. Queen Sophia, however, and Princess Christopher remained dry-eyed, and the Princess was observed interestedly watching the throng.

PARIS, Dec. 20.—Allied warships which had been in the harbor of Piraeus, the port of Athens, left prior to the arrival of Constantine on board the Greek cruiser Averoff yesterday, so as to avoid paying honors to the returning monarch, says an Athens dispatch.

CALLS CONSTANTINE KING OF A MINORITY

By Cable to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 20.—The result of the last elections in Greece has provoked the affliction of all Greeks under Ottoman rule, as well as of the free Hellenes. Firm disciples of Mr. Venizelos's policy, the unredeemed Greeks, consider it as being the very expression of the conscience of Hellenism.

If to the votes of the Liberals of Greece are added those of unredeemed Greeks, as well as of the Greeks residing in Turkey, who unfortunately could not participate in the elections, it is evident that the great majority of the nations is firmly attached to the ideals upheld by the allied powers during the war and applied to the Treaty of Peace.

The Greek people of Constantinople, represented in all by its communal political and social organizations and speaking in the name of the whole unredeemed Greeks and the Greeks residing in Turkey, and conscious of accomplishing a supreme duty, have decided:

1—That, steadfastly attached to the national policy which Mr. Venizelos impersonates, they swear faith and fidelity to his principles.

2—That a feeling of everlasting gratitude binds them to the great Liberal powers, their benefactors, who will find them always by their side.

3—That, as far as the dethroned King is concerned, they firmly adhere to the official declarations of Mr. Venizelos and absolutely reject any other solution contrary to those declarations.

Messrs. Spanoudi, Stavrides and Iassonidis are starting for Nice as an official delegation to convey to Mr. Venizelos the devoted homage of all unredeemed Hellenism, as well as the Cross of Honor and the Order of Investment from the Ecumenical Patriarchate.

OTTAWA, Canada, Dec. 20.—Telegrams received by the Government today indicate anxiety throughout Canada regarding the possibility of the United States placing a prohibitive tariff on foodstuffs.

The Maritime Provinces are particularly alarmed over the prospect of potatoes being shut out and wheat and cattle interests in the west are also anxious.

In official circles, however, there seems to be some disposition to doubt the possibility in view of the fact that Canada is one of the United States's best customers. Members of Parliament say they do not think Washington will pass legislation which would so seriously disturb present trade relations.

Resolution in Senate That Government Should Have No Dealings With Moscow Soviet.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Removal of the war-time restrictions against credit transactions with Soviet Russia was announced by the Treasury Department today in the following statement:

"The Secretary of the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board announce that with the approval of the Department of State and in order to give force and effect to the action of that department in removing restrictions in the way of trade and communication with Soviet Russia as announced by that department on July 7, 1920, all rules and regulations restricting the exportation of coin, bullion and currency to that part of Russia now under the control of the so-called Bolshevist Government or restricting dealings or exchange transactions in Russian rubles, or restricting transfers of credit or exchange transactions with that part of Russia now in the control of the so-called Bolshevist Government, have been suspended, effective Dec. 18, 1920, until further notice."

Great importance is not attached by officials to the action just taken, and it is not their belief that the removal of these credit restrictions will result in the development of any extensive transactions with Russia. Removal of restrictions against trading has not resulted in the revival of trade and the lifting of the credit embargo as expected to have any appreciable effect.

In the opinion of high officials, the Bolsheviki will now be deprived of the opportunity to use the existence of the credit embargo for propaganda purposes. It has been the contention of the Soviet leaders that these embargoes by the nations have been responsible, to a large degree, for the failure of Soviet Russia to develop trade with the outside world.

A resolution which expresses it as the sense of the Senate that the United States Government should have no dealings with the Bolshevist Government was introduced in the Senate today by Senator King of Utah. It is generally understood that there are several Senators who favor entering into an agreement with the Bolshevist Government for a resumption of trade.

ANSWER FRENCH WOMEN ON DEMAND FOR COWS

German Women Say It's a Question of Life and Death Struggle for Parents.

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—Surrender to the Allies of 800,000 milch cows, which have been demanded under the terms of the Versailles Treaty, would have disastrous results in Germany, says a letter to the women of France from a committee of German women. Continued deprivation of the German people of the milk supply represented by these cows would result in weakening public stamina and individual resistance, and, therefore, operate to reduce the ability of Germany to fulfill treaty obligations through necessary production, it is said.

"As women and defenders of the rights of children," the letter declares, "we embrace with equal sympathy suffering children of all nations. Our sympathy goes out in fullest measure to children in the devastated regions in France, where it appears to us to be urgent that help should be granted as speedily as possible. On the other hand, we see the need of every part of Germany is so great that further reduction in the milk supply would be equivalent to the death sentence for hundreds of thousands of children. Instead of the 20,000,000,000 liters of milk which Germany produced annually in peace-times, the country is now producing only 8,800,000,000."

For nearly six years the populations of German cities have not had milk, the letter asserts, and, owing to this fact, the death rate from tuberculosis has doubled since 1913, and 38,000 more children died in 1918 than in 1913. In Prussia alone there has been an increase in child mortality of 100 per cent. The letter declares these facts are not known to the French "because the press has not permitted the information to be made public." The whole question is not one of German good-will, the letter says, but of a life and death struggle for German parents, and French women are asked to realize "it is not the right way to save children of one country by destroying those of another."

PARIS, Dec. 20.—A new fortune teller, with a new way of telling fortunes, has come to Paris from the country, and on the strength of a post card from President Millerand, thanking her for having predicted his election to his present office, has got herself launched with excellent publicity.

Her name is Mme. Urbe Darville, and she has come from Avignon, the home of romance. She despises all ancient methods. The only appliance she uses in order to reveal the future is a mirror. On this her clients breathe, and by a special method, which she declares is all her own, Mme. Darville fixes the mark of the breath on the glass. Then at her leisure she proceeds to examine it. Every one's breath, it seems, traces a different pattern.

This morning she held her first seance and chose as her clients a number of newspaper men. That she should surprise many with her knowledge of their past and her views of their future was inevitable, for she is evidently a shrewd sorceress. Unless the police interfere, there seems to be a great career before the seeress who predicted so accurately for M. Millerand.

Nothing to Deal With But Stolen Gold—Vanderlip Deal 'Propaganda' and 'Bluff.'

PEOPLE READY TO REBEL

Arrested and imprisoned three times in Russia on suspicion of acting against the Government was the experience of Jacob H. Rubin of Milwaukee, who went into Russia to sell shoes in the Fall of 1919 and returned yesterday on the Swedish-American liner Drottningholm. Mr. Rubin, who was formerly an official of the Union Bank of Milwaukee, operated in the interests of union labor, and at one time was a dues-paying member of the Socialist Party, showed physical signs of the hardships to which he had been subjected since he left this country. His hair had turned nearly white and there was a nervous twitching of the facial muscles which at times was so incessant that he had to stop talking and cover his eyes with his hand to rest them.

Mr. Rubin was detained on the liner a short time while an agent of the Department of Justice questioned him regarding the dealings of Washington B. Vanderlip with the Soviet Government and conditions in Russia when Mr. Rubin left there on Oct. 19 last.

Mr. Rubin described Mr. Vanderlip's $3,000,000,000 deal with the Soviet Government as a pure piece of propaganda put out in Moscow for the purpose of bluffing the United States.

Vanderlip in Moscow.

"Vanderlip lived on the fat of the land in Moscow," he said, "and had boxes at the theatres, automobiles to drive about in and lived in a hotel with Karachan, assistant to Tzecherin, the Foreign Minister. He was hand in hand with the Soviet Ministers and could go to Russia as often as he pleased.

"When Americans were put in prison in Moscow Vanderlip did not attempt to use his influence to get them out or to help them in any way. After I had been in Russia a short while he became so infatu

ACTORS' EQUITY AND LEGION POST DISPUTE

DEMAND 3 WEEKS' WORK

Author Fagan Says Two Weeks' Guarantee Was Accepted—Fidelity Actors Sought in Breach.

A controversy between the Actors' Equity Association and the Walter Heckman Post of the American Legion has resulted in the calling off of plans to produce a farce called "Coo Coo Cottage" at the Princess Theatre next Monday night. "Coo Coo Cottage" is the work of Myron C. Fagan, and was to have been presented by the Legion Post in the hope of raising funds for the erection of a memorial in the Bronx, in which the post centres. It was charged yesterday by a representative of Comstock & Gest, in whose theatre the play was to have been produced, that the Equity had broken faith with the Legion and made the production impossible. This was denied by Equity officials.

The Heckman Post, of which Commander Ready is the head, had agreed to present "Coo Coo Cottage" at the Princess for two weeks, according to Mr. Fagan, the author. To this end they engaged an all-Equity cast, which included Robert McWade, John Daly Murphy, Willis P. Sweatnam, Thais Magraine, Maidel Turner and others. Rehearsals had been under way about ten days, according to Mr. Fagan, when the actors decided that two weeks' work was insufficient guarantee and demanded three weeks. When this was refused they walked out.

Frank Gillmore, Executive Secretary of the Actors' Equity Association, said last night that the producers of the show had made a verbal agreement with the players that they would guarantee three weeks' employment. In view of this guarantee, he said, and also because a post of the American Legion was producing the play, the cast had agreed to accept smaller salaries than usual. After ten days' rehearsal, Mr. Gillmore said, they were informed by Mr. Fagan that only two weeks' work would be guaranteed, and thereupon they withdrew in a body.

Mr. Gillmore said that they had endeavored to reach the American Legion officials in order to explain to them that the feelings of the players toward the Legion were perfectly friendly, but that Mr. Fagan had refused to put them in touch with the proper authorities.

After the Equity cast withdrew late last week an endeavor was made to cast the play with members of the Actors' Fidelity League, but it was found that the play could not be made ready in time.

DOCTORS AND NURSES ACT.

Post-Graduate Staff Gives "There's a Reason" for Hospital Fund.

The doctors and nurses of the Post-Graduate Hospital presented a play in Delmonico's ballroom last night entitled "There's a Reason, an Effervescence in Three Siphons," by Dr. Marvin Jones, assisted by the medical and nursing staff of the hospital. Olga Petrova wrote the words and Ward Stephens composed music for a song and Vaughan Godfrey was the coach.

Among those interested were Mrs. John T. Atterbury, Mrs. Albert Gallatin, Mrs. J. Bently Squire, Mrs. Robert Tod, Mrs. Arthur Coppell and Mrs. James Roosevelt. There were about 350 present. The proceeds are going toward the drive for $2,000,000 for a hospital fund. Delmonico donated the ballroom. Dancing followed the play.

ALBERT COATES ARRIVES.

Guest Conductor Tells of the Decadence of Music in Russia.

Albert Coates, who is to appear in America for the first time as guest conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra, arrived yesterday from Holland on the liner Nieuw Amsterdam, accompanied by his wife. He was born in Petrograd of English parents and conducted the principal orchestras in the Russian capital and other Continental cities and also the Royal Philharmonic Society in London.

Mr. Coates spoke of the decadence of music in Russia through the revolutions, and he had to go into a sanitarium in Finland for months himself through his trying experiences. He said that in Petrograd sometimes an artist would fail to appear for rehearsal, and the next day it would be found that he had died of starvation.

"FAUST" IS REPEATED.

Miss Farrar Again as Marguerite and Harrold in Title Role.

Gounod's "Faust" opened the sixth week of the season at the Metropolitan last evening, Miss Farrar reappearing as Marguerite, while all three leading men were new to the current cast. These were Mr. Harrold, whose Faust has traits of distinction already recognized here; Mr. Rothier, a Frenchman to the manner born, and Mr. Danise, the Italian baritone, who was unable to appear at the opera's previous hearing. Mmes. Berat, Delaunois and others sang and Mr. Wolf conducted.

It was again of interest to compare Mr. Urban's fine pictures, from the "Faust" revival last year, with the more recent restoration by Mr. Anisfeld of many parallel scenes in Boito's "Mefistofele."

Pianist and Tenor in Recitals.

Two concert-givers yesterday braved Aeolian Hall's brief week of quiet before the approaching holidays and a resumption of New York's overcrowded musical season. Miss Elsie Teal, pianiste, a matinee débutante, seemed discouraged by a scant audience into playing rather colorlessly her program of modestly chosen pieces. She did best two really notable bits, Brahms's "Capriccio" in B minor, and Schumann's "Toccata," adding his transcription of a Paganini etude as encore.

In the evening, John Finnegan, a tenor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, was heard by a friendly house that applauded his singing of airs by Handel and others in English, folk songs of Ireland and works by American composers.

Equity Wires $2,000 to Stranded.

The Actors' Equity Association announced yesterday that $2,000 had been wired to Kansas City to bring home the Equity members of the cast of G. M. Anderson's "Frivolities of 1920," which closed in that city Saturday night. According to the Equity only a small portion of the chorus girls' salaries had been paid to them for several weeks.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Passing Show of 1921" will open at the Winter Garden on Wednesday night of next week.

The musical piece in which Pat Rooney and Marion Bent will be starred will be called "Love Birds," instead of "Oh, Pat!"

Fritz Leiber's opening bill at the Lexington Theatre, next Monday night, will be "Macbeth." He will later act "Hamlet," "Richard III," "Romeo and Juliet," "Julius Cæsar" and "The Merchant of Venice."

PLYMOUTH ROCK SPLITS ON EVE OF CELEBRATION

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Dec. 20.—On the eve of the tercentenary celebration of Forefathers' Day this old town set the stage today for formal observance of the landing of the Pilgrims. At the two hundredth anniversary Daniel Webster delivered an oration that has become a classic. Tomorrow Senator Lodge will give an address.

Plymouth Rock, the boulder which was the stepping-stone of the Pilgrims, underwent another change today. During its transfer from its bed of many years under a canopy, now removed, it split in two at an old break that was mended with cement.

The rock will present a united face again when it is cemented and placed on its original base at the waterline of the harbor. The accident of today recalled the fact that when the first break occurred in 1775 as the stone was being shifted by ox team to the town square, it was pointed to as a portent of the separation of the colonies from England.

Tonight Plymouth Rock is under a police guard. Souvenir hunters were early on the scene today and the efforts of one man to chip a piece from the rock were prevented. A woman who had came from New Jersey for the exercises and brought a small hammer with which to obtain a bit of the rock, was informed that this could not be permitted. She took instead a piece of the shale on which the rock rested.

WILSON NAMES O'RYAN FOR MAJOR GENERAL

New York Soldier Is Expected to Be Appointed as Chief of the Militia Bureau.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 20.—Major Gen. John Francis O'Ryan, commanding the National Guard Division of New York, was nominated by President Wilson today to be a Major General of the Officers' Reserve Corps. Under the Army Reorganization act, the Chief of the Militia Bureau in the War Department must be a Guard officer and the nomination of General O'Ryan is believed to forecast his appointment to that post.

General O'Ryan, the only Guard officer to command a division in Europe during the war, headed the Twenty-seventh Division from New York. He is one of the few civilian officers holding a diploma from the War College.

It is thought that there will be no opposition to the nomination of General O'Ryan. Senator Wadsworth, Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs, is a close personal friend of the General.

FIND NO TAX DELINQUENCY.

Treasury Officials Assert Dec. 15 Payment Will Exceed Estimate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Reports thus far received by the Treasury from Internal Revenue officers over the country show that more than $600,000,000 of the income and excess profits tax due Dec. 15 has been collected. Treasury officers said today that when complete returns were in they would probably show collections in excess of the $650,000,000 estimate made by Secretary Houston.

The reports, it was declared, did not indicate any inability of the taxpayer to meet their obligations to the Government.

The view was expressed that many of those who had stated that they would be unable to pay their last installments of the 1920 tax had paid up at the last moment when it became evident that Congress would not act immediately on legislation extending the time for payment.

NUGENT ON TRADE BOARD.

President Names Defeated Senator, Who Is Promptly Confirmed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—John F. Nugent, junior Senator from Idaho, who was defeated for re-election in November, was nominated today by President Wilson to be a member of the Federal Trade Commission. On motion of Senator Borah the nomination was confirmed in open session.

It is reported that Senator Mark Smith of Arizona, also defeated in November, will be nominated as a member of the International Boundary Commission. This position is for life and the salary is $10,000 a year. Senator Chamberlain of Oregon will, it is said, be appointed by Senator Harding as a member of the Shipping Board.

GIVE BONUS TO EMPLOYES.

Public National Bank to Pay at Dance—R. M. Grant Co. Give 5 to 12½ Per Cent.

Two more bonuses to employes of banks and investment houses were announced yesterday when the Public National Bank issued a statement that a dinner and dance would be given to employes Christmas night at the Biltmore and bonuses of from 15 to 20 per cent of annual salaries would be distributed according to the length of service in the bank.

The other announcement was made by R. M. Grant & Company, who will pay to employes in its four offices in New York, Boston, Chicago and St. Louis an annual dividend ranging from 5 to 12½ per cent. of annual salaries. The rate paid depends also on the length of service in the company's employ.

Martin Beck, President of the Orpheum Circuit of Theatres, and Miss Louise Peyton Helms were married yesterday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church, in Philadelphia, by the Rev. Dr. John Allan Blair.

41,916 Marriage Licenses This Year.

From the present indications the year 1920 will be a record breaker as to the number of marriage licenses issued since the first of the year. According to the statistics of the License Bureau, up to 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, 41,916 marriage licenses have been issued. This is only fifty-two less than in 1917, the biggest year in the history of the city, when draft dodgers brought up the record. The Christmas season has been marked by an unusual rush.

MUSIC NOTES.

Dr. Eugene A. Noble, director of the Juilliard Fund, will be a guest of the Musicians' Club at its dinner at Delmonico's tonight, in celebration of the club's ninth anniversary.

Walter L. Bogert, baritone, and Edward Vitale, violinist, will appear this evening at the third monthly meeting of the Fraternal Association of Musicians in Steinway Hall.

The Philharmonic Orchestra, under Josef Stransky, is to play at the Waldorf-Astoria on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 29, for the Auxiliary Society of the Stuyvesant Polyclinic.

Columbia University's musical clubs will make a Southern tour from Jan. 29 to Feb. 4, appearing at Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond and Norfolk.

The New York University Glee and Banjo Clubs have announced their membership for concerts this season, as selected by Coaches Fred Shattick and Harry Six.

Court Holds Lever Law Does Not Forbid Alleged Practice of Brooklyn Concerns.

The last of the charges made against the Brooklyn Edison Company, two coal companies and two individuals, in indictments found by the Federal Grand Jury for alleged violation of the Lever law by profiteering in coal, were dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge Mayer. Demurrers filed by counsel for the defendants were sustained in reference to two of the indictments against the Brooklyn Edison Company on Nov. 10 and the indictment against the Adelphia Coal Company, a codefendant, was also dismissed.

The third indictment against the company, which charged the misuse of permits granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission for the transportation of coal, is now discarded as well as the indictments against the B. J. Lynch Coal Company, Walter F. Wells, Vice President and General Manager of the Brooklyn Edison Company, and Harry P. Wood, formerly coal purchasing agent for the latter company. Wood pleaded guilty and was willing to testify for the Government. The dismissal of the indictments places him in the position of having admitted his guilt of an offense that the court states has not been committed.

In his opinion sustaining the demurrers Judge Mayer explained that under an amendment to the Interstate Commerce act public utilities were entitled to preferences in the shipment of coal, and that permits for this purpose should be given by the commission.

FORBIDS 'HIP LIQUOR' AT NEW YEAR FEASTS

Dry Enforcement Agent Threatens Wholesale Arrests as Chicago Prepares to Be Merry.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Chicago is suspected of arranging for as hilarious a holiday celebration as it ever had. Frank D. Richardson, Prohibition Enforcement Director, today considered it necessary to issue a warning about "hip liquor," while from hotel sources came reports of thousands of New Year's Eve reservations.

"Leave it at home—this will be a bone-dry New Year's Eve, the first in the history of Chicago," was the advice given by Mr. Richardson. This applies especially to those who contemplated reserving tables in hotels or cafés and providing liquor themselves.

The word of counsel is backed up by the announced intention of Mr. Richardson to arrest all "hip pocket" celebrators, and the proprietors and managers of cafés in which they elect to bid farewell to the old year.

"I shall have watchers posted in every big café, hotel and other public places where refreshments are served," the prohibition chief said. "I am sending our warnings to the proprietors of such places that they will be held responsible for any violation of the prohibition law which may occur in their establishments on New Year's Eve.

"Persons who violate the law by carrying 'hip liquor' and attempt to pour it at the tables will be summarily arrested. So will the waiter who serves them and the proprietor of the place. There is to be no fooling about it. Last year's New Year's was supposed to be dry and as a matter of fact was about as dry as a distillery."

M'ADOO ADVOCATES LIBERAL CREDITS

Favors Reduction of Income Taxes and Would Fund Most of Treasury's Floating Debt.

William G. McAdoo issued a statement last night on the agricultural and business condition, in which he said:

"As I see the situation, the country cannot look with indifference upon the distressing situation in which the farmers find themselves because of the tremendous shrinkage in the value of agricultural products. We cannot excuse inaction nor dismiss the matter with a mere observation that deflation is necessary and that farmers must take their medicine along with the rest of the country.

"The farm industry is basic to the life of the nation and possesses a superior claim to consideration, not only because its prosperity is our best protection, but also because the farmer, by the very nature of his business, is more exposed to adverse influences and has less protection against them than any other class. The bulk of his crop matures at the same time and if forced upon the market all at once, or in a short period, he may not realize even the cost of production.

"To have a chance to make a fair profit he must have credit to carry his crop for a reasonable time. He must have ample, economical and prompt railroad transportation to get his crop to market at the times when he can sell advantageously, and he must have sufficient convenient and reasonably cheap storage facilities for the conservation of his crop while waiting for a favorable market.

Wants More Liberal Credits.

"A more liberal policy about credits should be put into effect immediately. I think that the Reserve Bank rates could be prudently reduced, and that member banks could be safely encouraged to make loans on agricultural products and to business generally on reasonable time.

"The point I wish to impress is that deflation has been carried so far and with such rapidity that we must now reconsider the situation, make an effort to prevent further distress and suffering and bring about a revival of industry and confidence.

"With this in view, we should make every effort to stimulate and enlarge our export trade. This is especially important to the farmers, because approximately 50 per cent. of our export trade represents agricultural products. European nations desire our cotton, grain and other products, but have no credit. It is to our interest to supply that credit. I therefore think that the revival of the War Finance Corporation is highly desirable. I believe that it can exercise an immensely beneficial influence upon the export trade if it is operated on a sound and liberal scale.

"The recent action of the League of Nations at Geneva for the establishment of an international commission to consolidate the credits of some of the Central European powers and utilize them in the purchase of American commodities is an important step and offers a new opportunity for helpful service by the War Finance Corporation.

"Every influence of this Government should be promptly exerted to secure a prompt determination of the amount of the German indemnity. So long as this question remains unsettled, it is undoubtedly true that there can be no economic rehabilitation of Germany and of the Central Powers, and so long as this continues their credit and buying power is reduced to a minimum.

"I have long been convinced that we ought to re-establish trade relations with Russia. It is not necessary to recognize the Soviet Government to do this. Why should we refuse to let people in distress in Russia or elsewhere buy our products if they can pay for them, no matter what form of government they may choose for themselves?

"Of course, taxes ought to be readjusted and reduced. Last March I publicly advocated funding a large part of our floating debt. This could be done, and should be done, so that its pressure may be taken off of the American people, and especially off of business at this time of unavoidable readjustment. The tax burden should be lightened, and can be by funding $2,000,000,000 of the floating debt during the next two years.

"Unfortunately the present Congress has refused for two years to do anything to relieve the tax burden or to prepare for this inevitable period of readjustment. Taxes should be reduced at this session of the Congress. There is no excuse for delay.

"The Congress should no longer make gifts or authorize loans directly from the public treasury to any class or business in this country. I refer particularly to the gift of $654,000,000 made by the present Congress to the railroad corporations and to the $300,000,000 which the present Congress directed the Treasury to lend to railroad corporations at 6 per cent. interest. Why should the people of the United States be taxed to make gifts and loans to railroad companies aggregating $654,000,000 when we are already overburdened with taxes for purposes which we cannot escape? There is no justification for policies like these.

"The only way to effectively reduce our tax bill is to cut down our army and navy appropriations. If we had joined the League of Nations, that promised the most immediate and successful way of reducing armaments with safety to all nations concerned. But, since we have not joined the League, I think Senator Borah's suggestion for an immediate agreement with England and Japan for a limitation of naval expenditures is valuable, and that such an agreement ought to be reached, if possible. This would be a practical step in the right direction, even though not a thoroughly satisfactory one.

Opposes Higher Income Taxes.

"I am opposed to increased taxes on moderate incomes. Already these incomes are bearing a larger proportion of taxation than is justified. A radical revision of the war income taxes is essential to the prosperity of the country, and in that revision the moderate income taxpayer must have his burdens reduced instead of increased.

"To sum up, I should say that a more liberal policy about domestic credits ought now to be pursued; that our foreign trade should be stimulated and enlarged; that the War Finance Corporation should be revived to assist it; that the German indemnity should be defined as quickly as possible, so that the Central European markets may be opened to our farmers, manufacturers and business men; that trade relations with Russia should be resumed as promptly as possible; that a large part of the floating debt of the Treasury should be funded, and that taxation ought to be reduced and readjusted at this session of the Congress.

"If these steps are taken promptly, I believe that they will greatly relieve the present distressing situation."

The Civil Service.

City.

Applications for foreman of sewer repairs, Grade 3, will be received to 4 P. M. on Jan. 7. Candidates must be at least 22 years of age. The subjects and weights of the examination will be: Experience, 5; duties, 4; citizenship, 1. A qualifying physical test will be given. Candidates must be brick masons with at least two years' experience in sewer construction as foreman or inspector. There is one vacancy in the Engineering Bureau, Manhattan, at $2,232 a year.

United States.

The commission announces an examination for plate printer. Men over 20 desired, in the Hydrographic Office, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., at $900 to $1,200 a year. Appointees may be allowed the increase granted by Congress of $20 a month. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on physical ability, 40; training and experience, 60. Applicants must show that they have served an apprenticeship of at least four years as plate printer. Classified employees who have reached the retirement age and have served fifteen years are entitled to retirement with an annuity.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The disturbance that developed over the plateau region Sunday moved eastward with increasing intensity and it was central over North New Mexico Monday night. It has been attended by rain within the last twenty-four hours in the Gulf States, the Southern Plains States and in the North Pacific States and by snow in the plateau and Rocky Mountain region, the Central and North Plains States and the Upper Mississippi Valley. Pressure continued high Monday over the eastern half of the country and the Northwest.

The temperature continued below normal Monday ever middle and northern sections east of the Rocky Mountains and readings were decidedly below normal Monday night in the Canadian Northwest, Montana, North Dakota and Northern Minnesota.

The southwestern storm will move east and northeastward, attended by snow in northeastern, snow or rain in middle and rain in southern sections east of the Mississippi River within the next twenty-four to thirty-six hours. The temperature will rise somewhat in front of this storm and following its passage much colder weather will overspread the upper lake region, the lower Ohio Valley, Tennessee and the East Gulf States Wednesday afternoon and night.

FORECAST—TODAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Western New York—Increasing cloudiness Tuesday, followed by snow Tuesday night; Wednesday snow or rain and somewhat warmer.

Northern New England—Fair Tuesday; Wednesday snow, not much change in temperature.

Southern New England, Eastern New York—Fair Tuesday; Wednesday rain or snow, not much change in temperature.

New Jersey—Increasing cloudiness and slightly warmer Tuesday, followed by rain or snow Tuesday night or Wednesday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

| 3 A. M. | 27 | 18 | 4 P. M. | 36 | 30 |

Irregular Decline in Stocks—Sharp Downward Movement in Liberty Bonds.

In a market where prices of stocks, though mostly lower, did not move in any conspicuous manner, yesterday's sharp decline in Liberty bonds was the noteworthy financial incident. These bonds had already declined in price ½ to ¾ points last week, under the influence of causes known to every one—the difficulty of raising money at the moment for tax payments or year-end settlements, following the curtailments by the Federal Reserve of its rediscount of loans secured by such collateral. But yesterday's decline was more rapid; it went as far as ½ point in the fourth 4¼ per cents and 1½ in the Third and Second 4¼s. There was no legitimate cause for so sudden a show of weakness.

It occurred on the heels of the news that Congress proposed to revive the War Finance Corporation; an action which is rightly disliked by conservative financiers, but which has no such bearing on the value of Government obligations as the market might seem to have suggested. Possibly it might be imagined that Wall Street had taken more seriously than it deserved the extravagant language of the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee in the United States Senate last Friday. But when Senator Warren told his colleagues that "we are going to be without credit in this nation" and that our Government bonds "are going much lower," most people of sense were perfectly well aware that he was indulging in a very ill-advised and unwarranted flight of oratory with the view of furthering a worthy purpose.

Indeed, the Senator himself conditioned this gloomy future with the phrase "unless we are able to retrench very sharply." If the special interests, agricultural and other, which are just now besieging Washington for help from the Government were to have their way, there would certainly be no retrenchment. But Congress has already shown that it is not in the mood to saddle the Treasury and the public credit with all these requisitions. At their low prices the Liberty bonds stood 1½ to 2 points above their low prices of last May and the Victory 4¾s changed only a trifle during the day.

On the stock market the trend of prices was again downward; but with comparatively few exceptions the day's net losses were smaller than on most of the daily declines of last week. Closing prices were, however, generally at or near the lowest, and in some industrial shares net losses of 1 to 3 points occurred. Pressure by professional speculators was rather plainly in evidence. The foreign exchange market continued to show firmness after an early reaction, sterling in particular advancing 2¾ cents and closing at the best. The exchange market and the Federal Reserve ratio are still the indices to the underlying facts of the general credit situation.

Merchants who have been watching for the monthly figures of foreign trade to show the decrease in exports which has long been indicated at New York, will again be puzzled by the statement for November. Last month's exports of merchandise from the whole United States do indeed show decrease of $76,000,000 from October; but otherwise they have been exceeded by only four months of 1920, all occurring in the first half of the year. They are not in value as large as those of November, 1919, being $675,000,000 against last year's $741,000,000, but no other November in our history has come within $150,000,000 of them. The remarkable maintenance of our total export trade must be mainly due to agricultural shipments, as the official figures showed it to have been in October.

Last month's export of cotton, as already reported by the Government, though smaller than in November 1919, was 101,000 bales greater than in October and much the largest of any month since March, and our wheat exports have been similarly heavy. This would not greatly help the comparison with 1919, however, for November's wheat prices were down more than 25 per cent. from the year before and its cotton prices down fully 50 per cent. The November import trade returns show the progressive effects of business reaction in this country. Imports were $23,600,000 less than in October and $231,600,000 below June, a shrinkage of 40 per cent. Although, however, this import trade was the smallest since that of August, 1919, it was still far in excess of any Autumn month in years prior to 1919, and the surplus of exports, $354,000,000, is far beyond any previous November. It compares, in fact, with a November high record of $125,000,000 in the years before the war.

MONEY.

MONDAY, DEC. 20.

Call money on the Stock Exchange on Monday showed no change over the prevailing rate of last week, 1 e. 7 per cent. Demand funds ruled at that rate all day. No quotables change in time funds either was made on the first business day of the week in contrast with what funds for fixed periods were going for last week. Most of the day's business was confined to renewals, the demand for new funds being rather light. Bankers' acceptances and commercial paper were quoted unchanged.

DE FOREST TO HEAD PACIFIC OIL BOARD

LEASING POLICY OPPOSED

No Immediate Financing Planned to Develop Southern Pacific's Former Holdings.

Shortly after being elected Chairman of the Board of the new Pacific Oil Company yesterday which has taken over the California oil properties of the Southern Pacific Company, Henry W. de Forest said that while it was too soon to announce the policy of the company regarding the development of the property, it was his personal feeling that no land would be leased to other producers on a royalty or other basis.

The permanent executive organization of the company was completed yesterday when Mr. de Forest was elected Chairman of the Board, Paul Shoup, President, and Hugh Neill, Secretary and Treasurer. Mr. de Forest, Charles A. Peabody and Mortimer L. Schiff were elected as members of the Executive Committee, and the following were elected Directors:

When asked if the Pacific Oil Company would do new financing soon to develop the oil lands on a large scale Mr. de Forest said that nothing of the kind was contemplated. He said that the pipe lines of the Associated Oil Company, control of which is vested in the Pacific Oil Company under the plan for a separation of Southern Pacific oil and railroad properties, tap the districts to be developed and are sufficient for immediate development needs.

Interest payable June 1 and December 1 without deduction for Federal Income Tax up to 2%

BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

From a letter of Mr. Herbert A. Wagner, President, we further summarize:

BUSINESS: The Company does the entire gas, electric light and power business in the city of Baltimore, and its operations extend into suburbs and surrounding counties, serving a population of about 775,000.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds of these $5,000,000 Bonds, together with additional cash to be furnished by the Company, will provide $5,625,000, for refunding $468,000 maturing notes and for additions and extensions to plants, transmission lines, and distribution systems, to be completed before the end of 1921.

SECURITY: These Bonds (equally with $3,500,000 6% Series A Bonds, pledged under the Company's 7% Secured Convertible Note issue; and $8,253,000 outstanding Convertible 5% Notes) are secured by a mortgage upon all property now owned or hereafter acquired.

EARNINGS: Gross Earnings have increased from $6,789,401 in 1915 to $14,930,681 in 1920, and net earnings applicable to fixed charges from $3,212,818 to $5,295,634. Net earnings were 2.17 times fixed charges in the year ended October 31, 1920, and have been over twice fixed charges in each of the last five years. As the extensions to be financed by the proceeds of this issue are required to meet an increasing demand for gas and electric service, it is expected that a satisfactory ratio of annual net earnings to fixed charges will be maintained.

SINKING FUND: An annual Sinking Fund of 1% of all First Refunding Mortgage Bonds from time to time outstanding, first payment not later than August 1, 1923, is to be used for purchase or call and retirement of First Refunding Mortgage Bonds.

DIVIDENDS: The Company has $14,608,700 Capital stock outstanding. Continuous cash dividends on the stock have been paid since 1909, at rates averaging 6½% per annum for the last 11 years. The present rate, 8%, has been paid since April 1, 1917.

FRANCHISES are unlimited as to time and contain grants and conditions which are satisfactory. No other company can enter the field without the consent of the Public Service Commission of Maryland. The Commission has clearly recognized the principle that, as capital required for growth and development of public utility companies must be secured from the investing public, investors must be assured that rates will be authorized which will insure safety of investment and continuity of return.

We recommend these Bonds for Investment

Our Investment Business

Every year our investment business has shown an expansion because we seek to adapt our service to the trend.

In 1914 and 1915, when the security markets had been demoralized by the outbreak of the world war, we urged on the public the advantages of purchasing high grade time-tested stocks on the Partial Payment Plan.

With the price of these issues soaring to record heights last year, our Investment Department devoted an increasing amount of attention to suggesting suitable exchange into newer bond issues which were attractive on account of their high interest yield.

Now that the prices of both railroad and industrial stocks have declined so radically, you need individual study and attention to take the intelligent and profitable course.

In the handling of our investment business we bring to bear the results of our long experience.

SHARP DECLINE IN CANADIAN EXCHANGE

DUE TO TRADE CONDITIONS

Deranged International Market and Year-End Demand for Money Also Contributing Causes.

New York exchange on Canada, which has been declining rapidly throughout the past week, touching at the close of the week a new low level for the period, yesterday went to the lowest rate recorded since the war began. On Wall Street the price paid yesterday for drafts on Canadian cities was 83.9 cents per Canadian dollar, which meant that the Canadian dollar, whose intrinsic value is the same as our own, was selling at a discount of 16.1 per cent. in New York.

Exchange on Canada was weak for a long period last year, but a year ago it was selling at a discount of only 7 or 8 cents to the dollar. The lowest discount during the present year occurred when the New York rate for Canadian funds stood at 92.8 cents per Canadian dollar on Jan. 7. A week ago yesterday the Canadian dollar commanded 86.3 cents in New York; a month ago the rate was 88.9.

The present exceptional depreciation of Canadian exchange is ascribed by Canadian bankers in this city both to the large balance of merchandise trade against Canada and in favor of this country and to the large withdrawal of funds from Canada by American houses with a view to the year-end financial settlements. During the ten months ending with October, the last for which our trade with Canada has been separately reported on, the surplus of exports from this country to Canada over imports of Canadian goods into this country was $362,006,000, which compared with $193,483,000 in the same period of 1919.

But the surplus of exports in the present year is not entirely abnormal when compared with some years before the war. In 1913, for instance, the surplus of exports over imports in our trade with Canada was $339,465,000. But at that period of normal international exchange relations it was customary for Canada to draw on London for payment of whatever balance might have accrued against her in the United States, which has not been practicable this year. During the nine months ended with last September there had been imported into this country from Canada $31,878,940 in gold, which was about the same amount as in the previous year; but Canada has also had large remittances to make to the United States against interest on the large Canadian loans placed in this market during and since the war, and the gold exports hardly offset that.

It has excited much interest that the present depreciation of Canadian exchange on the New York market should have occurred notwithstanding the very large shipments of Canadian wheat into the United States. It is believed that these shipments have largely been stimulated by the fact of a depreciated Canadian exchange, which made it possible for an American purchaser to obtain grain in Canada at exactly the discount from its normal Canadian price as was indicated by the discount on Canadian exchange.

Exchange on other countries in the Canadian markets is affected directly by the discount existing on Canadian funds in New York. The following quotations were given out toward the close of last week by the foreign exchange department of the Bank of Montreal at Montreal; they show the Montreal quotations for exchange on Europe, with the New York quotations of the same day on the same points:

| Exchange on | At Montreal. | At New York. |
| France | .0712 | .0666 |
| Belgium | .0753 | .0641 |
| Italy | .0415 | .0353½ |
| Swiss | .1700 | .1522 |
| Holland | .3734 | .3175 |
| Denmark | .1799 | .1530 |

It is an illustration of the abnormal condition of international exchange that Canada's excess of exports in her direct trade with Great Britain amounted to £32,600,000 during the first nine months of the present year, as against £16,803,000 in the corresponding months of 1914, yet that it has not been practicable for Canada to steady her own exchange market in New York through sales of exchange on London.

D. & R. G. SALE APPEALED.

Stockholders Charge Conspiracy Led to Decree for Purchase.

The sale of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad to representatives of Western Pacific bondholders last month to satisfy a $36,000,000 judgment obtained by the latter some years ago has not been confirmed by the Western courts pending a decision of the Federal Appellate Court on the right of Denver & Rio Grande stockholders to intervene.

The Stockholders' Protective Committee has filed in the Denver Federal Court complaints charging conspiracy in matters which led to a decree ordering the sale of the property, and names various corporations and individuals as defendants. The suits are designed to block the transfer of the Denver properties to the Western Pacific interests, which would result in wiping out both the common and preferred stocks of the former road.

Propose U. S. Envelope Stock Issue.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 20.—The United States Envelope Company, with main offices here and factories in several cities, will submit to its stockholders at a meeting in Portland, Me., Jan. 7, a proposal to increase its capital stock from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000 by the issue of $3,000,000 of common stock. This is to be retained as treasury stock, Treasurer W. O. Day said today, to be issued as need arises. Part of it will be used to meet the expense of additions.

CONTINENTAL AND COMMERCIAL TRUST AND SAVINGS BANK, CHICAGO, CORPORATE TRUSTEE.

The issuance of these Bonds has been authorized by the Public Service Commission of Missouri and the Kansas Court of Industral Relations

For detailed information regarding these Bonds, attention is directed to a letter of Mr. Joseph F. Porter, President of the Company, copies of which will be furnished upon request, from which the following is summarized:

The Kansas City Power and Light Company serves with electric light and power the City of Kansas City, Missouri, and a portion of Kansas City, Kansas, the total population served being approximately 450,000.

These Bonds will be secured by a direct first mortgage lien on the recently completed Northeast Power Plant, certain substations, transmission and distribution lines, and other property; the aggregate value of these properties being approximately $10,500,000. On the remaining property of the Company these Bonds will be secured by a direct mortgage lien, subject only to underlying First and Second Mortgage Bonds now outstanding, and will share to the extent of 60% in the first lien on such property through pledge of $4,617,000 par value of Kansas City Light & Power Company First Mortgage Bonds.

The total value of the Company's properties, as recognized by the Public Service Commission of Missouri for rate making purposes, is in excess of $22,400,000. There will be $14,755,500 bonds (including underlying issues) presently outstanding in the hands of the public.

The Company's new Northeast Power Plant is one of the most modern and efficient steam generating station in the country and is so designed that its present installed capacity of 60,000 kw. may be increased to an ultimate capacity of 240,000 kw.

The Trust Deed will provide for an annual Maintenance and Depreciation Fund amounting to 12½% of gross earnings, as outlined in the President's letter.

For the twelve months ended October 31, 1920, gross earnings were $5,762,844.48 and net earnings before depreciation $1,975,885.68. The annual interest requirements on the total mortgage indebtedness outstanding in the hands of the public, including this issue and bonds held alive in sinking fund, amount to $1,068,038, of which interest $600,000 is attributable to construction expenditures from which the Company has not yet received full benefits.

Based upon results for the first ten months, net earnings before depreciation for the twelve months ending December 31, 1920, are estimated at $2,150,000, or over twice the annual interest requirements shown above. During this period the Company will have produced, at its new Northeast Power Plant, only about 60% of its power requirements. Had the Company secured its entire output during the year from its new plant, the above estimate of net earnings for the year 1920 would be increased to approximately $2,750,000. It is expected that in 1921 practically all current will be generated at the new power plant.

The franchise situation is eminently satisfactory. The Company's electric light and power franchises both in Missouri and Kansas are, with minor exceptions, perpetual. Steam-heating franchise runs until 1935.

Kansas City, Missouri, has had a remarkable growth during the past forty years and is still rapidly increasing in size and importance. It is second among the country's live-stock markets and packing centers, and the third largest grain market.

When, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel. It is expected that Bonds in temporary form will be ready for delivery on or about January 3. Legal details pertaining to this issue will be passed upon by Messrs. Rushmore, Bisbee & Stern, of New York, and by Messrs. Mayer, Meyer, Austrian and Platt, of Chicago.

A sinking fund provision in the mortgage securing a bond issue provides that a portion of the Company's earnings shall be set aside for the retirement at stated times of a part of the issue.

ASKS FOR A MANDAMUS

To Copy Names of 19,000 Stockholders—Official Says This Was Not Refused—Eilers Removed Last Spring.

A long petition and complaint in a suit brought by Karl Eilers, former Vice President of the American Smelting and Refining Company, for a mandamus against that company directing David A. Crockett, its transfer agent, to permit him to inspect the stock lists and to copy the names of the 19,000 stockholders, was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday, and was put on the calendar for argument tomorrow. The suit is regarded as preliminary to a campaign by Eilers to take the management of the company out of the hands of the Guggenheims at the annual meeting in April next.

Mr. Eilers was removed last Spring as an official of the company after refusing to resign. In his petition he alleges that on behalf of members of his family he holds and controls individually and as executor under the will of his father, Anton Eilers, one of the founders of the company, 3,538 shares of stock. The holdings of the present Directors at the last election he puts at 6,089 shares of preferred and 1,291 shares of common stock. The company has outstanding 500,000 preferred and 609,980 common stock.

Allegations by Eilers.

He alleges that Guggenheim control of American Smelting has resulted in large losses, due to the sale of futures on a rising market and the withholding of a large quantity of copper from sale during the last year when the market was falling. He also says that the present management refuses to brook any opposition on the part of individual directors and promptly removes from office any who disagree with its measures.

Another allegation is that the Guggenheim control has kept the corporation out of several profitable mining ventures which the Guggenheims took up as personal ventures. In this connection he cites "an opportunity to enter the tin mining business in Bolivia," which was investigated by the company. Of this he says:

"Upon the report of this investigation coming in, the Messrs. Guggenheim opposed any action relative to the proposition. Thereafter, the sons of Murry and Daniel Guggenheim, representing Guggenheim Brothers, the Messrs. Guggenheim's coartnership, were permitted to examine the report of the investigation on file with this company, and thereupon Messrs. Guggenheim Brothers sent representatives to Bolivia and have since engaged in large tin mining operations there. A demand by certain of the Directors of the corporation that it be allowed to share in such operations was refused by the Messrs. Guggenheim."

Eilers Invited to Resign.

Correspondence between Eilers and President Simon Guggenheim, which preceded the removal of the former, is included in the petition. On March 31, President Guggenheim wrote:

My Dear Mr. Eilers: Shortly after I became President of the American Smelting and Refining Company, it became evident that you were not in sympathy with my administration.

I had hoped that time would work a change in your attitude, and bring about a better accord between us, but a year has gone by with no prospect of such a result. Our views differ so fundamentally and on so many questions that we cannot, with advantage to the company or in justice to either of us, continue to be longer associated in the management.

I have reached this conclusion with the deepest regret, because of our long association. The decision was reached after careful consideration, and I regard the step as being absolutely necessary for the welfare of the company.

This letter is written that you may have an opportunity of yourself taking the initiative and tendering your resignation before the coming annual election on April 7, if you so desire.

With assurance of personal regard and good-will, respectfully yours,

(Signed) S. GUGGENHEIM.

In reply Mr. Eilers sent a long letter, in which he declined to resign, but admitted that he was not in sympathy with the administration of the company and detailed his charges against the "arbitrary control" of the company and disapproval of its measures, adding:

"In so far as our views have not been in accord, as we both say that they have not been, the event seems to have proved that it would have been to the interest of the company and of all, perhaps, except yourself and yours, if my views and not yours had prevailed. It would seem obvious that under the circumstances the proper remedy would be your resignation and not mine. It is also obvious that the interests of the company and its stockholders require an immediate change in the management. I therefore suggest that you should forthwith tender your resignation as President."

Statement by an Official.

At the office of the American Smelting and Refining Company, 120 Broadway, one of the Vice Presidents, speaking for Mr. Simon Guggenheim, said that had Mr. Eilers complied with the rules of the company he would have had no difficulty in obtaining the names of the stockholders.

"About three weeks ago," said this official, "Mr. Eilers went to our Jersey City office, where he examined the books without interference. A week ago Saturday he appeared at our transfer office in the Singer Building and demanded to see the list of stockholders. Mr. Crockett, the transfer agent, asked him to make an affidavit that he was a stockholder of record, a request which was in accordance with the rules, and he declined. Mr. Crockett wanted to telephone to us with the idea of getting a waiver of this procedure, but Mr. Eilers declined the offer and left the office. It was evident that Mr. Eilers did not want to inspect the books, as very shortly afterward we were served with the voluminous papers in the present suit. We judged that the papers had already been prepared."

The Vice President said that Senator Guggenheim and Eilers had been business rivals in their youth, and it followed that Eilers was out of sympathy with the Senator when the latter assumed the Presidency of the company. Eilers could not get along with Senator Guggenheim, he said.

The official said that allegations in the suit regarding the Premier Silver and Gold Mine and the Bolivian tin mine proposition were not correct. He did not think the allegations that the Guggenheims were attempting to dominate the company needed an answer.

GUGGENHEIMS TO BE AGENTS.

Announce They Will Do the Selling for Porphyry Copper Companies.

Guggenheim Brothers have announced that on and after Jan. 1, 1921, their organization will act as a sales agency for the sale of metals. It will act as selling agent for the porphyry copper companies, Chile Copper, Braden Copper and Kennecott Copper Corporation.

The sale of metals through the organization will be under the management of Joseph Clendenin, who is now Vice President in charge of the sales of the American Smelting and Refining Company.

The American Smelting and Refining Company has acted as sales agent for the above-mentioned concerns for some years, but has decided that it can no longer bear the burden of such activities. It will continue all copper and smelting contracts with other companies, however. Hamilton M. Brush will have charge of selling the copper produced by American Smelting and Refining after Jan. 1.

CHICAGO GRAINS UP IN CARELESS MARKET

Special to The New York Times.

Trading in this delivery started Dec. 15. There was a lack of the export buying, which has been such a feature of late, the only business being 500,000 bushels hard winter via the Gulf to Holland. A little dark No. 3 Northern was worked abroad, on the basis of 20 cents over December, track, Baltimore, but exporters were not inclined to buy No. 2 Northern, on account of the premium of around 5 cents over the No. 3.

Mills are inquiring for Manitobas now, at Buffalo, but they are held at 38@40 cents over March. The possibility of a prohibitive import duty being placed on Canadian wheat is having considerable influence on the milling demand. The Government report shows that 39 per cent. of the United States spring wheat crop graded No. 4 or lower, which, under normal conditions, would demand the mixture of choice wheat. It is this fact that has caused the heavy buying of Canadian wheat by mills.

Those in position to know say that an import duty on Canadian wheat will not have much effect on domestic prices taken as a whole, although it may cause a readjustment in the price between some of the leading markets. Probably Minneapolis will gain on Chicago, as there is considerable shortage in the Spring wheat crop this year. However, the trade believes that it matters little whether Canada sells the wheat to us and allows this country to export low grade Spring or whether our poor wheats must compete with the choice Canadian in Europe. It is the guess of the hour, too, that the imposition of an import duty will result in a retaliatory export duty on wood pulp.

The War Finance Corporation bill is being watched closely, although no great change in the situation is expected, even though it becomes a law. Talk of a moratorium in England prevailed on the curb, after the close.

Coarse grains were bought by the same interests as of late, and closed with corn ¾@1c and oats½@⅞c higher. The United States Government was in the market for 400,000 bushels cash oats. The sale depended on whether cash houses could get in their hedge at 49c for May, but the bulk of the trade, after a small dip early, was above that figure. Sentiment after the close was rather bullish, but as yet confidence that a material upturn was at hand was still lacking. The trade is inclined to believe that President Wilson will veto the bill to impose an import duty on grains and live stock.

Routine news attracts little attention. A decrease of 1,632,000 bushels in the visible supply of wheat, compared with 2,368,000 bushels last year, and total stocks are 47,376,000 bushels, against 48,408,000 the previous week and 82,695,000 last year.

Stocks of corn decreased 312,000 bushels and are 4,127,000 bushels, against 4,439,000 the previous week and 2,174,000 last year. Movement of wheat to terminal markets is enlarged by the liberal sales in the Southwest last week. A sale of 80,000 bushels old No. 2 mixed corn now in the East was made for export, presumably at a low price.

Primary arrivals for the day were 1,920 000 bushels, against 1,697,000 the previous week and 2,173,000 last year. Shipments aggregated 962,000 bushels, against 977,000 a week ago and 585,000 last year.

Of corn, receipts were 962,000 bushels, against 804,000 the previous week and 1,224,000 last year. Shipments were 265,000 bushels, against 336,000 a week ago and 478,000 last year.

DENIES FAILURE TO HELP.

Head of Chicago Board of Trade Gives Telegrams to Trade Commission.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Telegrams exchanged by the Federal Trade Commission and officers of the Chicago Board of Trade were made public today by Leslie F. Gates, President of the board, in connection with a denial that the board had failed to co-operate with the Trade Commission, as charged in the commission's report to President Wilson today.

The information asked by the commission in regard to "hedging" sales is the private property of the individual traders, the telegrams sent by Mr. Gates say, and the Board of Trade has no power to ask for it or give it to the commission. After exchanging several messages, Mr. Gates, on Nov. 9, suggested the commission get the information it requested from the individual brokers, but Victor Murdock, Chairman of the commission, replied the same day that the commission could not obtain the figures in a reasonable time.

For Delay to Convert Liberty Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—A measure designed to extend until Dec. 31, 1921, the period within which temporary Liberty bonds held by reserve banks must be converted into permanent bonds was introduced today by Senator McLean, Chairman of the Senate Banking Committee. The banks might be compelled to market large blocks of the temporary issues otherwise, he said, adding that he would ask for action on the extension next week.

CHILDS'S COUNSEL ACCUSES SWANN

CALLS PROSECUTION UNFAIR

Says Charges Against Defendant Are Technical—Declares Money Received Was Return for Loans.

District Attorney Edward Swann was accused yesterday, by counsel representing William Hamlin Childs, under indictment for violations of the election laws in the last Mayoralty campaign, of "utterly ignoring" reports of "several committees actively engaged in the support of Mayor Hylan in which direct and unmistakable violations of the law were committed."

Mr. Childs's lawyers, submitting alleged financial reports of several of the Hylan committees, declared that "the partisan character of the prosecution" against Mr. Childs, who was indicted with State Senator Josiah T. Newcomb and Former Governor William Sulzer, "would seem to need no further demonstration."

The charges were made by Charles A. Rushmore, John B. Stanchfield, Isidor J. Kresel and George Z. Medalie, in briefs and oral arguments in proceedings before Justice Bartow S. Weeks in the Criminal Term of the Supreme Court to have the indictments set aside.

The defendants' counsel contended that the charge was a technical one. It was based on an item in the report of Lewis E. Clark, Treasurer of the Publicity Committee of the Mitchel campaign forces, which showed the payment of $11,500 to Mr. Childs for "rental of halls and expenses of speakers." Of this, it developed, $5,000 was paid to Sulzer, who was a Mitchel speaker, and $6,500 to Misha Appelbaum, who supported Mitchel in his magazine. Mr. Rushmore argued that it was common knowledge that Sulzer was employed by the Mitchel forces and it was said that Mr. Childs was being reimbursed for money that he had paid to Mr. Appelbaum.

A supplement to the brief was submitted in an attempt to show that it was common practice to generalize in financial reports filed by campaign committees.

"The instances of palpable violations of the law set forth in Division 2," said the briefs, "are by no means all that are contained in the reports of the Hylan campaign of 1917. These reports were all in the possession of the District Attorney at the time of the investigation of the Grand Jury, which indicted the defendant, Childs, but were utterly ignored by him. The Division 2 instances are taken directly from the reports of treasurers representing several committees actively engaged in the support of Mayor Hylan, in which direct and unmistakable violations of the law were committed."

The Division 2 reports, which were printed in full in the briefs to cite alleged violations, were:

Extracts from the report of W. W. Marsh of the New York Headquarters of the Democratic National Committee, in the Harding-Cox campaign, showed many payments, which, according to Mr. Rushmore, were not fully explained as the law requires. These payments ran from $1,000 to $10,000.

Mr. Rushmore did not finish his argument yesterday. The hearing will be continued this morning. It is expected that Robert C. Johnston, Assistant District Attorney, will reply to the charges today.

New Issues of Gas and Electric Companies on Sale Here.

New financing amounting to $15,000,000 was announced in the financial district yesterday. The National City Company and E. H. Rollins & Sons are offering $10,000,000 Pacific Gas and Electric Company first and refunding mortgage twenty-year 7 per cent. series "A" gold bonds at 99 and accrued interest to yield about 7.10 per cent.

The bonds are exempt from all personal property taxes in California and application has been made to the Superintendent of Banks to certify the issue as legal investment for savings banks in California. The purpose of the issue is to provide funds for the development of water power plants along the Pitt River in Northern California.

The first and refunding mortgage will be a direct first mortgage on the entire properties of the Mt. Shasta Power Corporation, which will join with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company in execution of the mortgage.

A syndicate composed of Alexander Brown & Sons, Brown Brothers & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co. and Jackson & Curtis, is offering at 97½ and interest, to yield about 7% per cent., a new issue of $5,000,000 Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Company of Baltimore first refunding mortgage sinking fund 7½ per cent. gold bonds, series B. The bonds are dated Dec. 1, 1920, and are due Dec. 1, 1945.

DENIES LEHIGH PETITION TO RETAIN SUBSIDIARY

Supreme Court Also Refuses to Review Iowan's Conviction Under Espionage Act.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The Supreme Court today refused a petition of the Lehigh Valley Railroad asking the court to reconsider its decision requiring separation of the Lehigh and the Delaware, Susquehanna & Schuylkill Railroad.

Priority creditor rights formerly held under the common law by the "Crown" have descended to and are vested in the State, the Supreme Court held today in an opinion rendered in the suit brought by the State of New York against H. Snowden Marshall, receiver for the All-Package Grocery Stores Company. The purpose of the suit was to determine whether the State's claims against the firm for license fees and franchise taxes should have priority over all other debts.

The right of Ohio employers to indemnify themselves through insurance contracts against liability growing out of accidents to their employes and at the same time enjoy their status under the State Workmen's Compensation act was denied today by the Supreme Court.

The court refused to enjoin the Ohio Industrial Commission from revoking its order permitting Frank C. Thornton of the Cleveland Stamping Tool Company, to enter into a contract with an insurance company to cover liability resulting from injuries to his employes.

The State Commission ruled that if the tool company entered into such a contract it would forfeit all rights granted to it under the State Compensation act, which is compulsory in character, and the Supreme Court held that the commission had the right to make such a ruling.

North Dakota Supreme Court decrees denying carriers the right to recover from shippers under charges resulting from the enforcement of statutory freight rates on lignite, which later were held to be confiscatory, were sustained today by the Supreme Court. The opinion was rendered in appeals brought by the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railroad.

The conviction in Iowa of L. W. Boehner on charges of violating the Espionage act will stand as the result of the refusal of the Supreme Court today to review the case. He was accused of obstructing recruiting in advising friends not to enlist and was fined $5,000 and sentenced to three years in a Federal penitentiary.

The Supreme Court today refused to review the conviction in New York of Solomon Rothman, Louis Cohen and William Cohen on charges of violating the anti-narcotic laws. The men were sentenced to two years' imprisonment in August, 1919, and have been at liberty on bail since that time.

CLEVELAND BANKS MERGE.

Six Institutions Unite, With Resources of $310,000,000.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 20.—Plans for the merging of six local banks, with a capital and surplus of $33,000,000 and resources in excess of $310,000,000, were completed today when stockholders of the Citizens' Savings and Trust Company, First National Bank, Union Commerce National Bank and the First Trust and Savings Company met and approved the merger which creates the Union Trust Company. Two other savings banks will be consolidated after the first of the year.

The consolidation will become effective with the opening of business on Friday, Dec. 31.

Lehigh & Hudson to Retire Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The Lehigh & Hudson River Railway Company was authorized today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue and sell $2,987,000 of additional capital stock, the proceeds to be used to retire a like amount of bonds outstanding.

Take Up New England Rates Dec. 28

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Hearings on the application of the New England railroads for a revision of rates on through freight east and west of the Hudson River were adjourned over today until Dec. 28. At that time carriers west of the Hudson River will be heard.

For Investment of Balances In Canadian Funds

The present abnormal discount on Canadian Funds in the United States has caused many American Corporations doing business in Canada to allow large uninvested balances of Canadian Funds to accumulate with their Canadian Correspondents.

Dominion of Canada 5½% Victory Loan Bonds

Backed as they are by the faith and credit of the whole Dominion and comprising a liquid and close market security, are the most desirable investment for Uninvested Canadian Balances.

These bonds are a direct obligation of Oklahoma City School District, which includes the entire city of Oklahoma City and some adjacent territory.

Oklahoma City, the capital of the State and the county seat of Oklahoma County, is the commercial metropolis and one of the most progressive cities of the Southwest. The population of Oklahoma City has increased from 64,205 in 1910 to 91,258 in 1920. The population of the School District is estimated at over 100,000.

The assessed valuation of the District is reported as $104,732,790, and its total bonded debt $3,835,747.80, from which is deductible a sinking fund of $909,985.06, leaving a net bonded debt of $2,925,762.74.

The Constitution of the State of Oklahoma expressly provides that no bonds may be issued except that before or at the time of issuance provision shall be made for the levy of an annual tax to pay the principal and interest when due.

What a Big New England Bank Writes About Credit Insurance—

A leading New England Bank, has just written the American Credit-Indemnity Co. as follows:

"Regarding Credit Insurance, would say that we believe a merchant or manufacturer should insure his accounts receivable for the same reason that he insures his merchandise against fire—to guard against loss.

"Almost all merchants suffer some loss each year through failures and this normal loss, of course, cannot be insured; but at times, under abnormal, unforeseen and yet constantly recurring conditions, such loss may become great, and even embarrassing, and ordinary business prudence should lead a merchant to provide against this contingency."

This bank makes it very clear why they endorse precautions that prevent, else pay, bad debt losses beyond the normal, which the American's "Unlimited-Interim-Payment" Policy does.

Manufacturers and wholesalers, it will not obligate you to write or phone for the full particulars.

GIVE YOUR TIME TO UP-BUILDING YOUR BUSINESS
LET US WORRY ABOUT YOUR ACCOUNTS

YOUR credits are never a certain quantity. Right now they are more doubtful than ever. Post-war conditions have made many lines of business unstable, irrespective of high prices and apparent prosperity. Credits today are largely a matter of guesswork. Commercial ratings offer no protection. Collection agencies pay only what they manage to collect. But—

A Credit Insurance Policy in the "London" is an absolute guarantee against loss from covered bad debts. You are absolutely sure of getting your money on any covered account, and you know just when you'll get it, too, whether we collect it or not.

Give your time to promoting your business—let us do the worrying over your slow accounts and bad debts. It's the surest way. Asking us for particulars won't obligate you.

GOODYEAR TIRE CO. MEETING IS CALLED

FINANCING TO BE TAKEN UP

Attorney Says Any Plan Will Provide for Directorate With Full Confidence of Public.

Frank H. Ginn, a lawyer of Cleveland, who has been carrying on negotiations between the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company and interests in this city, announced yesterday that a stockholders' meeting had been called for Friday, at which suggestions would be offered having to do with adequate permanent financing and management plans for the Goodyear Company. He emphasized the fact that there was danger of a destructive policy being precipitated, in which case it would be impossible to go forward with any constructive plan except through the long process of receivership and reorganization.

In furtherance of what he terms a constructive plan it is stated that there must be a Board of Directors which will have the confidence of the community.

"I am authorized to state," says Mr. Ginn, "that when the suit for receivership was filed against the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company at Columbus on Saturday plans had practically matured for announcement early this week for additional new financing of the company to the extent of $40,000,000, thus providing additional funds in ample amount to meet all of the company's possible needs.

"It was a primary part of this financing plan, already practically arranged, that a Board of Directors of the company should be installed, consisting largely of men resident in Ohio, whose established character and positions in the industrial and financial world would be such that all parties in interest, preferred and common stockholders as well as creditors, would be absolutely assured that the company's affairs would be wisely managed and that any responsibilities for any mismanagement which may have occurred in the past would be conscientiously ascertained and any consequential liabilities to the company would be impartially and promptly enforced.

"The interests of the Goodyear company have grown so enormously and become so large that adequate study of the facts and preparation of financing plans required some time. Furthermore, any plan for permanent financing of the present and future needs of the company should be accompanied by the installation of a Board of Directors which will have the confidence of the community. Such a plan must be thoroughly understood and approved by the stockholders, both preferred and common, before it can become a reality. Furthermore, it has been a fundamental consideration that a critical attitude toward the present management, unless coupled with a definite constructive plan involving new permanent financing fully adequate to meet the company's present and future requirements is destructive of the interests of the company and its stockholders, as well as the interests of the industrial community in Ohio, to which the Goodyear company is so important.

"I only returned from New York on Saturday morning, having been engaged there continuously with those who stand ready to assist in doing this constructive work, if it is the wish of the stockholders that they shall do so. The interests with whom the company has contracts for future deliveries of rubber and fabric have shown every disposition to be constructive and to make the concessions to the company necessary to any well-matured plan for the rehabilitation of its credit.

"A stockholders' meeting has been called for Dec. 24. At this meeting or at an adjournment thereof, it is hoped that definite, adequate, permanent financing and management plans for the company can be presented in detail for the consideration of the stockholders, unless in the meantime a destructive policy is precipitated. If such destructive policy is precipitated, it will, of course, be impossible to go forward with any constructive plans toward the company's affairs except through the long process of receivership and reorganization, destructive alike to creditors and stockholders."

NOVEMBER FOREIGN TRADE.

Export Surplus Largest on Record for November, Despite Decreased Exports.

The country's foreign trade in November, the general figures of which were published in a Washington dispatch yesterday morning, makes the following comparison from the detailed statement. It shows the smallest imports of any month this year and exports reduced from October and from the preceding November, but nevertheless a surplus of exports over imports which exceeds all November records.

| | Nov., 1920. | Oct., 1920. | Nov., 1919. |

| | Exports. | Imports. | Exc. Exprts. |
| Nov. | $675,000,000 | $321,000,000 | $354,000,000 |

LIBERTY BOND SALES REACH $20,323,000

Progress of War Finance Corporation's Revival Increases Offerings.

LIBERTY THIRD 4¼s at 85.60

Issue Reaches New Low for Year—More of This Selling Expected.

Selling of Liberty bonds again assumed considerable proportions yesterday when the total, at par, of transactions of this kind on the Stock Exchange amounted to $20,323,500. This is not a high record, but it is a larger volume than has been usual in recent days, even with the heavy selling which has been going on for the last two or three weeks.

In yesterday's market an unusual number of war bonds were turned over in the last three-quarters of an hour, following receipt here of the news that the Congressional resolution directing the Secretary of the Treasury to revive the War Finance Corporation had been passed by both the House and the Senate. Many holders of Liberty bonds appeared to believe that the enactment of this legislation would mean the wholesale emission of War Finance Corporation debentures and a greatly increased number of Treasury certificates of indebtedness, with corresponding depreciation in existing Government securities.

Authorities have declared that if the War Finance Corporation should avail itself of its legal right to float a tremendous amount of debentures, and should succeed, the general investment market would be injured and those in Washington who have opposed the revival of the corporation have said that Liberty bonds and Victory notes would be especially hurt. The War Finance Corporation has a maximum capital, under existing law, of $500,000,000, all of which must be subscribed by the Treasury, and its outstanding debentures may equal six times its paid-in capital, which would give it a maximum issue of $3,000,000,000.

In yesterday's heavy selling the Liberty Second 4¼s, Third 4¼s and Fourth 4¼s were the most severely dealt with. These issues declined, respectively, 1.50, 1.60 and 1.48. The Third 4¼s got down to 85.60, a new low record for the year. The previous low was 85.80. Of the total of $20,323,500, these three issues accounted for $13,490,500, with the Second 4¼s supplying $7,039,000, the Third 4¼s $2,612,000 and the Fourth 4¼s $3,839,500.

In addition to the late sales there was said to have been a good deal of belated selling for purposes of recording losses for next year's income tax returns. With the bonds down to present levels and the market relatively weak, bond dealers expect that there will be more selling of this kind during the remainder of this year.

HOPES TO PAY I. R. T. RENT.

Hedley Expresses Doubt as to Manhattan Railway Obligation.

Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, issued this statement yesterday:

"It is impossible at this time for the Interborough Rapid Transit Company to make any definite statement as to the payment of the Manhattan Railway rental on Jan. 1, 1921.

"Negotiations are progressing for the renewal of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company six months notes. These were issued a year ago to aid in meeting the Manhattan rental, bond interest and other obligations. They were renewed last July and become due Dec. 31, 1920.

"With the renewal of these notes and the further forbearance of the holders of the floating debt, of which we are hopeful, and fairly normal traffic conditions for the remainder of December, it is expected that it will become possible to pay the Manhattan rental on Jan. 1, 1921, or shortly thereafter."

The rental is at the rate of $4,200,000 a year, and the amount due Dec. 31 is $1,050,000.

SELLING PRESSURE SENDS COTTON DOWN

Local and Southern Offering Drops List Toward Previous Low Records.

The same dragging tendency which has prevailed in the cotton market for the last week was again in evidence yesterday, First, prices were down 25 to 30 points, and for the first hour or so there was very little activity, but in the second hour, under the leadership of January, the market rallied, getting back to within 3 to 10 points of where it had closed Saturday. The January contract, at 15.17, the high at noon, was up 1 point net, and that was the only time during the entire session when any option equalled or excelled last week's closing.

In the afternoon there was fresh selling by local and Southern interests, and prices again dipped, most of them going slightly lower than they had been in the forenoon. The low prices in most cases also were the last prices. No new low records were scored, but the whole list, especially the late months, got close to the previous lows of Nov. 27. Spots at 15.50, down 15 from Saturday, equalled their previous low.

The Census Bureau's ginning report, showing 10,878,265 bales ginned to Dec. 13, was about as expected, but at that was considered mildly bearish as tending to bear out the Government's 13,000,000 bale crop prediction. The amount ginned from Dec. 1 was 726,000 bales, indicating that the farmers are not holding back their cotton to any noticeable extent.

In the trade, the tendency now is to look to the turn of the year for any improvement in market conditions. With the expected sales set for early January, it is hoped the present accumulations of cotton goods will be pretty well cut down, and if this proves to be the case some improvement in buying of raws is looked for.

(Incorporated in the State of Maine, U. S. A.)

TO THE HOLDERS OF AN ISSUE OF 5 PER CENT. FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS SECURED BY TRUST DEED DATED 1ST NOVEMBER, 1911, BETWEEN THE COMPANY AND EMPIRE TRUST COMPANY:

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the provisions of the Second Schedule to the above-mentioned Trust Deed a meeting of the holders of the bonds thereby secured (hereinafter referred to as "the five per cent. First Mortgage Bonds") will be held at the offices of Messrs. Binder, Hamlyn & Co., 80 Bishopsgate, in the City of London, on Wednesday, the 29th day of December, 1920, at 12 noon, for the purpose of considering and, if thought fit, passing Extraordinary Resolutions as defined by the said Second Schedule, to the intent that the said resolutions shall be binding on all the bondholders, whether present or not present at the meeting, to the following effect:

1. A resolution (a) providing for the creation and issue by the company of Prior Lien Bonds to an amount not exceeding £287,000, together with such further amounts as may be necessary (i) with the "available profits" of the company, as defined in the Composition Agreement (hereinafter referred to as "the Composition") between the company, the Brazil Railway Company, the bondholders and certain creditors and the shareholders of the company, of each of the financial years commencing with the year ending 31st December, 1919, and ending with the year ending on the 31st December, 1923, to pay the interest on the Prior Lien Bonds, and (ii) to pay the French fiscal charges and taxes (other than those assessable against the holders of the Prior Lien Bonds of the company as holders or owners thereof) to which such of the Prior Lien Bonds as for the time being are owned by the Brazil Railway Company or form part of the collaterals of any of its bond issues would be subject if originally issued in France be authorized such issue of Prior Lien Bonds to be made as to such part thereof as the board of the company may determine in dollars of the United States of America and repayable in such dollars as to such part thereof as the said board may determine in sterling repayable in sterling and as to such part thereof as the said board may determine in French francs repayable in French francs. All such Prior Lien Bonds to rank pari passu and to be secured by a first charge upon all the assets charged to secure the five per cent. First Mortgage Bonds of the company in priority to the charge for such last-mentioned bonds created by the above-mentioned Trust Deed (by postponing the security for the five per cent. First Mortgage Bonds to the security for the said Prior Lien Bonds and (c) authorizing and directing the Trustee to execute and concur in the execution of a Trust Deed to secure the said Prior Lien Bonds in the form of the draft that has been already prepared and which will be submitted to the meeting. Such resolution will be in substitution for and will cancel the resolution No. 3 passed at the meeting of the holders of the five per cent. First Mortgage Bonds, held on 15th October, 1919.

2. Approving of a modification of the Trust Deed securing the five per cent. First Mortgage Bonds and of the conditions endorsed or to be endorsed on such bonds by substituting in Clause 11 of such conditions the word "once" for the words "twice on two consecutive days" and substituting the words "in one newspaper published in London, England, and in one newspaper published in Brussels, Belgium," for the words commencing with "in The Times" and ending with the words "Company shall determine" and approving the insertion in the Supplemental Trust Deed, the draft of which was approved by resolution No. 4, passed at the said meeting held on the 15th October, 1919, before such deed is executed, of a clause to give effect to such modification and authorizing the said Trustee to execute and carry into effect such Supplemental Trust Deed as so modified.

(B) Approving and authorizing the Trustee under the above-mentioned Trust Deed securing the five per cent. First Mortgage Bonds to approve and give effect to, with or without modification, an agreement proposed to be entered into between the Brazil Railway Company of the first part, the Trustee for the Convertible Debenture Issue of that company of the second part, and the company of the third part, in the terms of the draft thereof which has been already prepared and which will be submitted to the meeting.

4. Authorizing and empowering the said Trustee to consent to any modifications which it may think fit to approve in the draft documents referred to in the foregoing paragraphs hereof.

Copies of the draft documents referred to in Paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 hereof may be inspected at the offices of Messrs. Binder, Hamlyn & Co., 80 Bishopsgate, LONDON, E. C. 2, at any time during usual business hours on any day prior to the meeting.

The draft of the Prior Lien Trust Deed referred to in Paragraph 1 hereof is in substitution for the draft deed of a similar nature which was approved at the said meeting held on the 15th October, 1919, but contains such modifications (inter alia) as are necessary to give effect to the agreement referred to in Paragraph 3 hereof and to the resolutions to be submitted to the meeting pursuant to this notice.

The proposed instrument referred to in Paragraph 3 hereof provides (inter alia) for the issue of Prior Lien Bonds of the company as to part thereof in U. S. Dollars repayable in U. S. Dollars as to part thereof in Sterling repayable in Sterling and as to part thereof in French Francs repayable in French Francs, and modifies the obligation of the Brazil Railway Company to provide the company with £1,300,000 by the subscription of Prior Lien Bonds at 95 per cent.

By order of the Board of Directors,
BRAZIL LAND, CATTLE AND PACKING COMPANY,
P. G. CHENE, Secretary.

Persons who produce at the meeting Bonds, or Voting Certificates in the form prescribed by and issued in accordance with the regulations mentioned below, will alone be entitled to attend and vote at the meeting.

In accordance with the regulations which have been made by the company, and approved by the Trustee under Paragraph 11 of the Second Schedule of the said Trust Deed of 1st November, 1911, Bondholders who desire to obtain Voting Certificates must deposit their bonds with the Bank or Trust Company which may be willing to accept the same and to issue in respect thereof Voting Certificates in the form prescribed by such regulations. Voting Certificates in the prescribed form can be obtained at the office of Messrs. Binder, Hamlyn & Co., aforesaid, 80 Bishopsgate, London, E. C., where the foregoing regulations can also be inspected. Voting Certificates must be duly signed in accordance with such regulations by the Bank or Trust Company with which the bonds are deposited.

Gray Goods Very Quiet.

Gray goods were very quiet in this market yesterday. Spot business was put through on 38½-inch 64-60s at 8¼ cents, but other printcloth sales of interest were few and far between. In the sheetings end of the trade buyers paid 7¼ cents for five-yard sheetings and 6¾ cents for 5.50s. The fine-yarn goods were "dead," and of the clothing styles the same thing was reported.

Spring Trimmings Are Varied.

Novel trimmings of French origin for Spring hats are exceedingly numerous this season. Among the various things shown so far in the advance offerings are flowers of scratch felt. The petals and the leaves of these blossoms are outlined with stitchings of silver thread, and the centres of the flowers are also of silver. Trailing clusters and wreaths of flowers are also seen, frequently arranged so that a thick cluster is banked at the back of the crown, on the brim, with long sprays dangling over the edge. Patent leather appears in the form of edgings and bindings, and also as flowers. It is seen in bright colors, as well as in the usual black. Yucca, a new coarse straw , and alpaca, which has much the appearance of horsehair, appear both as trimmings and as bodies of hats. Odd shapes in bright-hued woodeen beads trim several of the newest models seen here.

Waiting for New Gingham Prices.

Sellers of prints and percales in the primary market seem to be waiting for the repricing of ginghams with just as much interest as is manifested in this event by the jobbers. The reason is, of course, that the basis of the new prices on percales and prints will be very largely dependent upon what is done in the woven colored cottons. At least one effort has already been made to establish prices on the printed goods, but the feeling seems to prevail, at least among buyers, that an even greater general reduction is to be looked for when the time comes.

Shirt and Collar Readjustment.

Manufacturers of shirts and collars are looking forward hopefully to the January sales period, with the expectation of seeing the retailers establish prices which will increase the consumption of such merchandise. It is commonly felt in the wholesale trade that lower retail prices are overdue. Reports are current, too, that the turn of the year will see some further wholesale price revisions on both shirts and collars. This will hasten retail liquidation of existing stocks. The prediction is made that the public will soon see a very satisfactory shirt offered for $2, and that collars will also come down a bit.

A Credit Paradox.

A paradox in the present business situation which credit men see is that, if conditions during recent months had been better than they were, there would have been more failures. This is another way of saying that, because of the universal involvement in difficulties, it has not been possible to deal so severely with delinquent debtors. Credit managers, however, do not expect this state of things to continue, but are of the opinion that the present period is merely a breathing spell during which it will be determined just what concerns must be weeded out. In other words, a period of grace has been granted to debtors in general to work out their problems, but when it is over severer treatment will be dealt out.

If the Promises Were Fulfilled.

A garment wholesaler, who commented yesterday on the tactics being used by retail buyers to secure job lots of merchandise at very low prices, took occasion to state that if all the promises of future business given to manufacturers who agreed to furnish the sale merchandise were totalled the total represented would be enough to keep the factories going for the rest of the year. He criticised this practice in describing how general it had become. "While there are still large quantities of dress goods held in the market," he said, "the manufacturers do not wish to cut these materials up until the situation improves, and, consequently, there is not so large a surplus of desirable garments. The buyers know of the dress goods surplus and are using it to get their jobs by promising regular orders in the future. The manufacturers ought to realize that all these promises cannot be fulfilled, and therefore should not sacrifice their merchandise for glittering offers which will never be carried out."

See Healthier Silk Prospects.

Although the silk manufacturers are taking no orders to boast of, nevertheless there is a small business passing that gives them encouragement. This is more or less a demand of an immediate character, but it indicates that retail stocks are being liquidated and require filling in. The manufacturers are especially pleased with this development because an improvement is particularly desired before the coming exposition of silks and Silk Week. If there can be a readier sale of goods before that time the success of the project is definitely assured.

FINDS WILSON LACKS POWER TO BAR GRAIN

EXPLAINS PRICE DECLINES

Puts It to Foreign Buying, Big Crops, Contracted Credit and General Drop in Commodities.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (Associated Press).—The President is without power under existing law "to shut out wheat imports," but he "apparently has certain powers under the Lever act to stop future trading in wheat," the Federal Trade Commission says in a special report to President Wilson, made public today at the White House.

The commission says that, "while evidence is not available that future trading is responsible for the decline in wheat prices, it does not appear that future trading in wheat, as at present operating, is of indisputable service to the grain trade." It suggests, however, that if regulatory action is to be employed the question be considered by Congress and that legislation "not connected with war powers be enacted."

The commission tells the President that because of the failure of the Chicago Board of Trade to co-operate it was unable to obtain necessary information as to whether there had been large transactions in wheat futures of a manipulative character.

As to the concentrated purchases of wheat in this country by foreign Governments which have undertaken to regulate at home flour prices, irrespective of the price of wheat, the commission declares that if these purchases are to continue, "the desirability of the United States meeting them through a selling organization should be carefully considered."

The commission's report is based upon an investigation of the wheat situation which the President requested it to make last October after Governor Allen of Kansas and others had urged him to bar Canadian wheat importations and take such other action as necessary to stabilize the then rapidly declining wheat market.

Declaring "the decline of wheat prices would appear to be in part due to country-wide and world-wide conditions," the commission assigns seven specific causes: The outlook for an increased world supply, concentrated buying by foreign Governments last Spring and slack purchases later; "unprecedented" importations from Canada, following "an unprecedented yield and a discount in rate of exchange"; the record-breaking yield of corn in this country; the slackening of demand for flour; the general tendency to decline in many commodities and the change in credit conditions "with resulting disposition of distributers to refrain from accumulating usual stocks."

Discussing the barring of Canadian wheat, the commission says "it is questionable whether such a proceeding would have the effect its advocates expect, because the United States and Canada both have surpluses to export, and will meet each other in competition either here or in Europe."

While the commission devotes considerable space to a discussion of trading in wheat futures, it asserts that it is not now expressing an opinion on this subject, as it would give it "extended treatment" in a forthcoming report.

"Future contracts may have a legitimate use for 'hedging,'" the commission says. In this connection it is claimed that future trading performs the insurance function where ordinary insurance methods would not be practicable, and that undue restriction of future trading such as would deprive the grain trade of this service might result in grain dealers requiring larger margins, and consequently result either in lower prices to the farmer or highest prices to the consumer.

"Without now expressing an opinion on this subject, it appears that there is a large volume of future trading that is mere gambling and involves a great economic waste. The remedy for this lies in Congressional action to prevent trading which is essentially gambling.

Open $6,000,000 Astoria Gas Plant.

A huge new brick generator house, built by the Astoria Light, Heat and Power Company at Astoria, at a cost of $6,000,000 was put to use yesterday. The company is a subsidiary of the Consolidated Gas Company and its new unit will increase the capacity of the plant 30,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day. President George B. Cortelyou, of the Consolidated company, touched the button that started the new addition to making gas.

CLARA SMITH'S FATHER SAYS SHE IS IN MEXICO

He and His Wife Issue Statement About Girl Wanted in Case of Jake Hamon.

EL PASO, Texas, Dec. 20.—J. L. Smith, father of Clara Smith, who is wanted in Ardmore, Okla., in connection with the shooting of Jake L. Hamon, said today that he was assured that his daughter was safe in Mexico with his son, James, and that he believed they were in Chihuahua City.

Mrs. Smith, weeping, called for a reporter this morning and said the family had a statement to make on behalf of their daughter. The statement, as signed by Mr. and Mrs. Smith, says:

"The papers have been so full of lies we hardly know how to begin to deny all of them, so will just let the most of it go as it is. A few, very few, of the papers printed the lies maliciously, the others were just misinformed, so we do not mean to censure the press in general, please understand. The papers have tried so hard to make this affair a sensation, but in our opinion, if they had the facts in the case, it would have been far more sensational than the lies that have been printed, but it would have had quite a different coloring."

Belief was expressed in the statement that the daughter was hiding not because of guilt but to escape notoriety, and that she would soon return to answer all charges.

ARDMORE, Okla., Dec. 20.—Clara Smith, for whom a search has been conducted since Nov. 23, on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Jake L. Hamon, will be allowed to return of her own volition and stand trial in Carter County, it was stated today by Russell B. Brown, County Attorney. Mr. Brown said this would be his course of action if, after investigation, it was evident that she was not planning to avoid his agents.

F. D. ROOSEVELT'S NEW POST

He will Direct Fidelity and Deposit Company's New York Office.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29.—Franklin D. Roosevelt of Hyde Park, N. Y., Assistant Secretary of the Navy during the war and candidate for the Vice Presidency on the Democratic ticket in the last election, will assume charge of the New York office of the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland on Jan. 1.

The announcement that Mr. Roosevelt, member of a New York law firm, had been elected a Vice President of the company was made after a meeting of the Board of Directors here today. Mr. Roosevelt recently returned from a vacation in Louisiana.

After the announcement of Mr. Roosevelt's connection with the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, the company made public a statement in which he said:

"There is no doubt that the country is now passing through a period of business depression. Heavy losses will be met by American business before conditions are again stable. These losses naturally will cause business failures, but there will be no panic. Business is reconciled to the fact that stocks must be liquidated, even at a loss, and its acceptance of this condition may be seen today. Prices have declined and will probably go lower on some commodities. Production is curtailed, and the flow of goods from our factories will continue to diminish until the demand depletes the stock already offered for sale and assures the acceptance of new material at fair values.

"Throughout the country the purchase of necessities is postponed until the last minute. Buying of non-essentials has fallen even to a greater degree. This is being done with the hope and expectation of lower prices after January or Easter, or any other date which the consumer has accepted in his mind as the time when prices will be at their lowest level. This refusal to buy will undoubtedly have its effect upon prices, and Spring will find quotations in many lines greatly depressed. Yet, I cannot feel that the hope of these people will be entirely realized soon. It requires more than a few months for the vast industry and commerce of this country to resume prices which compare favorably with pre-war values."

SUES WOMAN WRITER.

Englishwoman Accuses Mary Boyle O'Reilly of False Statements.

BOSTON, Dec. 20.—Suit for $10,000 damages against Mary Boyle O'Reilly, daughter of the late John Boyle O'Reilly, poet and journalist, has been filed in the Federal Court here by Grace M. Ellison of London, England. The suit charges that Miss O'Reilly made false statements regarding Miss Ellison in writing to Miss Maxwell, Superintendent of the Presbyterian Hospital in New York, and that these statements caused Miss Ellison, then engaged in educational and philanthropic work, "grave financial loss and mental suffering." Property of Miss O'Reilly at Marshfield has been attached. No date has been set for a hearing.

Miss Ellison, according to the documents in the case, formerly was employed as secretary to Miss O'Reilly when the latter was in Europe as correspondent for a newspaper syndicate.

HELD FOR EMBEZZLEMENT.

Eastman Goes to Jail on Charges by Hercules Powder Company.

WILMINGTON, Del., Dec. 20.—Charged with embezzling securities belonging to the Hercules Powder Company, of which he was Assistant Treasurer, Charles F. Eastman, was today held in $50,000 bail for General Session. He was unable to furnish the bail and was committed to the New Castle County workhouse. While the amount of the alleged embezzlement was not mentioned in the warrant of arrest, officials of the powder company said it was about $36,000.

Eastman is a cousin of William Bush, Secretary-Treasurer of the Wilmington Savings Fund Society, who was arrested last week charged with embezzling $900,000 from the society. Eastman's alleged embezzlement, according to the charges against him, is said to be similar to that charged against Bush, who is accused of using securities to cover stock market margins.

K. of C. Auxiliary Wins Point.

ALBANY, Dec. 20.—The National Circle, Daughters of Isabella, originally organized as an auxiliary to the Knights of Columbus, won a point in its legal controversy with the National Order, Daughters of Isabella, when the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Second District, handed down a decision today reversing a decision of Judge Ray, and directed the District Court to issue an injunction restraining the other order from using the words "Daughters of Isabella."

Warn Smaller Cities Against Thugs.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 20.—Warning to merchants was issued by the police today to take precaution to guard against an expected influx of criminals driven out of larger cities. Side street jewelers were advised to arm themselves and department store managers advised to make hourly collections from store cashiers. Guards will be furnished to messengers carrying money in large sums.

Income Tax and Treasury Receipts.

Revenue from income and profits tax reported by the Treasury in its daily statement as actually received on December 15, the last day of payment, amounted to $221,183,774, as against $320,650,764 on the same day in 1919. During the month of December up to and including the last day for payment of these taxes receipts from that source were $821,839,421 this month, as compared with $434,466,415 in the same part of December, 1919.

COMMISSION ALLOWS BIG EXPRESS MERGER

TWO MEMBERS DISSENT

Decision Made on the Ground That Union Will Serve the Public Best.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Authority was granted today by the Interstate Commerce Commission for the permanent consolidation of the transportation business and properties of the Adams, American, Wells, Fargo & Co. and Southern Express Companies into the American Railway Express Company. The commission declared its belief that the public would best be served by one consolidated company serving all lines with equal rates.

The permit granted by the commission was based on an application filed by the four express companies last March. Hearings were held by the commission in August, representatives of the companies, shippers and the public appearing to present arguments.

The commission divided on the question of permitting the express consolidation effected by the Railroad Administration as a war measure to be made permanent. Commissioners McChord and Meyer dissented and presented a minority report written by the former.

The consolidation, the dissenting report asserted, "creates a monopoly" and "destroys every semblance of competition." The other members of the commission in their report declared that they were "of the opinion and find that the public interest will be promoted by the consolidation."

"It will now be practically impossible," declared the report written by Commissioner McChord, "for another company to enter the express business in competition with the consolidated express company. We can, of course, regulate the rates and certain practices of the American Railway Express Company, but we will have no control over its attitude toward the public. We cannot require it to render to the public that efficiency, courtesy and fair dealing which competition compels.

"It is my view that the time has come when the carriers should give serious consideration to the conducting of the express business themselves. That business has reached such proportions that it is now a parasite on the freight traffic of the railroads."

Commissioner McChord also dissented from the majority opinion in that the commission had the power to prescribe under what manner the consolidation may be effected and not merely grant its petition for a consolidation.

The report of the commission recited that with the outbreak of the war the express companies included in the present consolidation were formed into the American Railway Express Company and took over the express business of the country as the agent of the Director General of Railroads, and that while thirty-three States appeared to protest against the continuation of this combine, the protests were based on inadequate service performed by the joint express companies, which the consolidated company admits was poor, due to labor conditions.

The commission accepted the contention of the companies that service was performed more efficiently under the combined management than could have been possible under separate management. It ruled that suits pending against the various companies must be settled by the courts and by the Interstate Commerce Commission. While "deploring" the treatment accorded by certain express companies to claimants for damages and the practice of only accepting service in suits at their offices in New York, the commission held it could not pass upon that phase of the claim.

SAYS ALLEGED GAMBLER 'PAID FOR PROTECTION'

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Dec. 20.—Jules Formel, indicted by the Extraordinary Grand Jury on a charge of maintaining a gambling place here in the Summer of 1919, made $18,000 the first night he opened his place, according to the testimony of Deputy Sheriff Hovey, who related a conversation with Formel at the opening of the latter's trial before Justice Van Kirk and a jury today.

Hovey testified that Formel also told him he was compelled to "split" 35 per cent. of his profits with "some one" for protection. The name of the person whom Formel accused did not appear in the testimony.

The conversation with Formel took place after the alleged gambler was arrested in New York City and was being brought to the county jail at Ballston Spa.

The place at 210 South Broadway, of which Formel was alleged to be the proprietor, was raided on July 28, 1919, according to officers who were sworn regarding the details of the raid. They testified that at that time Formel admitted to them that he was the proprietor of the place and was responsible for anything that happened there.

The gambling paraphernalia was later taken to Police Headquarters, and its subsequent disappearance has resulted in several indictments by the Extraordinary Grand Jury. Formel and the others arrested were later released in City Court.

The trial will continue tomorrow.

Solomon Pincus Discharged.

Solomon Pincus of 1,678 St. John's Place, Brooklyn, a jeweler, who was arrested on suspicion of felonious assault after Louis A. Cerf, general agent of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Society, was found with a fractured skull at Greenwich and Cortlandt Streets last August, was discharged yesterday by Magistrate Charles E. Simms in the Tombs Court because of lack of evidence.

BLAMES COAL MIDDLEMEN.

Massachusetts Commission Finds They and Speculators Raise Prices.

BOSTON, Dec. 20.—Too many middlemen between the mine and the consumer and the practice of speculators of selling and buying back the same coal are the main reasons for the high cost of anthracite, according to a statement issued today by the Massachusetts Commission on Necessaries of Life. The statement was made in reply to inquiries by the United Improvement Association.

Chairman Eugene C. Hultman of the commission said that the cost of 75 per cent. of the output of anthracite coal at the mines was now $8 a ton. Coal companies operating independently, he said, were responsible for some coal getting into the possession of speculators.

"Transportation charges to Boston from the mines," he said, "amount to $4.75 by rail and $5.00 by tidewater. The ordinary channel of distribution is through a wholesaler, who takes a profit of 10 to 25 cents per ton. In some cases the wholesaler finds it necessary to assist the retailer in raising money to buy the coal, and wholesalers claim this profit, in view of the risk involved, to be only reasonable.

"The 'speculative coal' passes through the hands of several wholesalers, brokers or jobbers before it finally reaches the retailer."

BOARD OF APPEALS HEARINGS

Several Applications for Garage Permits to Be Heard Today.

The Board of Appeals will hold a public hearing this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Room 919, Municipal Building, on the following applications:

Jamaure Realty Corporation, to permit erection of five-story loft and factory at southwest corner Maure and Jamaica Avenues, Richmond Hill, Queens.

Alexander Baylies, architect, on behalf of George F. Johnson Trust, to erect two-story public garage at 21 to 27 Second Street, Manhattan.

Ebling, Magnuson & Kleinert, architects, on behalf of Constant Motor Service Corporation, to erect public garage at 437 to 483 Sixty-sixth Street, and 6,502 to 6,520 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn.

Walter B. Wills, architect, on behalf of Dietrich W. Kaatze, to extend a public garage at 7,801 to 7,809 Jamaica Avenue, corner Vanderveer Street, Woodhaven, Queens.

Many Westchester Mortgages.

During the first half of December an unusually large number of mortgages were filed with Register James K. Apgar of Westchester County at White Plains, and many thousands of dollars in mortgage taxes were paid.

A. Bendroth Brothers, manufacturers, of Port Chester filed a mortgage for $200,000 in favor of the Liberties Securities Corporation. The mortgage tax amounted to $1,000. The Oakmere Corporation gave a mortgage for $450,000 to the Merrill School of Mamaroneck. The mortgage tax amounted to $2,250. Three hundred other mortgages aggregating more than $700,000 were filed last week. The mortgage tax and recording fee collected on the $95,000,000 mortgage of the New Haven Railroad Company filed with Register Apgar aggregated more than $105,000.

$145,375 for Elckemeyer Realty.

The Elckemeyer mansion, which was at one time one of the show places of Westchester County, a three-story dwelling occupying the block front on the south side of Maple Street, between Willow and Linden Streets, sold for $11,600.

Sale in Ridge Street.

The two five-story tenement houses with stores, at 128 and 130 Ridge Street, near Stanton Street, have been sold by Joseph P. Day for the Maryland Casualty Company, Richard H. Thompson and David Stewart of Baltimore, as executors of the estate of Elisabeth Y. Thompson. The plot is 34 by 100 feet. The buyer was Abraham K. Fleschner. This property was held at $28,000.

Sale of Dwellings Tonight.

In the United States Theatre Building at 195th Street and Webster Avenue, Bronx, Joseph P. Day will sell at public auction this evening a number of private dwellings. The houses to be sold, with immediate possession, are 4,370-4,380 Katonah Avenue, 311-317, 321 and 323 East 240th Street, and 310-322 East 241st Street.

Bill to License Realty Brokers.

A bill to license real estate brokers will be introduced at Albany early in January. The bill will be discussed at tomorrow's meeting of the Long Island Real Estate Board, at the Hotel Boulevard.

Big Lease on the Bowery.

The building at 6 Chatham Square has been leased by J. Finkelstein & Son for a long term at an aggregate rental of $75,000 for the estate of David McClenahan. At present the building is occupied by a restaurant on the ground floor and a lodging house in the upper part. The lessees, a newly formed restaurant corporation, at the expiration of the present leases, will alter the building at a cost approximating $20,000. The same brokers also leased for the Canton Realty Company the store at 20 Bowery to Moe Millman, clothier.

Tenants Organize Companies and Buy Three Apartment Houses in Queens.

The three apartment houses located at 52 to 58, 60 to 66 and 70 to 76 Twenty-seventh Street, Jackson Heights, Elmhurst, L. I., have been purchased by the tenants from the Queensboro Corporation and will be owned and operated hereafter on the Jackson Heights plan of tenant ownership of apartments.

The three new tenant companies, incorporated for the purpose of taking title, have adopted a rental schedule of $20 per room for properties becoming temporarily vacant. It also has been decided to set aside earnings, above a 7 per cent. dividend, for the purposes of the creation of an amortization fund. The Queensboro Corporation will manage the properties for a period of ten years.

The incorporated tenant owners of the new apartment houses 82 to 88 Twenty-seventh Street and 92 to 96 Twenty-seventh Street have declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent., indicating an annual dividend of 8 per cent. The two companies have been in operation since May 1, title to the houses having passed on that date from the Queensboro Corporation to the tenant owners.

Deal in University Place.

The four-story business building at 126 University Place, on a plot 20 by 107 and irregular, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth Streets, has been sold by Cammann, Vorhees & Floyd to a buyer represented by Boardman Brothers. The owner of record was the Margaretta M. Ward estate.

Two Loans Aggregating $430,000.

A building loan of $400,000 has been made by William Henry Barnum & Co. on the twenty-story structure being erected at 17 to 23 West Sixtieth Street, occupying 73 by 100.5, just off Columbus Circle, by the American Bosch Magneto Company under the title of the Chicopee Realty Corporation. The loan is for one year, bearing 6 per cent. interest. The owners acquired the site in August of last year.

The Benenson Realty Company has made a building loan of $30,000 to the Brad Realty Company (I. Abramowitz, M. Buchter and W. M. Kurtz, Directors), on the plot 100 by 150, irregular, on the north side of Fordham Road, 100 feet east of Bathgate Avenue.

Private Dwelling Buyers.

The four-story dwelling at 37 West Seventy-first Street, lot 18 by 102.2, has been sold by the Houghton Company for the Marketable Title Company to a buyer for occupancy.

Dr. James I. Russell has purchased the residence he has been occupying at 37 East Sixty-first Street from Hedwig S. Beck. It is a four-story dwelling on a lot 19 by 100.5 and carries mortgages for $47,500.

Tenement Trading.

James H. Cruikshank, operator, resold to D. Weldhoff, 19 East 110th Street, a five-story tenement on a lot 25 by 100. J. A. Wood negotiated the sale, the property being held at $30,000.

The Stebbins Realty and Construction Company bought from the Metropolitan Savings Bank the five-story tenement, with stores, at 2,458 Second Avenue, southeast corner of 126th Street, on a lot 19.11 by 100.

Jacob Houbert sold to Florence Ritter and Bessie Bachrach the five-story tenement, with stores, at 344 First Avenue, 22.6 by 58, near Twentieth Street.

Bank Lease in Central Zone.

The Loton H. Slawson Company has leased for a term of years, at a new record rental for the district, the store and basement in the new building at 300 Madison Avenue, northeast corner of Forty-first Street, to the Metropolitan Bank of Fourth Avenue and Twenty-third Street. The premises will be used as a branch bank.

The Bronx Market.

The dwelling at 3,718 Dyer Avenue has been sold by Meister Builders to Irwin F. Kahn, also 3,726 Dyer Avenue to William J. White and 3,711 Rombouts Avenue to Giuseppe Guarnieri.

Estelle M. Allison sold to the Walker Memorial Profit Sharing Corporation the three-story dwellings at 848 to 852 Morris Avenue, 60 by 100.

The Hudson P. Rose Company resold to Henry Ruhrs the three-story house at 740 East 133d Street, 16.8 by 100.

Otto Markuske, as executor, sold for $7,000 to John Christ the two-story dwelling at 570 East 134th Street, 17 by 100.

Activity in Brooklyn.

Charles E. Rickersen sold 87-89 Sterling Place, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, a three-story brownstone dwelling, with a plot adjoining 25 by 100, for the Talbensor Realty Corporation to a client.

Joseph P. Day sold for Levy Brothers, the two-family house at 1,152 Fifty-third Street, to C. Coppelman.

Realty Notes.

The Duross Company states that no option was given by the Beadleston & Woerz Empire Brewery Company to the Reynolds-Whitney Warehouse Company, (lessees of the structures at 158-168 Charles Street) to lease the balance of the brewery property at 674-676 Washington Street and 287-303 West Tenth Street.

President LaGuardia of the Board of Aldermen will address the members of the Bronx Board of Trade at its monthly meeting tomorrow evening.

COURT HOUSE ASHES COST CITY $57,000

SAYS BID WAS INDEPENDENT

Board Recommends Cancelling of Heating Contract for Public School 3 in Queens.

The cost to the city of the removal of ashes from the Court House site was estimated at $57,000 by John J. Hagerty of Rodgers & Hagerty, who have the contract for excavation and foundation of the Court House, in testimony before the Board of Estimate in its investigation of city contracts yesterday. This figure was fixed by Mr. Hagerty in reply to questions by Mayor Hylan, who apparently wanted to make it clear that Samuel Untermyer, counsel of the Lockwood commitee, in recommending that the city bring suit against Holland & Co. and Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, for $400,000, had exaggerted the loss caused the city by using the Court House site as a dumping ground.

Nothing was shown by the examination of Mr. Hagerty that there had been anything improper either in his bid or in the award of the contract. Mr. Hagerty said in reply to questions that the bid was his own independent bid, had never been submitted to anyone outside his firm, that he had never talked about it to the Mayor or Controller and that he did not consider the price excessive.

Upon recommendation of Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien, the Board of Estimate recommended cancellation by the Board of Education of the contract for heating and ventilating Public School 3, Queens, held by Phillip & Paul, on the ground that, by its connection with John T. Hettrick, author of the "Code of Practice," the firm had engaged in what amounted to collusive bidding.

Seven plumbing contractors were examined and their testimony indicated that although Hettrick succeeded in getting the Master Plumbers' Association of Manhattan to adopt the "Code of Practice" and in getting many of its members to join his arrangement to submit bids, he did not have the same success in Brooklyn and Queens.

Joseph A. Graf of Brooklyn said the Brooklyn Master Plumbers' Association had never passed such a resolution, but that he had gone on invitation to Hettrick's office with two Brooklyn associates and had heard Hettrick explain how he intended to "remedy evils" in the plumbing trade. Mr. Graf said he understood that the Hettrick code called for the submission of bids for the purpose of being checked and for the payment of a percentage.

"We were not interested and told Hettrick we would let him know later," Mr. Graf said. "I never had any more communication with him."

Similar testimony was given by Nicholas Nehrbauer, Jr., of Queens, who said he had refused to join the Hettrick arrangement.

Albert F. Deichsel of 584 East 169th Street, the Bronx, admitted a connection with Hettrick and refused to answer several questions on the ground that to do so might "tend to degrade or incriminate" him. He finally said that Hettrick had told him that the plumbers were not receiving enough compensation for their work and that he could educate them into getting a fair and reasonable profit.

SEARCH CONTINUED FOR LOST BALLOON

Word That It Had Been Sighted in the Catskills Doubted by the Navy.

Telegrams that the balloon had been sighted at points in the Catskill Mountains were received yesterday by the Navy Department in Washington, but officials there placed little credence in them. They said they were directing the search on the assumption that the airship had passed into Canada. While satisfied that the weather conditions obtaining during the seven days of the flight were such that it was not likely the A-5598 had been carried out to sea, Washington officials were at a loss to understand why, if a landing had been made, the aviators had not been able to get into communication with the department.

At the office of the State Conservation Commission in Albany it was announced last night that the game protectors and forest rangers had continued their search of the Adirondack country for the missing balloon and aviators. A De Haviland army plane, which has been assigned to assist the navy, left the State capital for Glens Falls to take up the work. Lieutenant F. B. Johnson, the pilot, will conduct a systematic search for the missing balloonists, who were last heard of near the village of Wells, in Hamilton County.
